SLUGGER BLAMES GENTLEMAN FOR MALLOY'S DEATH

"Bob" Lynch Tells Victim's Sister Man Slain by Enright Killed Brother.

'I SAW THE MURDER,' HE SAYS

Police Expect to Tighten Net on Actual Slayer of Steamfitter Soon.

"MOSS" FIGHTS FOR FREEDOM

Miss Josephine Malloy, sister of Bernard P. Malloy, who was shot to death by labor "gun men" on April 27, yesterday faced one of the alleged members of the gang who killed her brother and positively identified his voice as that of the man who lured her brother to the saloon of Martin Moody, at Fifty-ninth and State streets, where the young steamfitter was given his mortal wound.

"Bob" Lynch, the man the young woman declared had a hand in her brother's death, listened, pale and diffident, to her arraignment in the Englewood police station, and in response to repeated queries from Miss Malloy and her sister, Mrs. John McBurney, finally admitted that he was drinking with her brother in Moody's the night Bernard was shot. Lynch also declared he knew the murderer.

"The fellow who shot your brother is dead," he said, with lowered eyes. "It was 'Dutchy' Gentleman, and that's all I know."

Gentleman Scapegoat Again.

Capt. Morgan Collins and detectives who heard the reply smiled at Lynch's words, for they knew that at the same time in the Criminal Court building friends of Maurice ("Mossy") Enright, alleged leader of the "gun men," were trying to obtain his release on bail for the murder of Vincent Altman by declaring that the same "Dutchy" Gentleman had killed Altman. Gentleman himself was murdered by the "gun men" a month ago, and Enright has made a "confession" that he killed Gentleman in self-defense.

But the police believe that the admission of Lynch that he was present at the time of the shooting and his identification as the man who sent the telephone death call to Malloy will result in the roundup, probably today, of the entire gang responsible for Malloy's death. Malloy's relatives already had informed the police that the young steamfitter, before his death, had made a statement implicating James O'Connor, alias "Deanie" Connors, Walter Stevens, and Lynch in the fatal shooting. At least one other man is known by the police to have been implicated.

O'Brien and Hunt Confer.

Inspector O'Brien and Inspector Hunt, who has been handling the other slugging cases, held a conference in the afternoon and it is believed that murder warrants will be issued today. Lynch was taken into custody early yesterday and Miss Malloy and her sister were summoned to the Englewood station to confront the prisoner. It was Miss Malloy who answered the telephone the night her brother was lured to his death.

"Would you recognize the voice of the man who called for your brother that night?" Capt. Collins asked the young woman.

"I'm sure I would," she said, "because of its peculiar quality and the way he drawled out his words." Capt. Collins took down the telephone in his office and got connection with an instrument upstairs, where the prisoner was.

"Now talk to the man we are putting on the other end of the line," the captain told the young woman.

"Hello," said Miss Malloy through the transmitter.

"Hello, hello," called back Lynch from the other end of the line, then adding, with sudden suspicion, "Why, that's a lady on the other end; I ain't going to talk to her."

Lynch then was brought down before the two women and the captain introduced him to them. During the formality Lynch's beady black eyes shifted from side to side toward the floor, but never once were they raised to meet those of the two women.

Evades Questioner's Eyes.

"Mr. Lynch," Miss Josephine said, "didn't you telephone to our house on April 27 for my brother?"

"No, I never called up your house," the man answered sullenly.

"Didn't you call up and ask for Bernie Malloy?" the girl said insistently, striving with her level blue eyes to meet the shifty black ones of the prisoner.

"No, I never did, I tell you," he answered.

"That man's voice is the same that called over the telephone on the day that 'Bernie' went to his death," the young woman said in a quiet voice to the police.

Then she turned again to the prisoner and demanded to know why, if he was present when her brother was shot, he didnt come and tell her and the other members of the family of the victim, why he had hidden his knowledge of the crime, why he had allowed the police to go out on wild clews, and why, if he was innocent, he had hidden all the circumstances of the crime.

The questions came in a torrent, and at every pause the married sister of the dead man interposed other questions.

Lynch's replies were mumbled monosyllables for the most part, except his declaration that "Dutch" Gentleman was the man who rushed in and shot her brother. The others who came with the slayer he declared he did not recognize, and finally in desperation at the insistent catechizing said:

"Why, I was struck myself by one of the men who assaulted your brother. I was

WATERWAY BILL NOW IN SENATE

Introduced Near Midnight After Oglesby's Attempt to Prevent It by Use of the Gavel.

TRIES PLAN OF ADKINS.

Declares Body Adjourned, but the Members Overrule Him and Hold Later Session.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., June 27, 1 a. m.—[Special.]—Lieut. Gov. Oglesby resorted to Speaker Adkins' methods yesterday afternoon to prevent the introduction of the waterway bill. But he was unsuccessful.

A roll call early in the session showed only twenty-two members present. It takes twenty-six to form a quorum. Senator McIlvain, an original supporter of Lorimer for the United States senate, moved to adjourn.

There was a clamor of many senators for a roll call on the motion, but Oglesby ignored it. He put the motion and, rapping the desk with his gavel, declared the senate adjourned. This arbitrary action almost caused a riot of protest.

President pro tem of the senate, Senator Henry M. Dunlap of Champaign county, obtained the gavel from Lieut. Gov. Oglesby in the room of the lieutenant governor following Oglesby's refusal to proceed with further business and called the senate to order. There was a roll call on the McElvain motion, which registered one vote for adjournment and nineteen against it. This was six less than a constitutional quorum of the senate. Whereupon a recess of the senate was taken until 11:30 o'clock pending the arrival of sufficient senators to make up the quorum.

Scene Borders on a Riot.

The scenes in the senate were bordering on the riotous. One moment Senator Walter Clyde Jones, shaking his fist under the nose of the lieutenant governor, exclaimed that a repetition of such tactics would mean a riot in the senate.

"And I will lead the riot, too!" Senator Jones shouted, with a few trimmings, which caused the lieutenant governor to call the Hyde Park senator sharply to order.

The senate passed the Johnson waterway bill and went home last week under a "gentleman's agreement" that when the presence of the senators was necessary in Springfield again they should be summoned by telegraph. The failure of the house on Friday to pass the Johnson bill necessitated the attendance of the senators at the session called at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Oglesby says summons went to each senator.

Soon after the senate convened Senator Isely of Newton, Democrat and anti-waterway, immediately raised the point of no quorum. Oglesby had the roll called and twenty-two senators responded. Three others—Henson of Decatur, Ball of Chicago, and Telford of Centralia—were in the capitol but not in the chamber.

Senator McElvain, Lorimer Republican from Murphysboro, at once moved to adjourn, while Senator Johnson was on his feet attempting to get recognition for the purpose of reintroducing the Deneen waterway bill.

Adjourns by Gavel's Rap.

Senaors Hurburgh, Dunlap, and Olson insist they were on their feet demanding a roll call, for which the demand of two senators is necessary. The lieutenant governor would not grant a roll call and declared the McElvain motion carried and the senate adjourned. He immediately retired to his private office, carrying the gavel with him. Practically the entire membership present rushed into the office of the lieutenant governor and demanded that he reconvene the senate and permit a roll call. He said he would not do so.

President Pro Tem. Dunlap suggested that the gavel be turned over to him and that the senate meet again.

"Here's the gavel," said Oglesby. "Go as far as you like."

The belligerent senators returned to the senate chamber where Senator Dunlap announced officially as president pro tem. that the senate had not adjourned under the McElvain motion, inasmuch as a demand for a roll call had been constitutionally made and refused, and ordered a roll call. McElvain was not there to vote for his own motion and the only vote cast for it was by Senator James Henson, one of the senators in 1909 who switched to Lorimer on the final roll call on the senatorship. His vote was cast after a caustic tirade directed against Gov. Deneen. A recess was then ordered until 11:30 p. m.

Three Bills Introduced.

Senator Hurburgh introduced a separate bill providing for the salaries of the waterway commissioners.

All three were advanced to second reading without reference.

The big fight over the $500,000 amendment will begin at 10 a. m., to which hour the senate adjourned at 11:55.

Lieut. Gov. Oglesby was not present, and President Pro Tem. Dunlap presided.

The twenty-six present were Andrus, Bailey, Barr, Beall, Burton, Chamberlain, Cornwell, Dailey, Dunlap, Ettelson, Funk, Glackin, Gorman, Helm, Hurburgh, Johnson, Jones, Juul, Landee, McElvain, O'Connor, Olson, Potter, Telford, Waage, and Womack.

At 11:35 twenty-six senators had been rounded up and the senate proceeded to business. Three bills were introduced.

Senate bill No. 5, introduced by Senator Johnson, is the administration's bill, passed by the senate and defeated in the house.

Senate bill No. 7, introduced by Senator Jones, is purely a conservation measure, providing a commission of five with power to expend not to exceed $500,000 and report to the next general assembly.

Attempt to Kill the Bill.

The evident intention of Lieut. Gov. Oglesby in arbitrarily adjourning the senate was to prevent the passage of the waterway bill. It was necessary for it to be introduced in the senate on Monday, to be read a second time today, and to pass the senate tomorrow. This will give it time to be rushed through the house before July 7 unless Speaker Adkins devises a way to delay it.

The Johnson bill is due for trouble at all angles and its first bad jolt came when the lieutenant governor permitted the technical constitutional point of no quorum to prevail and thus stop the introduction of the bill.

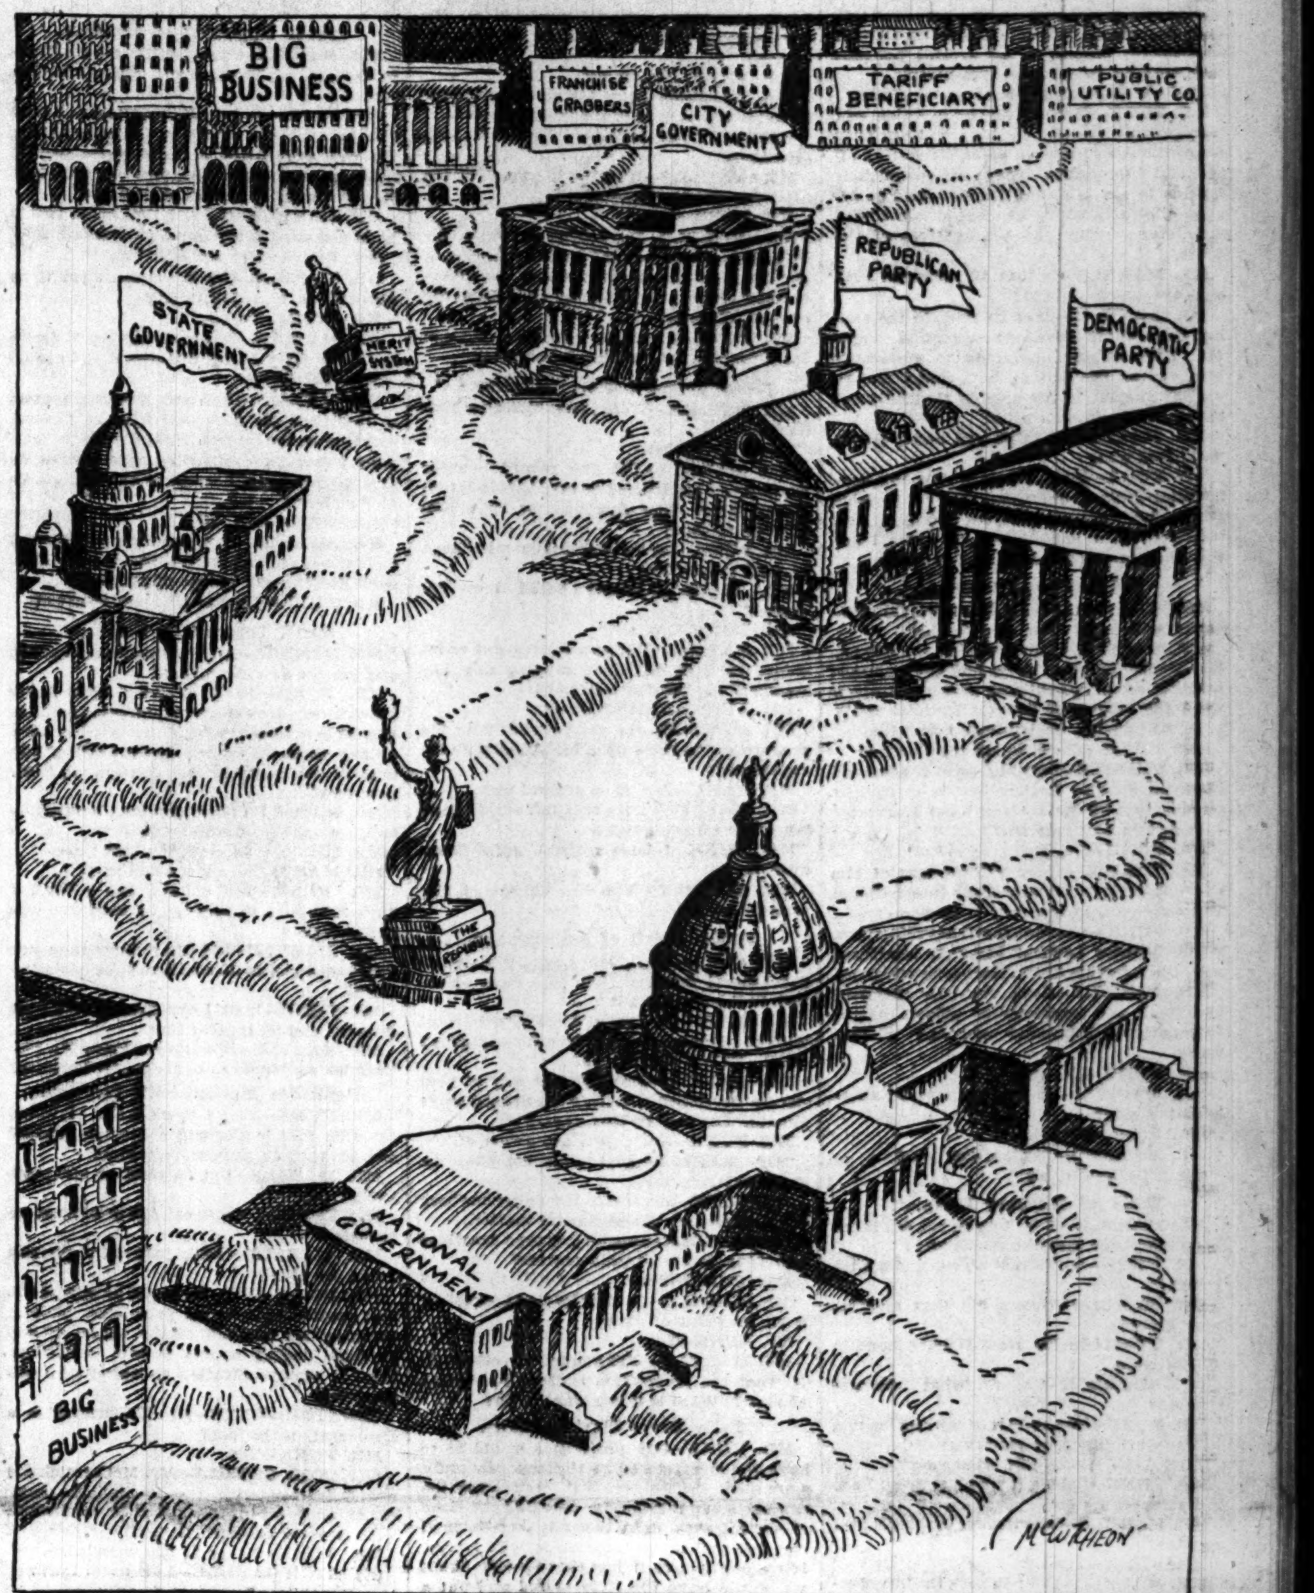
LORIMERISM.



FUNK, AS WITNESS EXPOSING HINES, TELLS OF THREATS

Says Four Detectives Have Shadowed Him Ever Since He Entered Lorimer Case.

ASKED TO DONATE $10,000

Request of Lumberman That Aid Be Given in Refunding $100,000 Told to Committee.

EXPLAINS HIS SILENCE AT FIRST

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—Clarence S. Funk, general manager of the International Harvester company, threw a bomb into the Hines-Lorimer camp before the senate investigating committee late this afternoon.

Questioned by Senator Kenyon, Mr. Funk declared that since his name had become known as a witness in the Lorimer case he has received threatening anonymous letters, threatening telephone communications, and has been shadowed by four detectives, both in Chicago and Washington.

Mr. Funk charged that at least one of the detectives, who had followed him in Chicago and in Washington, reported every night to Edward Hines.

He spoke of the humiliating surveillance to which he had been subjected for the last five months, without heat and with a dispassionateness that convinced his auditors to the truth of his statements. He said that during the day two of the detectives had been in the committee room, having shadowed him from the Willard hotel, where he stops. He searched the room to identify the men, but they had disappeared.

Tells Name of Detective.

However, to make his charges more definite, he told the committeemen in confidence the name of one of the detectives and said he was employed by the Thiele Detective company of Chicago and that if the committee desired he could produce him as a witness.

Nothing more sensational could have occurred or brought more sharply home to the senate committee the scandalous character of the case they are investigating. It established the desperate measures to which the Lorimer-Hines combination has resorted in order to prevent the production of, or to destroy the value of evidence as to the existence of bribery and corruption in connection with the Lorimer election.

Mr. Funk did not speak of what he termed his "unpleasant experiences" until after his direct examination and cross-examination were concluded. Then Senator Kenyon began to ask him questions as to the existence of the "jackpot," of which the witness had knowledge no doubt, but as to the contributors to which he could give no information.

Threats Described by Funk.

Then he remarked he had been subjected to numerous unpleasant experiences since his name was mentioned before the Helm committee by H. H. Kohlsaat, editor and publisher of the Chicago Record-Herald.

"I have received threats over the telephone," he said. "I have had anonymous letters. I have been followed frequently at night—in fact, everywhere I have gone since I appeared in this matter. This is true since I appeared in Washington. I have talked with one of the men who followed me. This man is here. He confessed he was following me, was hired for the purpose, hired by him"—he looked directly at Edward Hines. "He was sent here by a detective agency. He gave me his name in confidence. I have his name and address."

Senator Kenyon asked the name of the firm by which the detective said he was employed.

"The Thiele Detective company of Chicago," responded the witness."

Four Men on the Job.

"There are four men on the job in Washington," he continued. "I have descriptions of all of them. I can produce the man I talked with before the committee if you desire."

Replying to further questions, Mr. Funk said:

"This man has followed me about Chicago and watched my house at night. I recognized the man the moment I saw him in Washington, as having been on the job in Chicago. I followed him here this morning."

Mr. Funk explained to the committee that he forced the detective to reveal his business and connections by getting him in an uncomfortable position.

"I put him in a sweatbox," he said, "and he confessed he had been hired to follow me or get something on me, and that he was not proud of his job and disliked it very much and felt mean about it."

Attorney W. J. Hynes, counsel for Edward Hines, clamored for the name of the detective.

"Put Mr. Hines on the stand," urged Funk, "and ask him if this man did not send representatives to him every night."

Knows Employer of Sleuth.

Mr. Hanecy, counsel for Senator Lorimer, backed by Mr. Hynes, demanded further information.

"He has given me the name of his employer," replied Funk. "He is not Senator Lorimer."

There was a consultation on the part of the committee to decide whether or not Mr. Funk should be compelled to reveal the name of the detective he had caught. No agreement apparently being possible, the committee retired to a private room for a conference.

When the hour of 5:30 arrived, the time fixed for the daily adjournment, the committee suddenly returned to the room where the conferences are held, and Chairman Dillingham announced that a recess would be taken until tomorrow at 10 o'clock, when it would be stated whether Mr. Funk would have to reveal the name. There is reason to believe that measures have been taken to reach the man and be may be put on the stand without delay.

Repeats Talk with Hines.

The effect of Mr. Funk's revelation undoubtedly will be to give greater weight to the testimony which he gave today. He swore that five or ten days after the election of Senator Lorimer he was standing in the lounging room of the Union League club, when Mr. Hines approached him. His testimony as to the conversation follows:

"'Hello,' Hines said, 'You are just the man I was looking for,' or 'that I wanted to see.'

"We walked off toward the end of the room to the nearest couch and sat down on the couch. He (Hines) seemed to be feeling rather exuberant at the time. And he said:

"'Well, we put Lorimer over down at Springfield; but it cost us $100,000 to do it,' or 'about $100,000.' Then he went on to explain that they had to act quickly when the time came and did not have any time to consult anybody. And he said: 'So we put up the money. Now we are seeing some of our friends to get the matter fixed up.'"

$10,000 Set as Donation.

Attorney Marble, for the committee, asked what else occurred.

"I inquired along about that time," Funk answered, "how much he was getting from his different friends, and he said:

"'Well, we can only go to a few big people, but if ten of us would put up $10,000 apiece we would clean it up.'

"I asked him why he came to me, and he said:

"'Because you are as much interested as anybody in having the right kind of a man in Washington.'

"I told him we would not have anything to do with the matter. He wanted to know why, and I said:

"'Because we are not in that kind of business.'

"He undertook to argue the matter a little, repeating in substance what he had said before. I think he undertook to convince me that Senator Lorimer was a good man, and all that sort of thing, but I was anxious to terminate the conversation at that time, and arose, and he arose with me, and we parted."

Relates Mention of Tilden.

Pressed by Mr. Marble, Mr. Funk said he disliked to bring in the name of a man simply on Hines' statement. At the same time he admitted Mr. Tilden's name was used before the conversation was finished. Hines told him, he said:

"'Just send the money to Ed Tilden,' assuming that we were going to send it, of course."

Mr. Funk said no other names were mentioned in the conversation and he expressed the opinion that, in believing he had suggested Roger Sullivan, E. S. Conway, and one of the Weyerhaeusers as the "friends" Hines had seen Mr. Kohlsaat had confused the talk he had had with him with a conversation held with another person. He insisted Mr. Tilden's was the only name mentioned by Hines.

The committee questioned Mr. Funk closely as to what he thought Hines meant by saying the International Harvester company was interested in having "the right kind of a man" in Washington.

"He was the right kind of a man for men who are able to pay $10,000 apiece?" asked Senator Kern.

"That was the impression I got," answered Funk, "although he did not say so."

Funk said he considered it impertinent for Hines to solicit him for a contribution, but he was not surprised because that sort of thing comported with his general impression of the man.

"My observation has been that he was a loose talker," he said, "a man quite inclined to boast of his achievements; quite disposed to be familiar on short acquaintance, and quite anxious to have people think he was a large factor in large matters."

Mr. Funk related his second conversation with Hines when the latter came to his office considerably "agitated" and in substance "undertook to refresh my memory as to what our previous conversation had been."

Hines said he did not want to be misunderstood as to the talk they had had, "that he had not meant to say that any money was used, but that he was only discussing with me in a general way the situation down there, and he got to thinking about it afterwards and thought I might not have understood it and he was back to clear it up for me."

Second Talk After Editorial.

"The second conversation occurred last February about the time of the publication of the Record Herald editorial charging that $100,000 had been spent in Lorimer's election."

Mr. Funk further observed, in answer to a question, that he knew of no connection between Hines and Tilden other than he had noticed here in Washington "that the gentlemen seem to be friendly and together more or less, which would indicate that they are well acquainted."

Because of the seriousness of the charge against him, Edward Hines was permitted by the court to be present during Funk's testimony. He sat behind his counsel, and Senator Lorimer sat some distance away next to his attorney. Mr. Funk said he had known Hines for three or four years, but that their acquaintance was not and never had been intimate.

A dull red flush appeared on Senator Lorimer face when Mr. Funk said that on one occasion, when Hines asked him and Harold McCormick to meet the senator, they "looked out of the window," but finally consented to do so. Neither Funk nor the International Harvester company had any feeling against Lorimer or Hines.

Text of Funk's Testimony.

In replies to questions by Attorney Marble, Mr. Funk sketched the history of his life and his duties as general manager of the Harvester company. The examination then continued as follows:

MR. MARBLE—Do you have charge of any political activities for that business?

MR. FUNK—As I am deemed generally responsible for the business, I keep an eye on what political activities there are, which are not much. As general manager of the company, my attention is called to any legislation which would affect the interests of the company.

MR. MARBLE—Have you been engaged in work before state legislatures on behalf of the International Harvester company?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—Have you directed others in such work?

MR. FUNK—I have occasionally sent bills and had correspondence with attorneys who were looking to such legislation.

MR. MARBLE—Does the International Harvester company maintain any lobbyists at any state legislature?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—Has it ever done so to your knowledge?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—How about the national congress in that regard?

MR. FUNK—We have never had a lobbyist here.

MR. MARBLE—Have you had attorneys here?

MR. FUNK—Yes.

MR. MARBLE—Just how do you distinguish between a lobbyist and an attorney?

MR. FUNK—Well, my conception of a lobbyist is one who lobbies. An attorney is one who gives professional attention to legitimate matters that may be placed in his hands.

MR. MARBLE—Have you had men before the state legislatures who had money to distribute in exchange for votes?

MR. FUNK—Never to my knowledge.

MR. MARBLE—Or business favors?

MR. FUNK—Not to my knowledge.

MR. MARBLE—Or political support?

MR. FUNK—Not that I recall.

Company Not Campaign Giver.

MR. MARBLE—Does the International Harvester company contribute to campaign funds?

MR. FUNK—As a company, no, sir.

MR. MARBLE—Or any of its subsidiary corporations?

MR. FUNK—I never heard of such a case.

MR. MARBLE—Does it compensate its stockholders for such contributions made by them?

MR. FUNK—Not that I know of.

MR. MARBLE—You would know it if it were done?

MR. FUNK—I would.

Mr. Funk did not care to say how much stock of the company he owns, but Attorney Marble drew from him the admission that it is less than $500,000.

MR. MARBLE—Do you know Senator Lorimer?

MR. FUNK—I do.

MR. MARBLE—How long have you known him?

MR. FUNK—Probably a year or a year and a half.

MR. MARBLE—Since his election as senator?

MR. FUNK—Yes.

Never Supporter of Lorimer.

MR. MARBLE—Were you personally acquainted wtih him before his election?

MR. FUNK—I think not.

MR. MARBLE—What has been your political relations with Senator Lorimer?

MR. FUNK—I have none.

MR. MARBLE—Have you been one of his supporters?

MR. FUNK—No, sir.

MR. MARBLE—Have you engaged in the campaigns against him?

MR. FUNK—No, sir.

MR. MARBLE—Have you discussed him?

MR. FUNK—Yes.

MR. MARBLE—Well, what sentiments toward him have you expressed or did you express previous to his election as senator?

MR. FUNK—I do not recall any particular sentiments. I suppose I have discussed Senator Lorimer as every other man in Illinois has from time to time, in connection with the general political situation in the state.

Never Opposed Lorimer Personally.

MR. MARBLE—Have you expressed yourself as opposed to him?

MR. FUNK—Well, my best recollection is I have confined my talks about him to a general discussion of the situation in the state. I have always tried to avoid saying anything personal about the gentleman, so far as I could.

MR. MARBLE—Did you discuss Senator

Lorimer with Mr. Hinman, the editor of the Chicago Inter Ocean, on any occasion?

MR. FUNK—I do not recall that we ever discussed Senator Lorimer.

MR. MARBLE—Do you recall any estrangement with Mr. Hinman on account of your discussion of Senator Lorimer?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—You say that you haven't expressed yourself in Mr. Hinman's presence as opposed to Senator Lorimer in such terms as to give Mr. Hinman offense, and estrange him from you?

MR. FUNK—I have not the slightest recollection of ever having done so.

MR. MARBLE — Do you know of any estrangement between yourself and Mr. Hinman?

Tells Break with Hinman.

MR. FUNK—There was, two or three years ago, one case in which Mr. Hinman was not particularly pleased at my actions, but that had nothing to do with this matter.

SENATOR JONES—What was it about?

MR. FUNK—It was a matter in which, as I recall, some friends of mine in New York thought his attitude on a matter not at all political was unfair. They sent one of their friends to see him, but I understand he became violently angry at what he considered interference with the prerogatives of the press.

MR. MARBLE—Is that Mr. Hinman that you are talking about?

MR. FUNK—Yes, and he thought the man had been sent to him at my suggestion. I saw Mr. Hinman and undertook to straighten him out on the matter, but found him so violent and set in his opinion that I did not spend much time on him.

MR. MARBLE—I think you better tell us what that was.

MR. FUNK—Well, I regard that as a confidential matter, one which has no possible connection with this case, one in which I was consulted in a confidential—in which I approached him in a confidential capacity.

Did Not Regard Lorimer.

THE CHAIRMAN—I do not think the committee will press that any further.

MR. MARBLE—Very well, but you do say, Mr. Funk, that you never had any unpleasantness, social or personal, with Mr. Hinman upon the subject of Senator Lorimer or his political friends or political activities.

MR. FUNK—Never to my recollection.

MR. MARBLE—Do you regard or have you regarded Senator Lorimer as an antagonist or opponent of the International Harvester company in any matters?

MR. FUNK—No, sir.

MR. MARBLE—Have you thought of him as an obstacle in the way of the International Harvester company or any of its firms?

MR. FUNK—I cannot recall anything upon which Senator Lorimer has ever interfered with the interests of the Harvester company.

MR. MARBLE—Have you ever discussed him with the attorneys or officers of the International Harvester company in that way?

MR. FUNK—No, sir.

MR. MARBLE—As being a man who was opposing you?

MR. FUNK—No, sir.

MR. MARBLE—Or attacking you?

MR. FUNK—No, sir.

Tells of Meeting Lorimer.

MR. MARBLE—How long do you say it has been since you met him personally?

MR. FUNK—O, I think a year and a half, possibly.

MR. MARBLE—Where did that meeting take place?

MR. FUNK—In the New Willard hotel in Washington.

MR. MARBLE—Under what circumstances?

MR. FUNK—To the best of my recollection it was during a deep waterway convention.

THE CHAIRMAN—Of what year?

MR. FUNK—I think it was last year; I am not sure.

MR. MARBLE—Was it since his election as senator?

MR. FUNK—Yes.

MR. MARBLE—Did you seek the introduction to him?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—Did he seek an introduction to you?

MR. FUNK—No.

Hines Brings Them Together.

MR. MARBLE—It came casually in the meeting of men.

MR. FUNK—No, it was brought about.

MR. MARBLE—By whom?

MR. FUNK—By Mr. Hines.

MR. MARBLE—Did Mr. Hines ask you to be introduced to Senator Lorimer?

MR. FUNK—Yes.

MR. MARBLE—Tell us briefly.

MR. FUNK—Well, the circumstances were these. I was standing in the lobby of the New Willard hotel with Harold McCormick who, as I recall, was a delegate to the deep waterways convention. We were talking with some gentlemen and Mr. Hines came up and shook hands with both of us and said: "O, by the way, Senator Lorimer is upstairs and I want you men to meet him."

MR. MARBLE—What did you say?

MR. FUNK—Well, I looked at Mr. McCormick and he looked at me, and we both looked out of the window and I waited for him to say something and he waited for me.

MR. MARBLE—Finally what was decided upon?

MR. FUNK—It resulted in Mr. Hines taking us to the elevator and our going up and being introduced to Senator Lorimer.

Did Not Seek Introduction.

MR. MARBLE—He had come with Mr. Hines?

MR. FUNK—Yes; he was in his room in the hotel.

MR. MARBLE—Had you ever requested Mr. Hines to secure you this introduction?

MR. FUNK—Never.

MR. MARBLE—Not in the Union League club in Chicago?

MR. FUNK—No, sir.

MR. MARBLE—You are sure of that?

MR. FUNK—That is my best recollection.

MR. MARBLE—Did you ever have any business relations with Senator Lorimer?

MR. FUNK—No, sir.

MR. MARBLE—Are you interested——

MR. FUNK—(Well, pardon me one minute. My answer to that might be misleading. I don't know whether you would consider a talk on the telephone about the appointment of a cadet to be a business dealing or not. I did have such a talk.

MR. MARBLE—When?

MR. FUNK—I think it was about a year ago.

MR. MARBLE—Who sought that interview?

One Talk with Lorimer.

MR. FUNK—It was not sought on either hand. Mr. Charles Deering, one of our directors, had arranged in some way for this appointment, and I simply talked with the senator on the telephone about the young man.

MR. MARBLE—You called him?

MR. FUNK—I don't remember whether I called him or whether he called me.

MR. MARBLE—Were you recommending some one to his consideration?

MR. FUNK—I made no recommendation.

MR. MARBLE—What was the occasion for the talk?

MR. FUNK—As to the time when this young man was to appear for examination or something. It was some matter of information.

MR. MARBLE—Was that talk with Senator Lorimer personally, did you understand, or with his secretary?

MR. FUNK—It was first with his secretary and then he got the senator, I suppose—he said he was Senator Lorimer.

MR. MARBLE—You thought you were talking with Senator Lorimer?

MR. FUNK—Yes.

MR. MARBLE—And you asked information relative to the time of examination?

MR. FUNK—Yes, or answered some question of his as to the name or age of the young man. I do not recall. It was just a momentary, casual conversation which passed out of my mind.

No Unpleasantness with Lorimer.

SENATOR LEA—Who was the young man?

MR. FUNK—He was a young man named Baker.

MR. MARBLE—Is he a relative of Mr. Deering?

MR. FUNK—I think not. I think he is a son of an old classmate of Mr. Deering.

MR. MARBLE—Mr. Deering is one of the stockholders, and a large owner, of the International Harvester company?

MR FUNK—Yes.

MR. MARBLE—You did not have any unpleasantness with Mr. Lorimer on that occasion?

MR. FUNK—Not at all.

MR. MARBLE—Or on the occasion of your introduction to him in the Willard hotel?

MR. FUNK—The senator was kind on both occasions.

MR. MARBLE—Were both conversations after his election as senator?

MR. FUNK—Yes.

MR MARBLE—Do you know about the litigation which resulted in the increase of the taxes of the stockholders of the International Harvester company resident in the city of Chicago?

MR. FUNK—I have a general knowledge of the situation, no detailed information.

Never Heard Lorimer Discussed.

MR. MARBLE—Were you in charge of that matter?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—Did you regard Senator Lorimer or his friends as responsible for an attack upon your company or its stockholders in that?

MR. FUNK—I never heard them mentioned in that connection.

MR. MARBLE—Never heard him discussed?

MR. FUNK—No, sir.

MR. MARBLE—Did you, consequent or incident to that litigation, develop any antagonism to Senator Lorimer?

MR. FUNK—None whatever.

MR. MARBLE—Are you familiar with the proposition to close up a branch of the Chicago river?

MR. FUNK—Yes, in a general way.

MR. MARBLE—Does that fall within your department to handle?

MR. FUNK—I have general supervision over it.

MR. MARBLE—Who has charge of the matter there?

Denies Spirit of Antagonism.

MR. FUNK—Well, Mr. Legge, the assistant general manager, has paid more attention to the details of it.

MR. MARBLE—Is that a pretty sore point with the International Harvester company?

MR. FUNK—Not at all.

MR. MARBLE—Have you or any of your officers developed a feeling of antagonism to Senator Lorimer in that regard?

MR. FUNK—Not that I am aware of.

MR. MARBLE—Has your company an engineer?

MR. FUNK—Mr. Isham Randolph has been our engineer in this particular matter.

MR. MARBLE—Has he prepared drawings and blue prints of this matter?

MR. FUNK—Yes.

MR. MARBLE—So that he could explain it from his point of view?

Mr. FUNK—Yes.

MR. MARBLE—Will you tell us very briefly what the proposition is from your point of view? What is it you want to do?

Tells River Closing Plans.

MR. FUNK—Our preference would be to have the river closed so that we can put a permanent bridge across it, connecting the two parts of our property. The Chicago river at present runs right through the center of our McCormick plant, the McCormick works. If we could have it just as we would like it we would have the river closed and put a permanent bridge across it.

MR. MARBLE—How do you communicate now between the two parts of the plant?

MR. FUNK—We have to have a boat, an old flat bottomed scow.

MR. MARBLE—Is that a great inconvenience?

MR. FUNK—Yes, it is an inconvenience, and considerable expense.

MR. MARBLE—Have you known Senator Lorimer as an opponent of your plan to close that river?

MR. FUNK—Well, we have not had a plan to close the river.

MR. MARBLE—What is your plan?

MR. FUNK—The only plan that I recall which the Harvester company ever advocated is to construct a by-pass so that the people above on the same river can have water communication by way of the drainage canal and this pass instead of going up through the river.

Sought to Deepen River.

MR. MARBLE—Your proposition is to close that branch of the river?

MR. FUNK—I do not recall that we have ever taken an active stand for the closing of the river. Our position has been entirely confined, as I recollect, to the deepening of it. We have retained Mr. Randolph to make a study of the situation, and to appear before the board of engineers and make an argument against the proposed improvement.

MR. MARBLE—Any other activities?

MR. FUNK—Not that I recall.

MR. MARBLE—Have you contributed to campaign funds as a result of that opposition to that firm?

MR. FUNK—No, sir.

MR. MARBLE—Have you solicited support for your company at Washington among the members of the senate or the house?

MR. FUNK—It never came to that point. The board of engineers has turned the proposition down every time it has been put up to them, and we have rested pretty comfortably.

Cooley Opponent to Plan.

MR. MARBLE—Who appeared in opposition to your company in the hearing before the board of engineers? Do you know? That is, in support of the plan to deepen and widen this branch of the river?

MR. FUNK—I think Mr. Cooley; but that is only my recollection. I would not state that for a fact.

MR. MARBLE—Who is Mr. Cooley?

MR. FUNK—Lyman E. Cooley is an engineer in Chicago.

MR. MARBLE—An engineer?

MR. FUNK—Yes, sir.

MR. MARBLE—In whose interest did he appear?

MR. FUNK—He appeared in behalf of the interests that wanted the river opened, I believe. I have no knowledge on the subject.

MR. MARBLE—What interests wanted the river opened? I am asking, first, not for any suspicion, but for your knowledge as to who they were.

MR. FUNK—As I recall the documents, they show that the Kimball company and Maxwell Bros., and possibly one other—and, I think, the Hines Lumber company—were advocating the deepening and widening of the stream.

MR. MARBLE—Did you consider, prior to Senator Lorimer's election as senator, that he was interested in any of these concerns?

MR. FUNK—I had no information that would justify me in thinking so.

Lorimer Would Deepen River.

MR. MARBLE—Did you think so?

MR. FUNK—No; I did not know anything about it.

MR. FLETCHER—Did you know his attitude with reference to the opening of the river, as a public question?

MR. FUNK—Yes.

MR. FLETCHER—How was it?

MR. FUNK—It was favorable to it. I had understood Senator Lorimer was the most active man in trying to put the thing through.

MR. MARBLE—You did understand that?

MR. FUNK—Yes. As a matter of general information.

MR. HANECY—That is, to deepen and widen the river?

MR. FUNK—Yes; to deepen and widen the river.

MR. MARBLE—Did that cause you to regard Senator Lorimer as an opponent of the International Harvester company?

MR. FUNK—No; I felt that as long as the board of engineers of the United States government were opposed to it, we did not need to be much concerned. In other words, I thought as long as the board of engineers were against it, there was not much chance of its ever passing.

Never Opponent of Lorimer.

MR. MARBLE—But you did regard Senator Lorimer as an opponent of yours in that regard?

MR. FUNK—It did not occur to me that he was an opponent of the harvester company. He was advocating a measure for certain interests which were against our interests. It was simply a conflicting interest.

MR. MARBLE—Did not that cause you to have a feeling of antagonism toward him?

MR. FUNK—Not the slightest.

MR. MARBLE—Did it not cause you to be opposed to him politically?

MR. FUNK—No, sir.

MR. MARBLE—Did it cause you to desire to hinder his political fortunes if you could?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—And you now say that as a result of all your activities as general manager of the International Harvester company you did not regard Senator Lorimer as an opponent to that company and an obstacle to its plans?

MR. FUNK—No, sir.

MR. MARBLE—And you were not opposed to him beyond any mere political opposition, such as that any citizen might have?

MR. FUNK—That is all I am aware of.

Small Interest in Politics.

MR. MARBLE—And was your feeling deep and intense as such citizen?

MR. FUNK—As a citizen I have never taken a very deep or acute interest in politics, and have not been enough interested to work up any personal feeling against any candidate of any party in any election, as I can now recall.

MR. MARBLE—Have you been a contributor to campaign funds before?

MR. FUNK—Yes, once in a long time.

MR. MARBLE—In large amounts.

MR. FUNK—Ten dollars, $25—I think I gave $100 once to help elect a man who was not elected.

MR. MARBLE—Did that discourage you and cause you to discontinue your contributions?

MR. FUNK—Well, I appeared to be a poor guesser, and let it go at that.

MR. MARBLE—Now, do you know Mr. McCormick's attitude toward Senator Lorimer?

Describes McCormick's Position.

MR. FUNK—Yes; I think I do. I would describe Mr. McCormick's attitude toward the senator as purely impersonal.

MR. MARBLE—But opposed to him politically?

MR. FUNK—I would call his position more theoretical.

MR. MARBLE—Well, just what do you mean by that?

MR. FUNK—Well, he might be opposed to the senator on general principles, without carrying his position to the extent of any personal feeling or any personal activities. That is the specification as nearly as I can express it.

SENATOR JONES—Mr. McCormick is a Democrat, is he not?

MR. FUNK—Yes.

SENATOR GAMBLE—Mr. McCormick did not coöperate with the Republican party either one way or the other in connection with Senator Lorimer, did he?

MR. FUNK—Never to my knowledge.

SENATOR GAMBLE—As Senator Lorimer is a Republican?

MR. FUNK—Never to my knowledge.

Tells Acquaintance with Hines.

SENATOR GAMBLE—Is any one prominent in the International Harvester who is deeply concerned about Senator Lorimer and opposed to him?

MR. FUNK—I do not recall anybody at the present time.

MR. MARBLE—Is there any one there who has influenced you or your mind against him?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—How long have you known Mr. Edward Hines?

MR. FUNK—Three or four years.

MR. MARBLE—What have been your relations?

MR. FUNK—I have had a passing acquaintance with him.

MR. MARBLE—You are members of the same club.

MR. FUNK—We both are members of the Union League club.

MR. MARBLE—You have been acquainted with him there?

MR. FUNK—Oh, I meet him a few times a year there.

MR. MARBLE—Have you an intimate acquaintanceship with him?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—Have you had business dealings with him?

MR. FUNK—Personally?

MR. MARBLE—You, on behalf of the International Harvester company?

MR. FUNK—I had one.

MR. MARBLE—Have you had any personal business dealings with him?

MR. FUNK—No.

Tells Dealing with Hines.

MR. MARBLE—What was the dealing on behalf of the Harvester company?

MR. FUNK—He came to see me once—I think it was the first time I had ever met the gentleman—in regard to a timber proposition in Mississippi. As I remember it, he wanted to sell the Harvester company timber lands in Mississippi.

MR. MARBLE—Did that result in the making of a contract or purchase?

MR. FUNK—No, sir.

MR. MARBLE—Was that the only time that you ever met him in a matter of business?

MR. FUNK—We may have had one discussion as to the relations of our company and his in the purchase of lumber. I am not sure about that matter.

MR. MARBLE—There have been dealings between your company and Mr. Hines' company then, which were carried on under your directions?

MR. FUNK—Very remotely under my directions. Our purchasing department, which is under a manager who is held largely responsible and who does not report to me the details of his transactions, are purchasing lumber from the Hines Lumber company, and have been for a good while, in the open market, as they are purchasing from probably a dozen other people.

No Differences with Hines.

MR. MARBLE—What is the name of that manager?

MR. FUNK—Mr. H. B. Utley.

MR. MARBLE—Have you talked with him upon the subject of Senator Lorimer?

MR. FUNK—I may have talked with him casually. I do not remember whether I have or not. Probably I have.

MR. MARBLE—Now, have there been difficulties between the International Harvester company and Mr. Hines or Mr. Hines' company?

MR. FUNK — None that I have ever heard of.

MR. MARBLE—Or any unfriendly relations?

MR. FUNK—Not that I am aware of. I think Mr. Utley, our purchasing manager, has always been friendly to Mr. Hines and to the company.

MR. MARBLE—Has there been any irritation on Mr. Utley's part or on the part of the International Harvester company as a result of the business dealings with the Hines Lumber company?

MR. FUNK — None that I have ever heard of.

MR. MARBLE—Or any occasion for irritation?

MR. FUNK—None that I am aware of. That is, as far as we are concerned.

Small Interest in Tariff.

MR. MARBLE—Have you given Mr. Hines any cause for irritation?

MR. FUNK—Not that I am aware of.

MR. MARBLE—Have you had any political affiliations with Mr. Hines?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—Or antagonism?

MR. FUNK—Not that I am aware of.

MR. MARBLE—Was your company concerned in the schedules of the tariff law which was under consideration at the time of the election of Senator Lorimer?

MR. FUNK—Not particularly.

MR. MARBLE—Did you coöperate with Mr. Hines at all in work or counseling with members of congress who had that matter in charge?

MR. FUNK—No, sir.

MR. MARBLE—Were you interested in the tariff on lumber?

MR. FUNK—Not particularly.

MR. MARBLE—You are a manufacturer of lumber?

MR. FUNK—Yes, sir.

MR. MARBLE—You did not coöperate with Mr. Hines at all in advocating the retention of the duty upon lumber?

MR. FUNK—Not that I recall.

MR. MARBLE—Or your company?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—Or any officer of it?

MR. FUNK—Not that I know of.

Explains Stand on Tariff.

THE CHAIRMAN—What do you mean by "not particularly?" You have used that term two or three times. You say you were "not particularly" interested in it. What do you mean by that?

MR. FUNK—Well, I mean this, senator: I do not know that I can describe it any closer than that: The International Harvester company takes this view of the lumber question: We are manufacturers of lumber; we are also large consumers of lumber; we may have had an interest, one way or the other in the tariff, but we never went into the matter and I never made figures to show which way the preponderance of interest was. Consequently, I say we were not particularly interested in it.

SENATOR GAMBLE—And did you, or the International Harvester company, actually or affirmatively take an interest in it by having representatives here, or coöperating with men who had representatives here before the committee of congress or otherwise?

MR. FUNK—Not to my knowledge.

MR. MARBLE—Did you take any part in the controversy over the election of a senator by the Forty-sixth assembly of the state of Illinois—the assembly which did elect Senator Lorimer?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—Were you at Springfield?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—Did you keep agents there?

MR. FUNK—No; we have a branch house at Springfield, in charge of a manager who is looking after our business.

No Interest in Election.

MR. MARBLE—Was he taking part in the controversy over the senatorship?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—Not under your instructions, at any rate?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—Were you deeply interested in that election?

MR. FUNK—No; I cannot say that we were.

MR. MARBLE—You say that you did not take part in it?

MR. FUNK—Yes. I say that we did not. We regarded the matter with indifference.

MR. MARBLE—You did not try to influence it?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—Or try to strengthen any candidate?

MR. FUNK—No

MR. MARBLE—Or try to hinder any candidate?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—Did you contribute to any campaign funds?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—Or to any expenses of any aspirant for the senatorship?

MR. FUNK—Not to my knowledge.

MR. MARBLE—The company did not through you?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—Nor to your knowledge?

MR. FUNK—No.

Tells Relations with Hines.

MR. MARBLE—Do you recall a conversation with Mr. Edward Hines shortly after the election of Senator Lorimer?

MR. FUNK—Yes.

MR. MARBLE—Now, have we covered your relationship with Mr. Hines at the time of that conversation, in the questions that have gone before?

MR. FUNK—Well, that is a broad term—my entire relationship. I have met Mr. Hines in Washington a number of times, a good many times, prior to our meeting in the Union League club. I have ridden to Chicago with him once or twice. I have met him in Chicago occasionally on the street and elsewhere. So that I feel well acquainted with him, and he evidently always felt very well acquainted with me.

MR. MARBLE—What do you mean by 'evidently'? You mean his manner, or what?

MR. FUNK—His manner of approaching me.

MR. MARBLE—Your relations were cordial? Do you say that?

MR. FUNK—Well, they were, probably—allowing for the difference in temperament—they were cordial on his side and possibly passive on mine.

MR. MARBLE—I will ask you to define that.

MR. FUNK—He is probably more of a friendly, genial person than I am.

Not Hines' Close Friend.

MR. MARBLE—You never have had any unpleasantness, have you?

MR. FUNK—No.

SENATOR FLETCHER—You may state, Mr. Funk, as to whether your relations were both of mere acquaintance, or whether they were confidential and intimate.

MR. FUNK—I should not consider them confidential and intimate, senator. I considered them more as casual. Mr. Hines apparently confided in me more than I did in him.

SENATOR FLETCHER—Did your acquaintanceship and your relations extend to political matters?

MR. FUNK—As far as coöperation was concerned?

SENATOR FLETCHER—Yes; and interest.

MR. FUNK—Not that I recall.

SENATOR FLETCHER—They were purely social, practically, as I understand?

MR. FUNK—Social, and more or less of a business nature.

Conversation at Union League.

MR. MARBLE—Where was this conversation held? The first conversation that you had with Mr. Hines after the election of Senator Lorimer. Do you recall?

MR. FUNK—I do not recall the first conversation. The first conversation that I do recall was held in the Union League club at Chicago. I do not think there was any prior conversation after the election.

MR. MARBLE—That is the first one of which you have a memory?

MR. FUNK—Yes, sir.

MR. MARBLE—At what time of day was it?

MR. FUNK—In the afternoon, shortly after the lunch hour.

MR. MARBLE—What hour would that be?

MR. FUNK—I have my lunch, usually, about 1 o'clock. It would probably be between 1 and 2.

MR. MARBLE—The conversation would be between 1 and 2?

MR. FUNK—Yes.

MR. MARBLE—Just where was it held?

MR. FUNK—In the Union League club of Chicago, in the large lounging room on the main floor.

MR. MARBLE—How did it begin? That is, what was the approach? Did you approach Mr. Hines, or did Mr. Hines approach you?

MR. FUNK—Mr. Hines approached me.

Had No Senatorial Preference.

SENATOR FLETCHER—Up to that time, Mr. Funk, did Mr. Hines know whom you preferred to be elected United States senator by the Illinois legislature, or did you know whom he preferred, up to that time?

MR. FUNK—Well, I know, as a matter of common knowledge, whom he preferred. I do not think he knew whom I preferred. The fact of the matter was that I had no particular preference.

SENATOR FLETCHER—How did you know whom he preferred?

MR. FUNK—You would see his name in the paper every few days in connection with activities at Springfield, or hear it, as a matter of general talk, in the streets.

SENATOR FLETCHER—Prior to this conversation that you had with him?

MR. FUNK—Yes.

MR. MARBLE—Will you give the day and year of this conversation, Mr. Funk, please?

MR. FUNK—Well, it was shortly after Mr. Lorimer was elected to the senate. That was in 1909; in May or June, as I recall.

MR. MARBLE—Assuming that Senator Lorimer was elected May 26, 1909, when would you say the conversation was held?

MR. FUNK—Shortly after that, a few days. I could not say whether it was five days or ten days, but shortly after that.

MR. MARBLE—Where were you when you first saw Mr. Hines on that occasion?

Tells Approach of Hines.

MR. FUNK—I was standing in the room, and Mr. Hines approached me and spoke to me.

MR. MARBLE—Where in the room?

MR. FUNK—Over near the west end of the room, as I recall.

MR. MARBLE—He approached you; what did he say?

MR. FUNK—Well, I do not want to be understood, now, as claiming to repeat verbatim Mr. Hines' conversation. I can give the substance of it.

MR. MARBLE—Give the words, as nearly as you can remember them.

MR. FUNK—As nearly as I can remember he came up to me and said: "Hello! You are just the man I was looking for;" or "that I wanted to see."

MR. MARBLE—What did you say to him?

MR. FUNK—I probably said, "Hello." I don't remember.

MR. MARBLE—What next?

MR. FUNK—We walked off towards the end of the room, to the nearest couch, and sat down on the couch. Do you want me to tell what happened?

MR. MARBLE—Yes; go right ahead.

Hines Boasted About Lorimer.

MR. FUNK—Yes, he seemed to be feeling rather exuberant at the time, and he said: "Well, we put Lorimer over down at Springfield, but it cost us $100,000 to do it," or "about $100,000."

MR. MARBLE—What else?

MR. FUNK—Then we went on to explain that they had to act quickly when the time came, and did not have any time to consult anybody. And he said: "So we put up the money. Now we are seeing some of our friends to get the matter fixed up."

MR. MARBLE—What else?

MR. FUNK—I inquired, along about that time, how much he was getting from his different friends, and he said: "Well, we can only go to a few big people; but if about ten of us would put up $10,000 apiece we would clean it up." I asked him why he came to me and he said: "Because you are as much interested as anybody in having the right kind of a man in Washington." I told him I would not have anything to do with the matter. He wanted to know why, and I said: "Because we are not in that kind of business." He undertook to argue the matter a little bit.

MR. MARBLE—What were his arguments? Just go ahead and give them as nearly as you can remember.

MR. FUNK—I think he undertook to convince me that Senator Lorimer was a good man and that sort of thing; but I was rather anxious to terminate the conversation at that time, and I arose, and he arose with me and we parted.

Departed While Hines Argued.

MR. MARBLE—Give us those arguments a little more in detail, if you can, Mr. Funk.

MR. FUNK—I cannot go into them in detail. In fact, before he got himself started on the subject I got up and departed.

SENATOR FLETCHER—How did you part? Did you shake hands and say goodby?

MR. FUNK—No; I walked toward the coatroom, as I remember it, and I did not know where Mr. Hines walked.

MR. MARBLE—Did any personal unfriendliness between you and Mr. Hines result from that conversation?

MR. FUNK—Not that I was aware of.

MR. MARBLE—You continued to meet him after that, as before, in the same relationship?

MR. FUNK—I do not recall that I met him after that for a long time.

MR. MARBLE—Was that conversation after the introduction to Senator Lorimer or before?

MR. FUNK—It was before.

MR. MARBLE—Before the introduction to Senator Lorimer?

MR. FUNK—Yes.

Says Tilden Was Mentioned.

SENATOR LEA—Just a moment, before you leave that; was Mr. Tilden's name mentioned in that conversation—Mr. Ed Tilden?

MR. FUNK—Yes, sir.

SENATOR LEA—Tell us about that, please?

MR. FUNK—Well, I suppose there is no use about my protesting about bringing in his name, because I have already made my protest, in the record. But I want to repeat that I dislike very much to bring in the name of a man simply on Mr. Hines' statement. Mr. Tilden's name was used before he (Hines) got through his talk. He said: "Just send the money to Ed Tilden," assuming that we were going to send it, of course.

SENATOR KENYON—Was that after you told him that you would not have anything to do with it?

MR. FUNK—No; that was before.

No Other Name Mentioned.

MR. MARBLE—Were any other names mentioned during that conversation?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—Was the name of Roger Sullivan mentioned?

MR. FUNK—No, sir.

MR. MARBLE—Or that of Mr. Conway?

MR. FUNK—No, sir.

MR. MARBLE—Or that of Mr. Weyerhaeuser?

MR. FUNK—No; no other name.

MR. MARBLE—Not by either of you?

MR. FUNK—No, sir.

MR. HANECY—Or that of a man who is now dead?

MR. FUNK—Not at that time. Mr. Tilden's was the only name mentioned.

SENATOR JONES—Did he ask you to say nothing about the conversation before you parted?

MR. FUNK—No. The conversation was quite as casual as if we were discussing the sale of a car of lumber, as far as I recall.

Estimate of Hines' Argument.

SENATOR LEA—What was your impression as to what Mr. Hines meant by saying that Senator Lorimer was a good senator or a good man?

MR. FUNK—It was my impression he was only repeating to me the arguments of his friends, which they had been making from time to time.

SENATOR FLETCHER—What did he mean that you were interested in having the right kind of a man at Washington?

MR. FUNK—He seemed to assume that it would be worth $10,000 to the International Harvester company to have the right kind of a man in the senate from Illinois.

SENATOR KENYON—What could the right kind of a man, according to that standard, do for the International Harvester company?

MR. FUNK—I could not see anything that he could do for them.

SENATOR KENYON—Is that why you would not take part in it at all?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—You say you did not consider it as an investment?

MR. FUNK—I did not consider it at all; I did not consider it in any manner, as an investment or otherwise.

Tilden Was Mentioned Early.

SENATOR KENYON—There is one point that I do not believe is clear. After you told Mr. Hines you would not have anything to do with it, had you previous to that time heard Mr. Tilden's name mentioned?

MR. FUNK—He had mentioned Mr. Tilden's name. I neglected to say that.

SENATOR KENYON—How early in the conversation did he mention Mr. Tilden's name?

MR. FUNK—I think he mentioned it in connection with the contribution of $10,000 apiece by several big people. He talked rapidly, and rather assumed that the thing was going to be done and he mentioned Tilden's name before I had a chance to say anything.

SENATOR JONES—How did he mention it? What was the connection?

MR. FUNK—He said that he thought if ten big people would contribute $10,000 apiece that would clean the matter up. He said: "Just send the money to Ed Tilden."

SENATOR JONES—You had not had any opportunity to say anything to him before that?

MR. FUNK—No. I let him talk. He wanted to talk, and I was willing to listen until he got through.

SENATOR JONES—You made no answer of any kind to his suggestion that it had cost $100,000 to put Lorimer over?

Did Not Ask Sum Wanted.

MR. FUNK—No. I think he went right along; that is my recollection. He did not stop there. He simply stated it as a fact and then went on with his argument.

SENATOR JOHNSTON—You did ask him how much he expected you to contribute?

MR. FUNK—No. I asked him how much he was getting from his different friends, as I recall it.

SENATOR LEA—Do you know Mr. Tilden well?

MR. FUNK—No, sir.

SENATOR LEA—Did you ever discuss this matter with him?

MR. FUNK—Never. I do not know the gentleman at all. I never met him.

SENATOR KENYON—What was Mr. Hines' condition at that time? Had he been indulging in liquor at all?

MR. FUNK—I do not think so.

SENATOR KENYON—There was no indication of that?

MR. FUNK—No.

THE CHAIRMAN—Just how long was this before you had the introduction to Senator Lorimer in Washington?

MR. FUNK—I think it must have been a year, nearly. It was some time ago.

Relations with Hines Distant.

THE CHAIRMAN—Your relations with Mr. Hines during that year were the same as they had been before.

MR. FUNK—Well, I do not recall that we had any particular relations following that; I only recall particularly one conversation I had with him afterwards.

SENATOR FLETCHER—Did you part perfectly friendly that day, you and Mr. Hines?

MR. FUNK—Well, we parted casually without any particular evidence of friendship or otherwise.

SENATOR KENYON—What did you understand by the expression "The right kind of a man at Washington?" What did Mr. Hines mean by that, as you gathered it from the conversation?

MR. FUNK—Well, of course, it is rather difficult, senator, for me to know what Mr. Hines meant. My impression was that Senator Lorimer was the kind of man whom he regarded as the right kind of a man.

THE CHAIRMAN—Did you think it related to the tariff legislation in which he was interested?

MR. FUNK—There was nothing said that would indicate that.

THE CHAIRMAN—There was nothing said that would indicate in any way what was in his mind?

MR. FUNK—No, except that he was the right kind of a man.

Did Not Explain "Right Man."

THE CHAIRMAN—Yes, but there was nothing said to give an interpretation to that expression beyond what you have stated?

MR. FUNK—No, sir; he did not enter into any specification as to what the right kind of a man might be.

SENATOR KERN—He was the right kind of man for men who were able to pay $10,000 apiece?

MR. FUNK—That was the impression I got, although he did not say so.

SENATOR FLETCHER—In view of your social and business and political relations to Mr. Hines, did it not occur to you as extraordinary that he should come to you and ask you to put up $10,000 for the purpose mentioned?

MR. FUNK—Why, no, it did not, knowing Mr. Hines as I had observed him from time to time. It did not surprise me a very great deal.

MR. FLETCHER—It did not strike you as the height of impertinence under the circumstances for him to solicit a contribution of that kind of you?

MR. FUNK—O, I thought it was, yes. I thought it impertinent, but I was not surprised at it.

MR. MARBLE—Why were you not surprised?

MR. FUNK—Well, that sort of comported with my general impression of the man [Hines].

SENATOR JONES—Did you think he had spent $100,000 for this purpose?

MR. FUNK—I did not anayize the situation.

Funk's View of Request.

SENATOR FLETCHER—Did you regard it as a lot of loose talk, rather than a serious statement of fact?

MR. FUNK—I regarded it as an attempt to get $10,000 from the Harvester company.

SENATOR FLETCHER—Did you look upon the statement that $100,000 had been spent as a statement of facts, or just a general boast?

MR. FUNK—I simply took his statement as he gave it to me and made my answer accordingly, without analyzing it.

SENATOR KERN—When he requested you to send $10,000 to Ed Tilden, you assumed that that was for the purpose, as he said, of reimbursing somebody for money already paid out?

MR. FUNK—That was my assumption.

SENATOR GAMBLE—You spoke a moment ago, Mr. Funk, of your not being surprised at Mr. Hines making this request of you?

MR. FUNK—Yes, sir.

SENATOR GAMBLE—Now I ask you: Have you had any particular estimate of the qualities of Mr. Hines to govern you in making that answer?

MR. FUNK—Yes; I had a general estimate of Mr. Hines at that time.

SENATOR GAMBLE—What was that?

MR. FUNK—It was such that I was not particularly surprised at his coming to me in the manner in which he came.

SENATOR GAMBLE—Now you say you were not surprised. Why were you not surprised? Was it not unusual? This thing had not been a usual request by other men, had it?

MR. FUNK—No.

SENATOR GAMBLE—You certainly were surprised at such a request. Now, why were you not surprised when Mr. Hines made this request of you?

MR. FUNK—Well, I can only answer that by saying that I would have been more surprised at its coming from other men than I would at its coming from Mr. Hines, because of my general impression of the man.

SENATOR GAMBLE—What is that impression? I wish you would give your reasons for that, Mr. Funk.

MR. FUNK—Well——

SENATOR GAMBLE—Does he talk a good deal and was that the reason, or what was it?

Calls Hines "Loose Talker."

MR. FUNK—My observation has been that he was a loose talker.

SENATOR GAMBLE—And a braggart, or anything along that line?

MR. FUNK—A man quite inclined to boast of his achievements; quite disposed to be familiar on short acquaintance, and quite anxious to have people think that he was a large factor in large matters.

SENATOR GAMBLE—That is the reason, then, why you did not give as much consideration to this as you would have had it come from some other man? Or, in other words, that you were not so much surprised in its coming from him as you would have been if it came from some other man?

MR. FUNK—Yes; I think that might be it.

SENATOR KENYON—Had you ever heard him talk at all concerning the election of a senator in Wisconsin?

MR. FUNK—I do not recall that I ever did.

SENATOR JONES—Did he tell you that he had spent $100,000 in the election of Lorimer?

MR. FUNK—Well, he said that they "had put Lorimer over at Springfield," and that "it had cost $100,000."

SENATOR JONES—He did not tell you how the money was spent?

MR. FUNK—No, sir.

Repeated Talk to McCormick.

MR. MARBLE—You say that he did not tell you whom he meant by the pronoun "we"?

MR. FUNK—He did not tell me and I did not ask him.

MR. MARBLE—Where did you go after that conversation, immediately afterward, when you left the Union League club?

MR. FUNK—I do not remember.

MR. MARBLE—Did you relate that conversation immediately to any one else?

MR. FUNK—Within a day or two, or three, shortly after.

MR. MARBLE—Can you tell us to whom you first related it?

MR. FUNK—Mr. Cyrus McCormick, the president of my company.

MR. MARBLE—Where?

MR. FUNK—It was either in his office or in mine; I do not remember which.

MR. MARBLE—What brought up the subject?

MR. FUNK—I reported it to him as a matter of interest and information.

MR. MARBLE—What did he say to you on that occasion?

MR. FUNK—As I recall it I told him that Mr. Hines had asked me for a contribution of $10,000 to reimburse a fund which had been spent to "put Mr. Lorimer over." He asked me abruptly what I had said, what my reply was. I told him, and as I remember it he said, "Good; I am glad you turned him down so promptly." We then probably went on to discuss other matters. It was only a moment.

Did Not Discuss Lorimer.

MR. MARBLE—What was said about Senator Lorimer in that conversation further?

MR. FUNK—I do not remember that his name was discussed at all.

MR. MARBLE—Was there any expression or characterization of him at all?

MR. FUNK—Of the senator?

MR. MARBLE—Yes.

MR. FUNK—Not that I recall.

MR. MARBLE—What was the discussion of Mr. Hines in that conversation?

MR. FUNK (after a pause)—I do not recall that there was any particular discussion of him.

MR. MARBLE—Did you, on that or any other occasion, observe the state of Mr. McCormick's mind toward Senator Lorimer?

MR. FUNK—I do not recall that the state of his mind has ever been such as to attract my attention one way or the other.

MR. MARBLE—Did you relate that conversation to any one else?

MR. FUNK—To Mr. Bancroft, our general counsel.

MR. MARBLE—When?

MR. FUNK—About the time I told Mr. McCormick. It may have been a day or two or three days afterwards. A short time afterwards.

MR. MARBLE—What did Mr. Bancroft say?

MR. FUNK—I do not recall his saying anything particularly. I just told him as a matter of information. He did not appear to be much surprised. I do not think we discussed it at any length.

Relates Incident to Kohlsaat.

MR. MARBLE—How soon did you relate it to any one else?

MR. FUNK—I told Mr. Kohlsaat some time after that.

MR. MARBLE—What was the occasion for relating that conversation to Mr. Kohlsaat.

MR. FUNK—I met him by accident on the street, and to my recollection he began some general discussion of the political situation. I do not remember how it came up, but one thing led to another, and I think there was more or less speculation about the situation at Springfield.

SENATOR KERN—Had the White statement been published then?

MR. FUNK—I do not recall whether it had or not.

SENATOR FLETCHER—When and where did this conversation take place with Mr. Kohlsaat.

MR. FUNK—It was on the street; on Jackson boulevard, as I recall it, in Chicago.

SENATOR FLETCHER—When?

MR. FUNK—I could not fix the time.

SENATOR FLETCHER—Was it a year after the conversation with Mr. Hines?

MR. FUNK—No; I think not. It may have been a few months afterwards.

Conversation Held with Kohlsaat.

MR. MARBLE—What did you tell Mr. Kohlsaat?

MR. FUNK—As I recall it—of course the conversation was at some length, and this matter only came out incidentally in the conversation—he expressed considerable interest or great interest in the political situation in Illinois, and, as I recall it, was anxious as he expressed it, to have it cleared up; and, as I recall it, I also expressed the wish that it might be cleared up. During the conversation I said to him, in strict confidence, that I had reason to think that there had been money used in the election of a senator.

MR. MARBLE—What did he say then?

MR. FUNK—He asked me for the particulars, and I gave him my general reasons for

ASKED TO GIVE $10,000.

Request That He Help Refund $100,000 Lorimer Money Told to Committee.

Extracts from C. S. Funk's Testimony

He (Hines) said: "Well, we put Lorimer over down at Springfield; but it cost us $100,000 to do it," or "about $100,000." Then he went on to explain that they had to act quickly when the time came and did not have any time to consult anybody. And he said: "So we put up the money. Now we are seeing some of our friends to get the matter fixed up."

—o—

I inquired how much he was getting from his various friends and he said:

"'Well, we can only go to a few big people, but if ten of us would put up $10,000 apiece we would clean it up.'

"I asked him why he came to me, and he said:

"'Because you are as much interested as anybody in having the right kind of a man in Washington.'

"I told him we would not have anything to do with the matter. He wanted to know why, and I said:

"'Because we are not in that kind of business.'

—o—

My observation has been that he (Hines) was a loose talker; a man quite inclined to boast of his achievements; quite disposed to be familiar on short acquaintance and quite anxious to have people think he was a large factor in large matters.

—o—

"I have received threats over the telephone. I have had anonymous letters. I have been followed frequently at night—in fact, everywhere I have gone since I appeared in this matter. This is true since I appeared in Washington. I have talked with one of the men who followed me. This man is here. He confessed he was following me, was hired for the purpose, hired by him"—he looked directly at Edward Hines. "He was sent here by a detective agency. He gave me his name in confidence. I have his name and address."

—o—

Attorney W. J. Hynes, counsel for Edward Hines, clamored for the name of the detective.

"Put Mr. Hines on the stand," urged Funk, "and ask him if this man did not send representatives to him every night."

thinking so; but, according to my recollection, I did not give him any names at out first meeting.

MR. MARBLE—Not any names at all?

MR. FUNK—I think not, the first time. That is my recollection. I met him again in a day or two or three days afterwards, and the second time I gave him the names.

SENATOR GAMBLE—Where did you meet him the second time?

MR. FUNK—I think I met him on Michigan avenue.

SENATOR GAMBLE—Two or three days later from the time you met him at the Kimball Piano company's place?

MR. FUNK—Yes.

Names Hines to Kohlsaat.

SENATOR LEA—What names did you give him then?

MR. FUNK—I gave him Mr. Hines' name.

SENATOR LEA—And Mr. Tilden's?

MR. FUNK—I do not recall whether I gave him Mr. Tilden's name or not.

SENATOR LEA—In the course of either of these discussions did you mention the names of Roger Sullivan, Conway, and the Weyerhaeusers as possible contributors to this fund?

MR. FUNK—I do not recall that those names were brought into that conversation. There was considerable idle speculation back and forth.

SENATOR LEA—As to who the possible contributors were?

MR. FUNK—As to who the possible people may be; but I do not recall that any of those names were mentioned at that time.

SENATOR LEA—Were any other names mentioned except those of Hines and Tilden?

MR. FUNK—Not that I recall.

SENATOR GAMBLE—Then you remember no names having been mentioned besides the name of Edward Hines and the name of Edward Tilden?

MR. FUNK—That is my recollection.

SENATOR LEA—Are your relations with Mr. Kohlsaat intimate?

MR. FUNK—We are personal friends. I do not know as I would call them particularly intimate.

SENATOR LEA—You would not have given such a confidence, I take it, to anybody who was not a close friend?

MR. FUNK—No; I regard him as a close personal friend.

Told Story in Confidence.

SENATOR FLETCHER—Did you tell him about the whole story in confidence?

MR. FUNK—Yes, sir.

SENATOR JONES—Not only that he should treat the names of the individuals mentioned in confidence but the other part of the conversation?

MR. FUNK—The whole thing.

SENATOR JONES—That is, you understood from that that he was not to repeat any part of it to any one else?

MR. FUNK—I simply told him that I gave him the information in confidence.

MR. MARBLE—Have you any reason, other than this conversation with Mr. Hines to associate Mr. Tilden with this transaction?

MR. FUNK—Not up to that time.

MR. MARBLE—Have you now?

MR. FUNK—No; nothing more definite than the fact that I have noticed here at Washington that the gentlemen seemed to be friendly and together more or less, which probably would indicate that they were well acquainted.

MR. MARBLE—You mean that you have seen Mr. Tilden and Mr. Hines together here in Washington?

MR. FUNK—I have noticed them about considerably.

Told Incident to Legge.

MR. MARBLE—Did you relate the Union League conversation with Mr. Hines to any other person than Mr. McCormick, Mr. Bancroft, and Mr. Kohlsaat?

MR. FUNK—I think I repeated the substance of it to Mr. Legge, the assistant general manager, without mentioning any names.

MR. MARBLE—When?

MR. FUNK—About the same time.

MR. MARBLE—Did you have any further conversation with Mr. Edward Hines relative to the first conversation?

MR. FUNK—Yes. I had a second conversation with him.

MR. MARBLE—When?

MR. FUNK—As nearly as I can fix it, it was a few days after the publication of the Record-Herald editorial. It may have been more than a few days. I cannot say definitely, but it was after the Record-Herald editorial was published.

Refers to Herald Editorial.

MR. MARBLE—What do you mean by the "Record Herald" editorial?

MR. FUNK—The one which brought Kohlsaat to Springfield; the editorial in which he said that $100,000 had been used.

MR. MARBLE—Where was that conversation held?

MR. FUNK—In my office.

MR. MARBLE—At what time of day?

MR. FUNK—I think it was in the morning.

MR. MARBLE—Had you sought the conversation?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—What was the occasion for it?

MR. FUNK—I didn't see any occasion for it.

MR. MARBLE—Now tell us what the conversation was.

MR. FUNK—Mr. Hines arrived at my office one morning shortly after I got there, about 9 o'clock, and he was admitted to my room. He seemed to be considerably agitated, and he immediately began to talk with me about our former conversation.

Hines "Refreshes" His Memory.

MR. MARBLE—What did he sav?

MR. FUNK—I cannot repeat it verbatim; but in substance he undertook to refresh my memory as to what our previous conversation had been.

MR. MARBLE—As nearly as you can, give what he said.

SENATOR KERN—It is important that we should have the substance of that conversation if you cannot remember the exact words.

MR. FUNK—The substance of it was that he did not want me to misunderstand our talk the other day; that he had not meant to say that any money was used, but that he was only discussing with me in a general way the situation down there, and that he got to thinking about it afterwards and thought that I might not have understood it, and he was back there to clear it up for me.

MR. MARBLE—Did he say anything further as to what caused him to come?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—How long was that after the first conversation; do you know?

MR. FUNK—I cannot fix it definitely, but the first conversation was shortly after the senator was elected in May 1909, as you say; and the next conversation was some time after the Record-Herald editorial. You probably have the date. I do not recall when it was.

Receives Editorial in Clipping.

MR. MARBLE—Had you read the Record-Herald editorial?

MR. FUNK—No; I had not.

MR. MARBLE—Did he draw it to your attention?

MR. FUNK—No.

SENATOR KERN—What fixed it in your mind, or why do you connect this conversation with the Record-Herald editorial if you had not read it?

MR. FUNK—Because a day or two after Mr. Hines' visit the editorial came to my desk, marked, with a lot of other clippings; and I noted that it had been printed prior to his coming. That caught my attention, because it just came to me in that way.

SENATOR GAMBLE—And your interview with Mr. Hines was how long before you saw the editorial in the Record-Herald?

MR. FUNK—I cannot fix that editorial, senator. I am frequently behind on my work, and I read bundles of clippings and editorials—sometimes a large number of them at one time. I remember, when I read the editorial, that it occurred to me that I saw the reason for the visit.

MR. MARBLE—Do you know who sent the editorial to you?

MR. FUNK—Everything pertaining to the situation at Springfield, I think, was being called to my attention at that time as a matter of information by my secretary.

Gets Rid of Hines Soon.

MR. MARBLE—Why? Did he assume that you were especially interested in it?

MR. FUNK—No, but he sends a lot of stuff for me to read that I ought not to get, and some that I ought; that happened to be one that I was interested to see.

SENATOR LEA—Did you agree with Mr. Hines as to his recollection or interpretation of the former conversation?

MR. FUNK—No, sir.

SENATOR LEA—Did you express dissent?

MR. FUNK—My recollection is that I told him that I thought I remembered the thing as it was. I disposed of him as quickly as I could, because, as I remember it, we were having a directors' meeting that morning, or a conference of some kind which was of considerable importance, and they were waiting for me, and I got rid of him and left the room as soon as I could. I do not think he was in the office over three minutes.

SENATOR LEA—Did you part on friendly terms that day?

MR. FUNK—Casual terms.

Did Not Think Hines Satisfied.

SENATOR LEA—Was he satisfied with the visit, apparently, as he left?

MR. FUNK—I did not observe it particularly as to whether he was or not, my recollection is that he was not.

SENATOR LEA—He was not?

MR. FUNK—That is just an impression. I did not controvert his version of the thing. I heard him and got out as soon as I could without making any particular comment about it.

SENATOR LEA—Was his manner calm or excited or agitated?

MR. FUNK—Rather agitated.

MR. MARBLE—Had you met Mr. Hines at any time between these two conversations—the one at the Union League club and this visit to your office?

MR. FUNK—I do not remember. I may have met him casually and may not, I do not recall.

SENATOR LEA—Was it between those times that he introduced to you Senator Lorimer here in Washington?

MR. FUNK—It must have been before February, 1911.

Repeated the Second Talk.

THE CHAIRMAN—Your interview with Lorimer was before the second interview with Hines?

MR. FUNK—That is my best recollection.

MR. MARBLE—Did you relate that second conversation to any person?

MR. FUNK—I think I told Mr. McCormick about it, and also Mr. Bancroft, as I recall it.

MR. MARBLE—Did you tell Mr. Kohlsaat?

MR. FUNK—I do not remember, I may have and may not.

MR. MARBLE—What did you tell Mr. McCormick when you related the conversation to him?

MR. FUNK—The second conversation?

MR. MARBLE—The second conversation with Mr. Hines.

MR. FUNK—As nearly as I can remember I said to him in rather a joking way that Mr. Hines had been in to refresh my memory on our first talk.

MR. MARBLE—What did he say?

MR. FUNK—As I remember it he smiled and did not say much one way or the other.

Refers to Kohlsaat Subpœna.

MR. MARBLE—When was this matter next drawn to your attention?

MR. FUNK—As I recall it, when I saw in the newspapers that Mr. Kohlsaat had been subpoenaed to come to Springfield and testify before the Helm committee.

MR. MARBLE—Did you not have another conversation with Mr. Kohlsaat or did you before the Springfield matter?

MR. FUNK—I met him frequently about town.

MR. MARBLE—About this matter?

MR. FUNK—I don't recall anything definite.

SENATOR LEA—Did Mr. Kohlsaat ever try to get you to release him from the confidence in which this communication had been given?

MR. FUNK—Yes, he did; he saw me once in his office. I was in his office on another matter as I recall, and he showed me a letter which he had receiver from Senator Root.

MR. MARBLE—What was said by Mr. Kohlsaat to you? What did he say to you when he showed you the letter?

Shown Letter from Root.

MR. FUNK—He showed me a letter from Senator Root which indicated that he had been in communication with the senator about the matter. As I recall, the senator explained to him that he thought the senators were entitled to the information down here, and he seemed to consider it an important matter.

MR. MARBLE—Can you fix the date of that conversation with Mr. Kohlsaat, when he showed you the letter?

MR. FUNK—I think it was shortly after its receipt—a day or two.

MR. MARBLE—What makes you think that?

MR. FUNK—Because of the coincidence of my coming into the office and his showing me the letter at the same time. I remember he pulled the letter out of his desk, and he said: "Now, it is up to you."

MR. MARBLE—What did you say?

MR. FUNK—I read the letter.

SENATOR LEA—Did you release him?

MR. FUNK—I had a discussion with him then.

SENATOR FLETCHER—Let us have the conversation.

MR. FUNK—I had a discussion with him then as to my duty in the premises, and explained to him my embarrassment over what I conceived to be a conflict of duty, and explained to him the reasons why I did not want to be dragged into the thing.

Saw Conflict of Duties.

SENATOR JONES—I wish you would give that conversation as nearly as you can.

MR. FUNK—After hearing my reasons he agreed with me that my reasons for not wanting to be drawn into it were good.

MR. MARBLE—Mr. Funk, tell the committee just what you told Mr. Kohlsaat, what the conflict was.

MR. FUNK—As I recall it, I said to him: "I have a duty as a citizen in this matter which I have got to face, but I also have duties to my company which I must also recognize." This was not the first time I had thought about this. I had thought about it a good deal and it had troubled me a good deal.

MR. MARBLE—Was this the first time you had discussed this conflict of duty?

MR. FUNK—I discussed it with Mr. Bancroft either before or after that date, I do not recall which.

THE CHAIRMAN—Go on with this conversation; let us have that.

MR. MARBLE—Yes; go ahead with the conversation with Mr. Kohlsaat.

Reason for Keeping Secret.

MR. FUNK—I explained to him that the communication had come to me in my official capacity as an officer of the International Harvester company—not personally. I did not feel that Hines had come to me for a personal contribution. He came to me as an officer of my company. I stated that my exposing that thing at that time would be widely misunderstood; that we would be charged by all of Senator Lorimer's enemies or friends with having projected ourselves into the situation out of hostility to the senator or for some other reason—I did not know what i tmight be. I remember saying to him: "I am afraid that nobody will believe that I am animated by any high moral principles in the matter, even if I can see my way clear to do it, because of my corporation affiliations." I explained to him that it would incur enmities for my company, which had dealings with a great many other interests; and I feared that if we projected ourselves into the situation it would create hostilities and antagonism towards the company which would take a long time to heal; and that in my consideration of the matter I had arrived at the conclusion that my duty to protect my company and my stockholders outweighed any duty I might have as a citizen, and that I was not willing to get into the matter at all.

MR. MARBLE—What was your conversation with Mr. Bancroft?

Laid Matter Before Bancroft.

MR. FUNK—I do not recall whether it was before or after this time. The matter had troubled me a good deal. I felt that, personally, I ought to reveal it and that, officially, I could not. So, in my dilemma, I went to the general counsel of the company and put it up to him to see what he thought about it.

MR. MARBLE—Did you give him the state of your mind?

MR. FUNK—Yes. I think the first time I just laid it out before him.

MR. MARBLE—What did he tell you?

MR. FUNK—He just passed it back to me and told me it was "up to me." I remember that I did not get any help.

MR. MARBLE—Did he advise you to tell?

MR. FUNK—No. He said, "It is up to you. It is a matter for your own conscience. You have got to thrash it out yourself." Or something to that effect.

MR. MARBLE—Did Mr. Kohlsaat advise you to tell?

MR. FUNK—Mr. Kohlsaat told me he thought my reasons for not telling were good.

MR. MARBLE—Did it come to your attention in the latter part of 1910, in September or October, that a committee of the senate was meeting in the city of Chicago to investigate this matter?

MR. FUNK—Yes.

MR. MARBLE—Did you communicate with a member of that committee, or any one connected with that investigation?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—Did you advise with any one concerning such communication?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—So far as you know, that committee was in entire ignorance of this fact which you have related?

MR. FUNK—Yes, sir.

MR. MARBLE—When next did this matter come up for discussion between you and any other person?

MR. FUNK—I do not recall that there were any subsequent discussions until the Helm committee got Kohlsaat.

MR. MARBLE—Now tell us about that. In what way did that come to your attention?

MR. FUNK—I saw in the papers that they had subpœnaed him and brought him down there to testify, and that he had said that he had received information, and that he refused to divulge it before the committee on the ground that it was received in confidence.

MR. MARBLE—Then what did you do?

MR. FUNK—I waited to see what would happen, and after Kohlsaat was ordered to answer and refused, and it appeared that they were going to send him to jail, I made up my mind then that it was up to me to come forward, and I immediately communicated with him and released him from his confidence and told him that I would testify.

Acted Upon Own Motion.

MR. MARBLE—Did you upon your motion, upon your own responsibility?

MR. FUNK—Absolutely.

MR. MARBLE—Did you discuss the matter with any person before doing so?

MR. FUNK—I discussed it with Mr. Cyrus McCormick.

MR. MARBLE—What did you say to him?

MR. FUNK—He had seen in the morning paper that Kohlsaat was going to jail if he did not divulge the source of his information, and saw it the same morning that I did.

MR. MARBLE—I am asking you what you said to him.

MR. FUNK—He came to my office and asked me if I had seen that they were going to send Kohlsaat to jail because he did not give up his informant. I said, "Yes"; he said, "What do you think about it?" I said, "I think it is up to me to release him." He said, "I think so too."

MR. MARBLE—Was that all he said?

MR. FUNK—That is about all.

Frees Kohlsaat from Silence.

MR. MARBLE—Then what did you do?

MR. FUNK—I called up Mr. Kohlsaat on the telephone and went over to see him; I did see him, and released him.

MR. MARBLE—You went to Mr. Kohlsaat's office, you mean?

MR. FUNK—Yes, sir.

MR. MARBLE—What did you say to him?

MR. FUNK—I said: "I understand they are going to send you to jail because you are trying to protect this confidence?" He said, "Yes." I said: "Well, I am not going to see you go to jail. You go ahead and give them the name."

MR. MARBLE—What did he say?

MR. FUNK—He was appreciative and telegraphed the committee.

MR. MARBLE—Why did you feel that if you had come forward with that information it would have been considered an element of antagonism to Mr. Lorimer rather than such a disclosure as a good citizen should make? What had there been in your relations to Senator Lorimer which raised that thought in your mind?

MR. FUNK—There was considerable bitterness in the political situation in Illinois, and it seemed to me that anybody who said anything against Senator Lorimer was supposed to be actuated by some motives of animosity—that is, to be presumed to have, on the part of his friends. That was the impression I had.

Feared Effect of Revelation.

MR. MARBLE—In what way would your relationship to the International Harvester company play any part in that?

MR. FUNK—I felt that it would be construed by his friends as an attack upon the senator.

MR. MARBLE—Why? Had there been trouble between the senator and the International Harvester company?

MR. FUNK—Not the slightest, that I knew about. My feelings were that the senator's friends and enemies were both active and strong, and I did not want to involve my company in either side of a situation which I thought was bad.

MR. MARBLE—But was there anything in the past relationship of the International Harvester company to politics or to Senator Lorimer or to any of the parties concerned that made you think that your relations with the International Harvester company would be an embarrassment in the matter, or would cause your motives to be impugned?

MR. FUNK—There was nothing in the past record of the company nor in their relations to the senator; but it was just my general feeling that I wanted to keep my company out of a heated political situation.

SENATOR KERN—For business reasons?

MR. FUNK—For business reasons entirely.

SENATOR KERN—You did a large business throughout Illinois?

Sought to Evade Politics.

MR. FUNK—Yes, sir; I might say, if it will help to clear that up any, that I knew that my board of directors would very much regret having the Harvester company dragged into that situation.

MR. MARBLE—Why?

MR. FUNK—For business reasons. We had always tried to keep ourselves out of all such entanglements.

MR. MARBLE—But did they have any special reluctance to be drawn into this controversy?

MR. FUNK—No; but their feelings from the first has been that our business was in making harvesting machines, and not mixing in politics; and I have had that impressed on my mind consistently from the beginning, so that I knew perfectly well what their attitude would be.

MR. MARBLE—Have you, for yourself or any one else, during that time, made any contributions to any "jackpot" or corruption fund in the Illinois legislature?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. MARBLE—Have you been approached to make such contributions?

MR. FUNK—No.

No Direct "Jackpot" Knowledge.

MR. MARBLE—Have you any information along that line that such jackpots or corruption funds have existed?

MR. FUNK—No sir, except on hearsay.

MR. MARBLE—Have you had any business dealings with Senator Lorimer, either for yourself or for the company? I will ask that question, now, to make sure.

MR. FUNK—No, neither my company nor myself have had any dealings with Senator Lorimer. The Harvester company had dealings with the Federal Construction company, a building concern. They erected a warehouse for the Harvester company a few years ago.

MR. MARBLE—Do you understand that Senator Lorimer is interested in that company in any way?

MR. FUNK—Yes, I understood he was interested in that company. I understand he was president, as I recall it.

MR. MARBLE—How long ago was that?

MR. FUNK—I think that was in 1897 or 1898. I will not be sure.

MR. MARBLE—Did you have any difficulty about that?

MR. FUNK—Not that I am aware of.

Deering Friendly to Lorimer.

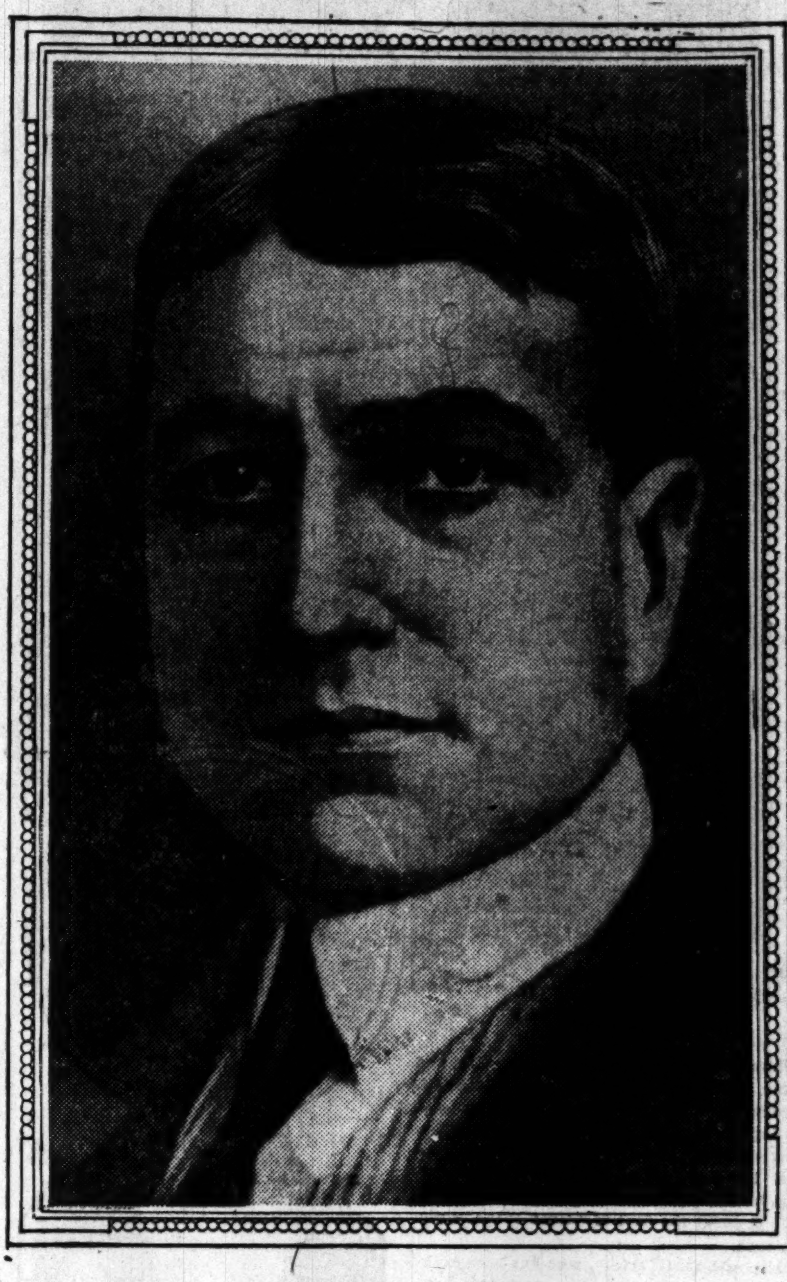
MR. MARBLE—Do you know Charles Deering's relationship or attitude to Mr. Lorimer?

MR. FUNK—I always thought it was friendly.

MR. MARBLE—Have you discussed it with him?

MR. FUNK—I think so, in a general way.

Tells Senate Committee How Hines Asked Him for $10,000 for Lorimer Fund.



CLARENCE S. FUNK,
General Manager International Harvester Company.

I think I have heard him make expressions that were friendly to the senator.

MR. MARBLE—Was it at his suggestion that you got into communication with the senator about this examination or appointment?

MR. FUNK—It is my recollection that the senator's secretary, I think his name was Mr. Ward, called me on the phone about it the first time. I am not sure about that.

MR. MARBLE—Do you know Rodney B. Swift?

MR. FUNK—Yes.

MR. MARBLE—Are you familiar with the litigation which followed his departure from the Harvester company's employment?

MR. FUNK—In a general way.

MR. MARBLE—Was Senator Lorimer at all concerned with that?

MR. FUNK—I never heard his name mentioned in connection with it.

MR. MARBLE—Had you at all considered him as connected with it?

MR. FUNK—No.

Calls Self Political Mugwump.

MR. HYNES—If I may ask, what are your political affiliations? You need not disclose it if it does any damage.

MR. FUNK—I am a mugwump, I suppose.

MR. HYNES—First on one side and then on the other, as Conkling said?

MR. FUNK — Yes, and frequently on neither.

MR. HYNES—Have you ever been a supporter of Senator Lorimer in any of his elections?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. HYNES—Did you in the last year take any interest or participate in any manner in the manifesting of your interest or pressing your opinion or wishes on the congress, generally or individually, with respect to the tariff?

MR. FUNK—I should say no. I was here a number of times in connection with the tariff, generally at the request of other people.

MR. HYNES—What other people?

MR. FUNK—I was here twice at the request of Senator Aldrich, as I remember, and I think once at the request of Congressman Mann.

Gave Information on Tariff.

MR. HYNES—You mean to advise them with respect to some element?

MR. FUNK—No; to give them information regarding specific matters which they thought I would have a judgment on.

MR. HYNES—Did you go before the senate committee on finance?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. HYNES—Did any other senators invite you, or did you talk with any other senators, whether invited or not?

MR. FUNK—I talked to Senator Cullom. I have talked to Senator McCumber.

MR. HYNES—On which side of the question were you?

MR. FUNK—Neither side. We were indifferent in the matter

MR. HYNES—Were you indifferent as to the farmers' free list bill?

MR. FUNK—Yes.

MR. HYNES—You had no interest in the question of agricultural implements? On the question of the protection of them?

MR. FUNK—No.

MR. HYNES—As to whether they should be put on the free list or not?

MR. FUNK—We were indifferent in the matter, and so expressed ourselves.

Unafraid of Lorimer's Power.

MR. HYNES—Did you apprehend that Senartor Lorimer would be the more important factor in connection with your issue as to the opening or closing of the stream at Western avenue, where your plant is, of the Chicago river, if he became a senator, than when he was a member of the lower house?

MR. FUNK—Yes, I think he would, naturally.

MR. HYNES—Did that excite your interest in any manner with respect to the election of Senator Lorimer?

MR. FUNK—I would not say that it did. I would not say that it did not.

Mr. Funk was subjected to a grilling cross examination by W. J. Hynes, but his story remained unshaken. Few additional and no important conflicting details were elicited.

The disclosure of the Hines detectives following Mr. Funk came about when Senator Kenyon asked the witness if he had ever been subjected to any threats or intimidation in connection with the Lorimer case.

SENATOR KENYON—These threats I was asking about, where do they come from?

MR. FUNK—They have come on the telephone.

SENATOR KENYON—Were they all anonymous, or do you know?

MR. FUNK—I have had anonymous letters.

SENATOR KENYON—Well, we all get those. Have you had any threats from people whom you know?

MR. FUNK—I have been followed frequently at nights, in fact everywhere I have gone since I testified.

SENATOR KENYON—Have you been followed any differently since you testified before?

MR. FUNK—Only a little more sharply—pardon me. I do not mean to say that I was followed before I testified.

SENATOR KENYON—A man is followed sometimes in Chicago, but is that true since you came to Washington?

MR. FUNK—Yes.

SENATOR KENYON—To testify here?

MR. FUNK—Yes.

Man Admitted Trailing Him.

SENATOR KENYON—Have you talked with any of the people who are following you?

MR. FUNK—Yes, I have talked with one of them.

SENATOR KENYON—Will you give us his name, please?

MR. FUNK—Well, I hope you will not require me to do that. This man is here. He confessed that he was following me, hired for the purpose.

SENATOR KENYON—Hired by whom?

MR. FUNK—Well, he was sent here by his agency.

SENATOR KENYON—A detective agency?

MR. FUNK—Yes, and he gave me his name in confidence. I have his name and his address.

SENATOR KENYON—And the name of the agency?

MR. FUNK—It is the Thiele detective agency, in Chicago.

SENATOR KENYON—Is that man in the room now?

MR. FUNK—Well, there are four men on the job in Washington at the present time, or were this morning. I was followed here this forenoon and afternoon, both.

SENATOR KENYON—Any of them in the room now?

MR. FUNK—I am not sure. There were two on the street as I came in. I have the descriptions of all of them.

Name Given in Confidence.

SENATOR KENYON—You have the name of one of them, have you?

MR. FUNK—Yes, sir.

SENATOR KENYON—That you could give the committee?

MR. FUNK—Yes, sir; I can produce him before the committee if you desire it.

SENATOR LEA—I should like to hear the name of one.

MR. FUNK—That name was given me in confidence, senator. The man will lose his job if the name is divulged.

THE CHAIRMAN—He ought to, ought he not?

MR. FUNK—He ought to what?

THE CHAIRMAN—He ought to lose his job.

MR. FUNK—Why?

THE CHAIRMAN—If he was employed to follow you and told you about it.

SENATOR GAMBLE—If you do not tell his name, probably the whole corps will be discharged.

SENATOR KENYON—How did you happen to get the name?

SENATOR LEA—I think we ought to have the name.

MR. HYNES—It is very easy to make a statement of that kind and let it go.

Chairman Asks All Facts.

THE CHAIRMAN (after consultation)—I think we are entitled to the full information.

SENATOR KENYON—What were the circumstances under which he told you?

MR. HANECY—He ought to produce the man here, too, if he can.

MR. HYNES—Let us have the name, anyway. He says he can produce him. Let us have him.

SENATOR KENYON—Please give us the circumstances under which you got the name.

MR. FUNK—The circumstances? This man followed me in Chicago; he has followed me to my house; he has watched my house at night, and he has hung around my office.

THE CHAIRMAN—Do you speak from personal knowledge or from information which he has given you?

MR. FUNK—I speak from knowledge. I recognized the man the moment I saw him in Washington as having been on the job in Chicago.

SENATOR LEA—Did he come here on the same train with you?

MR. FUNK—No, he came in the next morning, I think. I recognized him the first time I saw him, and spoke to him, and he followed me up here. He followed me here this morning.

SENATOR JOHNSTON—What did he tell you he was doing?

Detective, Trapped, Tells All.

MR. FUNK—I got the young man in a rather uncomfortable position, because I happened to recognize him; and I put him in the sweatbox a little bit, and he confessed that he had been hired to follow me or get something on me; that he was not proud of the job; he dislike it, and felt rather mean about it. He seemed to be a pretty decent chap. After I talked with him some little time he made practically a clean breast of it; he told me his name and all about it; I told him that I would not reveal his name; that I would keep it confidential, solely because he explained to me that he had a mother and a wife dependent on him for the job, which, of course, he would lose.

MR. HYNES—How did you get him in the sweat box, Mr. Funk?

MR. FUNK—I put him in there.

MR. HYNES—Give us the process, if you please. Was it what they call "the third degree?"

MR. FUNK—It may have been the third or fourth, but it was sufficient to get the information.

MR. HYNES—Tell us, if you please, what the proceeding was.

MR. FUNK—I do not think it will be denied that I have been followed all the time since I gave my testimony.

Willing to Produce Man.

MR. FUNK—Of course, if you keep investigating on this thing you will have the man's name. I would like to protect this chap if I can, but I am willing to produce him before the committee.

MR. HYNES—You are protecting him as you protected the name when you gave it to Mr. Kohlsaat. When you make your statement here we are entitled to the rest of it.

MR. FUNK—I made my statement in answer to a question.

MR. HYNES—I did not ask you any question of that kind.

MR. FUNK—Others besides yourself have been asking questions.

MR. HYNES—We want to know the name of those parties. You have made a statement here that goes into the record, and we want to know how much there is in it, and I want to know the nature of sweating proceedings. We want the facts known here. I do not know anything about it; but we want the facts known that you have stated.

MR. FUNK—Put Mr. Hines on the stand and ask him if he is not being reported to every night by these men.

MR. HYNES—You are on the stand now to answer questions.

MR. FUNK—If you are anxious to get the facts that is an easy way to get them.

MR. HYNES—I want them from you, after the statement that you have made and I understand the committee wants them.

Here there was a consultation among the members of the committee.

Seeks to Protect Detective.

SENATOR LEA—I think we ought to have them.

THE CHAIRMAN—I think the committee would like the name.

MR. FUNK—Will you permit me to produce this man before the committee without exposing him to the whole public?

MR. HYNES—We want the name.

SENATOR GAMBLE—The newspaper reporters would probably get him out in the hall anyway.

MR. FUNK—I have no objection to producing him before the counsel, unless he is run out of town in the meantime; but I would rather not.

MR. HYNES—You are giving him time by this delay.

MR. HANECY—We want his name. We would know who he was if he was brought in here.

(After a further consultation among the members of the committee.)

SENATOR FLETCHER—Has this man interfered with you any way, Mr. Funk?

MR. FUNK—Not at all.

THE CHAIRMAN—Have you received any information from him which indicates whether his employer is Senator Lorimer or any other individual?

MR. FUNK—He has told me who his employer is. It is not Senator Lorimer.

The hearing then was adjourned till tomorrow, Mr. Funk to continue testifying.

West Siders Protest "Persecution."

Resolutions protesting against a second investigation of the Lorimer case as in effect "persecution," adopted by a massmeeting of west side inhabitants of Chicago on Saturday, were presented to the senate today by Vice President Sherman, to whom they had been sent.

The resolutions declare that the senate has once cleared Senator Lorimer and that a second investigation is "founded on prejudice and injustice" and "bad public policy."

COUNCIL BLOCKS 77 CENT GAS BILL

Ordinance Goes Over to July 6; Twigg Promises Bemis Report This Week.

$360,000 GIVEN TO BRIDGES

Appropriation Obviates Necessity for Immediate Election to Validate Disputed Bonds.

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID.

Refused to pass ordinance for 77 cent gas.

Appropriated $360,000 for new Washington street bridge.

Ordered ordinance creating "anti-noise" zones.

Appropriated $6,000 for additional employés in law department.

Ordered an investigation of charges of "graft" made by the Examiner.

Received Merriam commission reports on several subjects.

Set next meeting for July 6.

By his introduction at last night's council meeting of an ordinance calling for a 77 cent gas rate for six months, Ald. Carl T. Murray smoked out the 70 cent gas advocates.

They are now forced into the open to fight with the declaration that a report from Prof. E. W. Bemis would be made this week, though but two weeks have been given to the investigation. The Murray ordinance, by agreement, was ordered published and referred to the committee on gas, oil, and electric light, with orders to report it at the next council meeting, July 6, together with an opinion from the corporation counsel.

Ald. Murray's ordinance was based on the present one, the only changes being the substitution of a 77 cent rate a thousand feet for 85, and the duration of the contract six months instead of five years. He spoke of the delay in getting action on the matter and cited precedents whereby the consumers got a little or no relief from public utility companies.

Argues for 77 Cent Rate.

He pointed out that while the present gas committee was debating a 70 cent proposition, a report advising a 77 cent rate as legal and equitable was already in their hands and untouched. He advocated suspension of the rules and immediate passage to effect a relief of 8 cents for a half year.

All eyes were turned toward Ald. Twigg, chairman of the gas committee. He said a comprehensive report would be in the hands of the councilmen by the end of the week.

Not satisfied with the Twigg promise, Ald. Fisher wanted to know what the gas chairman had up his sleeve. With the council vacation period approaching, he could not see what action could be taken or relief given the people for at least three months. This proved sufficient bait to get Ald. Twigg further into the field with the statement that he "hoped an ordinance would be introduced and passed before the vacation."

Ald. Foell added to the baiting by asking by whom the report would be made. Prof. Bemis, he was informed.

"Do I understand that Prof. Bemis has made a personal investigation of the gas plant in this short time?" demanded Ald. Foell.

"You know that's impossible," replied Twigg, reddening.

Clash Over Bemis Inquiry.

"I know that I will have small respect for a report made by an expert who is told in advance what the report shall be," announced Ald. Snow. Twigg heatedly denied that he or any one else had told Prof. Bemis what his findings should be.

Snow closed the debate by objecting to the Murray plan on the ground that it would at once be taken to the Supreme court by the gas company, and that the lower ordinance of Twigg would meet the same fate, making the city defend two suits relative to gas rates at the same time.

He asked Murray to withdraw his demand for a vote on the suspension of the rules and accept the compromise of committee reference with orders to report at the next meeting. This suggestion was accepted.

$360,000 for Washington St. Bridge.

The council unanimously apropriated $360,000 from the city's miscellaneous receipts for a bridge at Washington street, but before the action was taken it listened to criticisms of the manner in which the question of the invalidity of the $4,655,000 bridge bonds has been handled.

Ald. Foell asserted that the criticisms of the issue were not "prompted entirely by legal reasons."

"But we probably will have to submit," he added, "and I want to voice my personal opinion that there is little merit to the criticisms advanced now by attorneys for the bond purchasers. Personally I would like to have seen the opinion of the city law department upon this question published. I have talked with some good lawyers who hold that even if the section criticised had been omitted entirely the bonds would have been valid."

Obviates Immediate Election.

Ald. John A. Richert, chairman of the finance committee, pointed out that the appropriation would obviate the necessity of an immediate special election and stated that the bond issue would be resubmitted to the voters at the November election, that the $360,000 fund will be reimbursed if the issue is approved, and upon that understanding the appropriation was placed in the omnibus.

There was attached a provision that if the money is not necessary for the Washington street bridge—a possibility if the federal war department does not press its decision for the removal of the Lake street structure—the fund will be used for a span at Indiana street.

Powers Inquiry Ordered.

Ald. John Powers introduced a resolution directing an investigation of charges of "graft" published in the Chicago Examiner mentioning his name. The mayor was authorized to appoint an investigating committee of five.

Ald. Fred A. Britten's resolution for the creation of "anti-noise" zones within which peddlers shall be forbidden to cry their wares was referred to the judiciary committee.

TRIAL BOARD CLEARS SLEUTH.

Orders Reinstatement on Police Force of Patrick J. Keeley—Figured in Lee O'Neil Browne Case.

Detective Patrick J. Keeley, once convicted in the Criminal court of perjury but found not guilty on a second trial, was ordered reinstated in the police department yesterday by the trial board after hearing evidence that the former detective in State's Attorney Wayman's office was not intoxicated the day he testified in the second trial of Lee O'Neil Browne on Aug. 24, 1910.

Missing Man; Children Who Mourn Him.

STANLEY, HELEN, AND RUTH CARLSON

Since Thursday afternoon the wife and three children of G. O. Carlson, 4504 North Sawyer avenue, have been watching and waiting in vain for his return. The children, ranging is age from 2 to 6 years, do not appear to realize that there is anything alarming in the absence of their father, but the wife is under the care of women of the neighborhood.

It is said that Carlson, who has been married for eight years, has never before been away from home without notifying his family of his intentions and that he has no bad habits which might have led him to remain away inadvertently.

He left his home Thursday afternoon with $150, announcing that he was going to Sears, Roebuck & Co. to buy some agricultural implements and would be back the same evening. Inquiry proves that he never reached his destination and it is feared he may have been murdered and robbed.

G. O. CARLSON

CITY LOSES IN ANIMAL DEAL

Sells $45,000 Contract for $25, Says Merriam Commission.

RAP TAKEN AT POUND.

Tail End Report Offers Criticism on Several Departments.

The Merriam commission fired its last shots at mismanagement of city affairs at last night's council meeting. The commission sent in a "tail end" report which was ordered filed. It was found, however, to contain some important revelations regarding the money the city is losing annually in the removal of dead animals and the conduct of the dog pound.

The city is losing approximately $45,000 a year in revenue through the disposition of the carcasses of dead horses, the report states, and receives on a contract $25 annually. The five years' contract will expire in March, 1912, and different arrangements are urged by the commission.

Nets a Big Profit.

In order to show what revenue the city is giving away the report cites the following table of values of byproducts:

Horses' tails	$ .35
Horses' manes	$ .15- .20
Horses' hides (green)	3.50- 4.00
Horses, grease (per horse)	.50- 2.00
Horses, bones	.50
Minimum value, per horse	$5.00

The report asserts that one reduction company, which did not have the contract, was willing to pay $5 a carcass. The net profit to the present contractors, it was estimated, is 300 per cent.

The city pound was accused of loose bookkeeping and auditing methods, and of having no method of telling what animals had been killed. Valuable dogs, it was stated, were greatly sought after by the catchers, as they brought higher prices, of which the city's share was somewhat vague.

Forget to Charge Board.

Although dogs were supposed to be charged for at 25 cents a day, in addition to redemption fees, it was often the custom to charge that sum for the whole period of keep, the report says.

City offices which were criticised as "not efficiently performed" were city statistician, city physician, traction expert, fish inspector, and city architect, and it was recommended that they be dispensed with "unless radical changes are made in the method of conducting them."

WOMEN'S BIG HATS DOOMED; THAT'S WHAT MEN DECLARE.

Millinery Drummers in Convention, However, Will Start a Campaign for Larger Trunks on Railroad Trains.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 26.—Small hats—small in size, if not in price—will be the rule in woman's headgear for next winter, according to delegates attending the Millinery Traveling Men's National association convention.

The salesmen, however, are not taking any chances on the small size of hats and adopted resolutions protesting against the proposal of railway companies to limit the size of trunks to forty-five inches in height.

The association has a membership of 700, with fourteen posts located in the middle western states. There are 250 delegates in attendance.

Link Chicago and Indianapolis?

Application for franchise rights was made to the Gary board of public works yesterday by the Indianapolis, Chicago and Meridian railway company. The company expects to build an interurban line linking Indianapolis and Chicago.

SAYS GENTLEMAN SLEW MALLOY, TOO

slugged in the back of the head; my hat was knocked off. I was almost knocked down, and the saloonkeeper, Moody, picked up my hat and put it on my head after the men got away."

Sluggers Badly Confused.

Lynch became badly tangled when he tried to explain how he happened to meet Malloy in the saloon. One time he said he was on a street car and Malloy hailed him from the street. At another time he said they just happened to meet in a saloon. He admitted that he called Malloy back into the saloon when the young steamfitter was about to leave before the arrival of the "gun men." He described Gentleman's appearance and was caught again by declaring he had light hair.

"I wanted to buy him a drink," he said. "We were treating each other and he came back and we each had a drink of water."

"That was a fine treat to call a man back into a saloon for," Miss Josephine flashed back at him scornfully.

The police learned from other sources that Lynch and Malloy had also taken a drink together in another saloon across the street from the Moody place.

Mart Moody, owner of the saloon where the shooting occurred, told last night of the affair. He is not held to blame in any respect by the police, and they further say that it is known that the place has never been a "hangout" for the sluggers.

Tells How Murder Was Done.

"I was playing cribbage with George Young, a barber," he said, "when a man rushed in the side door of the place on the run. Two other men ran in the front door and there was a shot. I whispered to Young, 'It's a holdup,' and I slipped a roll of $175 from my pocket and dropped it in a cuspidor. I took out eleven dollar bills, the other loose money in my pocket, and laid it on the table where we were playing, for the supposed robbers. By that time, and much sooner than it takes to tell it, one man had struck Malloy, another had shot him, and the three men broke pell mell for the front door and out.

"Malloy fell at my feet crying out, 'I'm shot.' I ran to the door as soon as I could and called for the police. The men were gone. I couldn't give a description of the men if I had to. I don't think they were in the place thirty seconds. I did notice that one of them had a revolver in each of his hands as he ran toward the door. I do not know how long Malloy had been in the place, but the bartender, 'Al' Holmes, said he had served him and another man with water just before the shooting.

"As a matter of fact, I don't know how many men came in. I know I saw one man run in at the side door and the boys said two came in the front way. A man named Jewell was standing near the side door and saw one man run in. This fellow just seemed to run up to Malloy and strike him, and then run on by through and out the front door."

Wayman Fights Enright Bond.

Judge Kickham Scanlan, after listening to the testimony of witnesses for Enright all morning, stated that he would decide this morning whether to allow Enright out on bail on the Altman murder charge. State's Attorney Wayman personally fought bonds for the alleged slayer of Altman, and in the evening said he would demand that the prisoner be placed on trial for the murder not later than tomorrow.

During the argument of the attorneys Mr. Wayman said:

"Let Enright go on the stand and tell what he knows about Gentleman killing Altman in the Briggs house bar."

LIGHTNING PUTS CITY IN THE DARK

Strikes Main Street Light Feed Wire of Sanitary District in Country.

BOLTS IN OTHER PLACES.

Humidity and Heat Earlier in Day Kill Aged Man and Prostrate Several.

Chicago's streets were in darkness last night. From Morgan Park on the south to Rogers Park on the extreme north, not one electric street light was burning. The darkness was due to the thunder storm which struck the city shortly after 7 o'clock. The power cable wires of the Lockport power station of the sanitary district were struck between Chicago and Lockport and all the new lines of the district were put out of order.

Several squads of men were sent out from the station at Lockport and from the Western avenue terminal station at Western avenue and Thirty-first street, but it was several hours before the trouble was located, as no intermediate towns along the line receive their power from the Lockport station, and an investigation of the wires along the whole distance was necessary.

The county building and the city hall are supplied with power from the sanitary district plant and unless the damage is repaired before 8 o'clock this morning the elevator service in both structures will be tied up.

Not only were the residence districts affected by the darkness but the loop district fared no better. Theatergoers coming out of the playhouses were astonished to find the streets of the loop in total darkness, except for the lights that shone out of the windows of restaurants, hotels, and the few stores of the district that are open at night. The darkness was all the more intense on account of the cloudiness of the sky, as not a star was visible.

Suburbs Also Suffer.

The inconvenience was especially heavy in some of the suburbs, whose entire supply of electricity is furnished by the sanitary district's power house at Lockport. In Blue Island, Morgan Park, and Berwyn candles and kerosene lamps had to take the place of electric lights in the homes, while the streets remained perfectly dark except for a few gas lights.

Forest Park, the amusement park, was in total darkness, as Forest Park, the village, receives its light from Lockport. The park was crowded at the time of the storm, but there was no disorder when the pleasure seekers were told that the park would haye to shut down for the evening and every one left as soon as the rain ceased.

The police stations all over the city reported that the street lights in their districts were all out, but up to midnight no especial trouble on account of the darkness was reported, and most of the stations were quiet. The holdup men did not seem to be taking advantage of the utter darkness of the city to molest belated pedestrians.

Lightning Strikes Often.

The fire department was called out several times on account of lightning, but no great amount of damage was done. Among the places struck by lightning was the residence of Nick Sluiter, 7403 Morgan street, a two story frame structure. A bolt struck the roof, passing to the second story and knocking off the plaster from the walls. No one was hurt. Many of the neighbors were thrown from their feet when lightning struck the residence of D. A. Meeker, at 658 West Sixty-second stret. A. Ward was in the bath tub when lightning struck his residence, 7326 Yale avenue. He was not hurt.

Another bolt struck the power station at the Commercial club playgrounds, Lincoln street and West Chicago avenue, displacing a stone, which struck Henry A. Kaiser, an instructor at the playgrounds. Kaiser was taken to his home, at 2024 Thomas street, by the police of the West Chicago avenue station. He was not seriously hurt.

The storm seemed to have been felt more on the south and west sides, and little damage was reported to the north. Other buildings which were damaged by lightning on the south side were the residence of Charles Murphy, 7407 South Morgan street, where the roof and chimney of the house were struck, and a one story brick building at 6204 South Halsted street, occupied by a saloon, was struck and slightly damaged when the chimney was knocked down.

Heat Kills Aged Man.

The combined heat and humidity earlier in the day yesterday caused one death and several prostrations. Although the thermometer at 2 o'clock registered only 87 degrees, the humidity was 88 per cent.

Joseph Hebson, 77 years old, 919 Ridge court, Evanston, died at his home late in the day after he had been overcome by the heat. Hebson had been walking in the sun for some time when he was affected and returned home, dying a short time later.

The following were prostrated:

ABRAHAMS, JOSEPH; taken to county hospital.
GAROLSKA, ANTON, 1724 West Seventeenth street.
GWABACH, ——, 1417 Lill avenue.
JONES, LAGRANE, 1939 Sherman avenue.
M'AULIFFE, PATRICK, 515 East Forty-second place.
PAPAGANUS, ANDREW, Forty-eighth avenue and Lake street.
SHATZ, JACOB, 2051 Grand avenue.
VEOARIEK, ——, 1040 North Paulina street.

Bathing beaches on both the north and south sides were crowded, but the water was colder than for several weeks.

FATHER BEATS BABE WITH CAT-O'-NINE TAILS; JAILED.

Five Months Old Infant's Body Cut and Bruised—Found Sucking Sour Milk from Whisky Flask.

For beating his 5 months old daughter, Julia, with a cat-o'-nine tails until her little body was cut and bruised Andrew Shureley, 1954 Elston avenue, was fined $100 and costs by Municipal Judge Goodnow in the Court of Domestic Relations yesterday. Shureley was committed to the house of correction.

The complainant was Charles H. Brayne, an officer of the Illinois Humane society, who said:

"When I went to Shureley's house on June 21 I found the child cut and bruised on many parts of her body. She was lying on a cot, half starved, sucking sour milk from a whisky flask. There was a swarm of flies about the cot.

"This man—the father—was drunk and out of work. He has forced his wife to work on a farm, and he would take her earnings and spend the money for drink."

The Shureley children—there is another 2 years old—are being cared for in the Juvenile home.

Autos Yield City $17,000 in Day.

City Collector Cohen's warning to automobile and other vehicle owners to take out wheel tax licenses before the legal time for issuing the licenses expired brought $17,000 into the city's treasury yesterday, the last day to pay the fee.

TAUNT STATE WITH LORIMER

Insurance Head Says Scandal Hurts Chicago's Trade.

ASK, 'WHO'S YOUR SENATOR?'

Dobyns Hits Sullivan and Cannon; Merriam Also Speaks.

Lorimerism and the name of the junior senator from Illinois is injuring business of Chicago firms from coast to coast, according to A. W. McArthur, assistant agency superintendent of the National Life Insurance company, who spoke last night at a meeting of the Thirty-fifth Ward Progressive Republican club. The meeting was held in the First Christian church of Austin. Fletcher Dobyns and Charles E. Merriam delivered short talks.

"In my travels about the country, and from coast to coast, I meet many persons who, after I have introduced myself as being from Chicago, say: 'Let me see, who is your senator?'" he said. "And that settles it."

Think Illinois "All Graft."

"They have the idea that Chicago is filled with crooks, that every man and every official in the city has a price, and a low one at that. This is the result of bossism and machine politics and it is what this club is trying to wipe out."

Fletcher Dobyns also paid his compliments to Lorimer.

"The people of Illinois are sick and tired of hearing the name of Lorimer coupled with that of their state," he declared. "When you speak of Illinois it brings to mind such men as Lorimer, Roger Sullivan, Cannon, and others of their kind. Ninety-five per cent of the people want good government and clean politics, and the reason they have not had them is because the task looked too great. Now they have found out that they can get what they want."

Merriam Says "Fight On."

Prof. Merriam outlined the work of the new organization.

"During the campaign we promised the people that we were starting a series of fights that would be carried on much longer than the campaign and over an area greater than just the city of Chicago," he said. "The organization of this club is the fulfilling of the pledges that were then made and we are fighting for the same principlees. Various clubs like this are being formed all over the state of Illinois.

"I am not here this time as a candidate, because I am not one, and I am not here because I expect to be a candidate, for I do not expect to be one, but I am here to help in the fight for principles and I intend to keep on fighting for them. On next primary day the progressive Republican party will sweep Cook county. The next set of officials of Chicago and the next set of officials of Illinois will be representative of progressive ideas."

BOY BROODS OVER QUARREL; WARNS FAMILY, KILLS SELF.

Has Difference with Companions—Tells Parents He Wants to Die—Uses His Father's Revolver.

Following a quarrel with several school comrades, Louis Hanson, a 12 year old boy, 1418 Wallace street, Chicago Heights, killed himself Sunday afternoon. He shot himself in the head and was found lying on the floor dead by other members of the family.

Just before the tragedy the boy went out for a ride on his pony. Upon returning home he told some neighbors that he had dismounted, gone to sleep in the hot sun, and had a severe headache. Upon entering the house he informed his parents that he had decided to end his life.

Louis went to his room and a moment later the report startled the others. They ran to the room, but the boy was dead.

MAN AND WIFE DIE BY GAS.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lehman the Victims—Jets in Two Rooms Wide Open.

Mystery surrounds the death of Edward Lehman, 63 years old, and his wife, Anna Lehman, aged 59 years, who were found asphyxiated at their home, 1947 Larrabee street, early yesterday morning. Apparently both were in good health and well cared for financially. Gas jets in two rooms were wide open, as were the burners on a small gas range. Mr. Lehman's body was found in the kitchen, while that of his wife was in an adjoining room laying face downward. Ernst Lehman, 1311 Ravenswood park, who is the only child, works in the Chicago postoffice.

FIRE AT CHURCH CRUSADE RESULT?

Blaze Found at Buena Park Memorial and Man Visits North Shore Edifice.

THINK IT ARSON CASE.

Residents of Vice Ridden District Opine Revenge by Objects of Fight.

North shore residents are alarmed over what appears to have been a concerted attack by incendiaries on the forces that have been fighting the vice element in that district. The North Shore Improvement and Protective associations, as one result, last night appointed a committee on law and order, with instructions to gather evidence against the bathing beaches, the saloons, gambling places, and disorderly flats in the district.

Last Sunday night an attempt was made to set fire to the Buena Memorial Presbyterian church, Evanston avenue and Sheridan road. A small bundle of cotton saturated in oil was ignited and thrown into the basement of the church during services. A few moments later two suspicious looking characters were chased out of the North Shore Congregational church, Wilson avenue and Sheridan road, and the Sheridan Park Methodist church.

The pastors of these churches and members of their congregations have been leaders in the fight to regulate the bathing beaches and saloons and rout the gambling and disorderly houses of the neighborhood.

Makes Inquiry of Janitor.

The man was first seen about the Buena Park church when late in the afternoon he approached the aged colored janitor of the building and asked at what time the services opened. Later he asked the way to the nearest Baptist church. He then followed the janitor into the basement of the church and attempted to remain there when the janitor left.

Soon after he had left, members of the congregation detected the odor of smoke, and while the services continued the ushers looked for the cause. In the corner of one of the smaller rooms they found the cotton, heavily soaked with chemical and burning brightly. It was carried out before any damage was done except to the carpet.

Descriptions of Men Tally.

The man who was at the church is described by one of the ushers and a deaconess of the church as about 20 years old, of slight build, and shabbily dressed. He was a stranger to all of those in the church who saw him.

As soon as the fire was put out at the Buena church the ushers, fearing the man might visit the Sheridan Road Methodist church and the North Shore Congregational church, started to warn the members of these two congregations. When they arrived at the Congregational church they were told about the man found prowling in the basement there. The two men answered the same general description.

To Start Systematic Work.

A permanent organization was effected last night of the North Shore Improvement and Protective associations to continue on a systematic basis with the stamping out of disorder and crime on the north shore. The meeting was held at the North Shore Congregational church.

The following officers were elected: Matthew Mills, president; H. I. Cleveland, secretary; E. Norman Clasen, treasurer.

The executive committee, which was instructed by the meeting to proceed at once with gathering evidence against all the disorderly elements on the north shore, consists of F. C. Shoemaker, J. B. Carter, W. A. Pickart, F. M. Linderman, B. P. Lord, and the officers of the associations as ex-officio members. Attorney Joseph G. Tyssowski was chosen counsel for the body.

A committee was named to wait on the Lincoln park commissioners and ask them why the beach proprietors were given right to drive piling into the beach and string lights out over the water.

SEE JURY GUARDED BY COURT'S ORDER

Seriousness of Case After Mona Rees Testifies Moves Judge to Step.

GIRL DEFENDS 'PROPHET.'

Fences Skillfully to Avoid Answering Prosecutor's Direct Thrusts.

So much more serious did the case of Evelyn Arthur See appear yesterday afternoon, after a day of testimony by Mona Rees, that Judge Honoré ordered the jury kept under official guard during the rest of the trial. Its members were allowed two hours in which to get their things together, at the end of which time they were ordered to return to the court. From now until the end of the trial they will be kept incommunicado.

Judge Honoré gave as his official reason for this act the large amount of publicity which has been given the case, and the influence this might have on the decisions of the jurors.

It was almost noon when Mona Rees, carrying a pocketbook and a volume of "Absolute Life on Trial" in her right hand, entered the courtroom. She laid them on the witness chair, as she raised her hand to take the oath. Her answer to the clerk's question was clear and earnest, and as she sat down she included the jurors in an unembarassed good morning smile. Her color was good and her face placid. She was dressed in a manner not dissimilar to a bed tick.

Faces Long, Hard Ordeal.

It was a long three hours of questioning which the girl had before her, a three hours full of more difficult questions than any put to Mildred Bridges. She was confronted with letters from See written to her while he was in jail, in one of which he is alleged to have said:

"Do not answer any question or anything else on the stand in the meaning which is in the mind of the questioner. Answer it according to the knowledge you have of the Truth. Communicate this to Mildred and support her in your strength and knowledge of the Truth."

"Is this in See's handwriting?" the prosecutor demanded.

The girl gazed at it for a long time.

"I would not swear to it," she answered, in a low tone. "It looks like his."

"Is there any difference between your conception of the truth and that of persons who are not acquainted with absolute life?"

"None that I know of."

This letter was the state's strong point of the day. Although it was not introduced in full into the evidence, the prosecutor managed by skillful maneuvering to get the most incriminating part of it fixed in the minds of the jurors.

Mona Firm in Denials.

Five times during the afternoon the same question which last Thursday caused Mildred Bridges to turn white and gaze into space as she answered was directed at Mona Rees. Each time she answered "no," her fingers clutching uneasily at the pages of "Absolute Life on Trial" on her cheeks crimson. The question asked each of the girls was an almost brutally direct one concerning her relations with See.

"Did you not confess it to Capt. Danner when you were arrested?" the prosecutor pressed on.

"No."

"Nor to Officer Essick?"

"No."

"Nor to anyone else—any newspaper men?"

"No, I said nothing except that I had never done anything wrong of that kind in my life." The girl's tone was desperate.

Again and again the prosecutor put the question, while the courtroom held its breath and Evelyn Arthur See leaned far over the lawyer's table, his chin set hard with emotion. Each time the girl remained faithful, voicing denials that were scarcely audible; her eyes wavering in an effort to return the prosecutor's glance.

Five times the prosecutor digressed, only to come inexorably back to the brutal, direct query. It was like a succession of blows. Mona Rees almost shuddered before them, but she never yielded.

Defense Recalls Mildred.

The morning began with an unexpected recall of Mildred Bridges to the witness stand. The defense wished to offset the effect which the reading of "MS. 13" had made upon the jury and to lay the foundation for a motion to strike it and other documents from the records.

The girl seemed more fatigued than at any time before in the trial. Her face was deadly white; she looked five years older than when she was first called to the stand a week ago. Her lips, almost unnaturally red, and her eyes, lying beneath her long lashes like smoldering coals, added to her pallor a mysterious touch of vivid life.

In a low, monotonous voice she reiterated her previous assertions that she had never read "MS. 13." Then the "wife" letter was brought up again.

"Did not Mr. See tell you to destroy this; that it might be misunderstood by others?" inquired one of the attorneys for the defense.

The girl assented, and, after obtaining from her that her father had retained the attorney who advised her to refuse to answer the grand jury's question as to her relations with See, the defense told her she could leave the stand.

Reads from "Personality."

Then followed an hour and a half of reading by Mr. Burnham from the "Book on Personality," of the "Book of Truth" series. The book said in regard to Mildred and Mona:

> With the free mother and the free woman set up in the world, Absolute Life comes to its full strength.
>
> The motherhood of the new race is declared. I wipe away the barriers and give this child as a sign that I have made all things pure.
>
> Into the house of the Lord she [Mona] shall come purified. The sex life being purified, her issue shall be pure. A new race is born thus and the son of God is known.
>
> Among you is the mother of my children. I know this, but the world cannot know until it has been populated with the new race.
>
> The spirit of truth is the utterance of God. It is the beginning of the new race which God has to give to the world.
>
> The maiden [Mildred] shall be known as the wife of God, she and the one with her. She is the wife in the personal life, which personalizes the Lord. Honor her and love her, for she has given up her young personal life and companions to come into this. She lays the foundation for the coming of the new race.

Form Reversal as to Bridges.

In regard to Stephen Bridges, both before and after he denounced the "Life" and had withdrawn from it his financial support, See had written:

BEFORE.

> He supports and strengthens his wife and daughter to bring forth the new race.
>
> I, God, declare it and make him supreme above all men.
>
> Let all women love him; he is my true support.
>
> Let the world know him; I have blessed him.

AFTER.

> Let him be marked as the man who, though he might have been honored in the bringing in of the new race, has, through his not becoming pure, fallen so that what had been his credit has become his dishonor.
>
> His mutterings shall come to naught. He has lost everything; he has cut himself off from all good. He who raises his hand against my life shall perish.
>
> I have been looked upon as too transcendent to take interest in the every day affairs of life; but it will be found that I take care of my own.
>
> I have put the card in her hand, and when she shall play it he shall die of disgrace.
>
> He has had a great opportunity, but he has been too small minded to perceive it. I shall put him in the hands of his babe, and she shall render him powerless. He has no jurisdiction over her; she is out of his life. I now disarm and disgrace him. I make his daughter tower over him.

Attorneys in Hot Tilts.

From the beginning until the end of Mona Rees' testimony the air was filled with attorneys' squabbles, with objections, citations, exceptions, and, on occasion, appellations.

She stated her age as 21, younger than has been supposed.

Mr. Burnham did not handle Mona so delicately as he had Mildred. His tones were usually tinged with sarcasm, and his voice forsook its usual polite curiosity. After a long bit of fencing, he inquired once:

"Where did Mr. See sleep while you were sleeping in the front bedroom of the flat on Racine avenue?"

"I don't remember."

"Do you remember whether he ever occupied the front bedroom while you were occupying it?"

The girl flushed. "I'm sure he didn't," she shot back.

"You're surer of that than you were of your other answers?" The query was put in a voice of gentle sarcasm.

"Much surer!"

A little later Mona admitted that she was still living with See in the flat on Racine avenue, and the same question came again. After some more evasive and unimportant testimony court was adjourned until 9 o'clock this morning.

DEFENDS WIFE'S GOOD NAME; STABBED TWENTY-ONE TIMES.

Thaddeus Kosniak Murdered Because He Resented Insults to Spouse—Men Arrested Blame One Another.

Defense of his wife's good name led to the murder of Thaddeus Kosniak, 26 years old, 1338 West Ohio street, early yesterday morning. He was stabbed twenty-one times and died forty-five minutes later in the county hospital.

Three men are under arrest, charged with the crime. They accuse one another of having done the stabbing. They are Louis Krzyzenowski, 721 North Center avenue; Tony Niebzwiobek, 610 North Elizabeth street, and Joseph Legodzonski, 1730 West Superior street.

The quarrel started late Sunday night in a West Huron street dance hall.

HARRINGTON REGAINING MIND.

Former U. S. Weather Chief, in Asylum, Responds to Name for First Time in Nine Years.

New York, June 26.—Mark W. Harrington, formerly a professor in the University of Michigan and later chief of the United States weather bureau, who has been an inmate of the New Jersey state asylum at Morris Plains for nine years, has shown a sign of returning memory, according to an announcement made today by Dr. Britton D. Evans, superintendent of the institution.

During all his residence at Morris Plains Mr. Harrington has called himself "John Doe," but within the last few days he has responded to his correct name.

Dr. Evans made the test, and will make others soon, he said today, prior to testifying in proceedings brought by Mrs. Harrington to have herself given control of her husband's estate.

DENIES SHE LOVED SLAYER

Mrs. J. W. Springer Allowed to Testify in Henwood Trial.

"JUST FRIENDS," SHE SAYS.

Admits Asking Defendant to Get Her Letters from Von Puhl.

Denver, Colo., June 26.—[Special.]—A chain of sensations marked the Henwood trial today. First of all, District Attorney Elliott let down the bars and withdrew the objections which had kept out the testimony of Mrs. J. W. Springer last week and much of Henwood's own story.

Mrs. Springer was recalled by counsel for the defense and allowed to tell her story. She was concerned more with bolstering up her own reputation than helping the defendant.

On cross examination the district attorney asked:

"Did your intimacy with Henwood date from early April?"

"Yes."

Henwood's lawyer, scenting danger in her reply, quickly put in:

"Did you mean that you were other than just good friends?"

Never More Than Good Friends.

"Certainly not," she said. "We were never anything but just friends.'

She was not questioned concerning her friendship with Von Phul.

Mrs. Springer told of a letter she had written Von Phul at Henwood's demand and dictation, telling Von Phul not to come near her.

She said she had asked Henwood to assist her in her trouble with Von Phul and to try to get her letters returned, but later had asked Henwood to drop the matter and let her take care of it herself.

Mrs. Springer said she had destroyed, at Henwood's demand, a photograph of Von Phul presented to her by the latter. Later Henwood presented her photographs of himself, with inscriptions thereon showing how much he thought of her.

Sends Note to Henwood.

Von Phul saw these photographs in her apartment, tore them to pieces, sat down at her desk and wrote the following note:

"Dear Frankie—You destroyed my picture and here is a part of yours."

This he inclosed with a piece of Henwood's photograph and sent to Henwood. This happened on the day of the shooting.

Mrs. Springer told of Von Phul's coming to the box occupied by herself, her husband and Henwood at a theater the night before the shooting, and grabbing her by the arm. She arose and was going to leave the box, but was prevented by Henwood and her husband. On the evening of the shooting Von Phul came to her room in the Brown hotel, called her into the hall, called her a liar, and struck her in the face.

Henwood was cross examined by the district attorney and admitted that he has a wife and two children somewhere in the state of New York.

He said that on the day of the shooting he received a note from Mrs. Springer warning him to keep away from her room, that Von Phul was watching for him and threatening to kill him. Then Henwood said he bought a revolver.

Mrs. Springer's attorney today filed application in the district court for temporary alimony of $300 a month pending termination of the divorce proceedings instituted by Mrs. Springer.

SMUGGLING CASE COVERS $2,000,000

Richard Parr Calls Mrs. Jenkins' Charges Against N. Allen Entering Wedge

BRIBE DOZEN INSPECTORS

New York Banker Leader in the Plot; His Wife's $1,000,000 Necklace Escapes Duty.

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—Deputy Surveyor Richard Parr, who has been investigating charges of smuggling made against Nathan Allen, the leather manufacturer of Kenosha, Wis., and John R. Collins, a coal operator of Nashville, Tenn., by Mrs. Helen Dwelle Jenkins, said today that the case against those two men was only the entering wedge in an investigation by which the government expects to uncover a smuggling scheme involving at least $2,000,000.

It is asserted that the principal in the case, the man who managed the smuggling, is a prominent New York banker.

Banker's Wife Also Smuggler.

Information obtained today points to the fact that not only is this banker wanted, but that the authorities will be exceedingly pleased to interrogate his wife. Boasting by the woman is said to have led to proof that she not only knew of her husband's successful efforts to swindle the government but that she took part in certain operations herself.

Not many years ago the banker and his wife, who maintained handsome establishments in Paris and New York, bought in London a pearl necklace, said to have been worth more than $200,000. This was sent by the husband's "underground" system to the United States, where it entered the country at New York duty free.

The following year the wife again went abroad, and on her return there were stored in a pocket in her trunk several valuable pearls to be added to the necklace. The next summer more pearls were brought over, all carefully matched, and during subsequent seasons still other gems were added to the string, until the necklace today is valued at little under $1,000,000.

Other Extensive Smuggling.

Not only did the woman bring in the pearls without the formality of declaring them, but she is alleged to have smuggled great quantities of valuable lingerie, gowns, and works of art. These were bought in Paris, Berlin, and Vienna from well known dealers and were brought across the ocean in trunks. All these articles were intended for the use of the woman herself.

But this woman's feats of smuggling were puny when compared with those of her husband. From a customs official was received some interesting information concerning this phase of the case. It appears, according to the informant, that the banker, finding it a simple matter to bribe customs inspectors and avoid payment of duty on articles of his own, invited others to share in his good fortune.

Bribed Dozen Inspectors.

Having already bribed two inspectors he set about to enmesh others and succeeded in creating a personal staff of at least a dozen.

His method was to notify the chief of this "staff" when returning voyagers were due to arrive, and he so arranged the inspection that all trunks belonging to these travelers were passed without more than a cursory examination. The inspectors were paid, so it is alleged, $100 for each trunk passed in this manner. So carefully were the plans laid that no one high in authority discovered that anything was wrong until Collector Loeb took office.

The banker made this system a means of getting business for his bank. He would get goods in free for business men and they would agree to deposit in his bank.

Mr. Parr said that if the case had not been published prematurely he would have had evidence enough to present to the grand jury and ask for an indictment. He declared that Mrs. Jenkins, the woman to whom Allen is alleged to have given rich gifts of jewels before they quarreled, was not the government's original source of information.

The customs official said that he had picked up the case himself and began working on it last April and that when he confronted the Jenkins woman with his evidence she at first denied all knowledge of the smuggling and did her best to protect Allen.

Customs Men Bribed.

Mr. Parr says that several customs men are involved in accepting bribes to help through the smuggled stuff.

Allen's lawyers and Collins' lawyers had offered to settle in full with the government, Mr. Parr said, but all offers had been refused and the cases would go to trial if the grand jury returned indictments.

Collector Loeb declined to discuss the case today, but it was said that he has started an investigation of the report that customs men were bribed when the illegal importations were made. United States District Attorney Wise gave out this statement:

"In the matter of Nathan Allen, Mr. Wise was seen and stated that the matter had been placed in his hands and was under investigation and that further than this he would not discuss it."

Last month Mrs. Jenkins went to Chicago, where she was met by Parr in the course of his investigation. It is said that the government's information in her case concerns jewelry and wearing apparel valued at over $300,000.

Many Rumors Are Heard.

Since the investigation was taken up many stories calculated to discredit Mr. Parr have reached government officers.

The Mooney & Boland detective agency, which has for a long time acted in Mr. Allen's interests so far as those interests concern Mrs. Jenkins, denied today that it was one of their operatives who spoke to Mrs. Parr on the telephone.

Dancing the "Grizzly bear" is expensive in public. Clarence Stonehill, 10124 Avenue L, South Chicago, learned this yesterday when he was fined $25 by Judge Fry for his share in such a dance. Miss Elizabeth Arndt, 10337 Avenue M, South Chicago, who danced with Stonehill, was fined $1. The dance took place at a German picnic.

CHENEY'S DAUGHTER DIVORCED.

Mrs. Harold Havens Granted Interlocutory Decree from Husband, a Millionaire, in Western Courts.

San Francisco, Cal., June 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hope Cheney Havens, daughter of John Vance Cheney, formerly of Chicago, today was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from her husband, Harold Havens, the Piedmont millionaire.

Children Unite Parent Enemies.

Emma Marie Schaenfeld

Charles Schoenfeld lives at 4026 Lexington street and is one of the wealthiest contractors on the west side. His daughter is Emma Marie. Schoenfeld's rival in business on the west side is Arthur Koeppe, also a contractor. He has a son named Arthur, who is of the romantic age of 22.

Schoenfeld and Koeppe have fought each other in business for three years. Their business enmity gradually turned into personal enmity, and for a year past neither man has recognized the other when they met on the street. On the 10th of October, 1908, Emma's sister, May Lillian, was married. Emma was the bride's attendant and Arthur was best man.

Following the wedding Emma and Arthur pledged their faith and at the same time agreed to use their efforts to end the war of dollars. One week ago Emma told her father of her engagement. He stormed, but said he would think it over, and finally decided that his differences with Koeppe were not so great as he once thought them.

A meeting of the two families was effected, and next Thanksgiving day the young people will marry.

WIFE WILL SUE E. R. THOMAS

Action for Divorce Soon Will Be Started in Paris.

HUSBAND NOW A CRIPPLE.

Gathering of Family Said to Be for Finance Conference.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, June 26.—Mrs. Linda Lee Thomas, wife of Edward R. Thomas, has separated from her husband and is arranging to sue for an absolute divorce in the French courts.

That the Thomases have been parted has been known to members of New York and Newport society sojourning in Paris, but until the arrival of Mrs. Thomas here two weeks ago it was hoped the couple could be reconciled.

Crippled by Auto Accident.

Thomas came to Paris eighteen months ago, following a trip he and his wife took on a houseboat up the Nile. This trip was taken following an automobile accident at Long Branch in August, 1908, when his leg was broken at the knee. Since then Thomas has been a cripple.

Recently Thomas often had been seen with the beautiful young woman. A week before Mrs. Thomas arrived here, Mr. Thomas' mother, Mrs. Samuel Thomas, and his sister, Mrs. Robert Livingston Beeckman, came to Paris. There were many conferences between the mother and her children.

Wife in Another Hotel.

Mrs. Edward R. Thomas, returning here, did not go to the hotel occupied by her husband and mother-in-law, but to another near by. Thomas is never seen with his wife, and it is declared further that her coming here is for the express purpose of arranging a financial settlement, which must be fixed at a family conference.

TELLS COURT OF KISSLESS WOOING

Banker E. V. Gambier Says His Wife Showed Little Affection for Him.

REPULSED AT THE ALTAR

Chauffeur Testifies That Another Man Caressed Her in an Automobile.

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—Edward Victor Gambier, cashier of the Merchants' Exchange National bank, took the witness stand this afternoon before Supreme Court Justice Pendleton in the suit brought by his wife, Mrs. Edith Russell Gambier, for a separation on the ground of abandonment.

He told of meeting her first in 1903 when she was still in school, and of subsequent meetings. He said he didn't begin to get really fond of her until 1908, and then he asked her to take a wedding trip with him to Egypt.

"She said no," said Mr. Gambier. "I was in love with her, and indirectly I renewed the offer subsequently. A year later she wrote me and told me she had changed her mind."

Mr. Gambier testified that when he went to Atlanta in response to her letter saying she would marry him, she met him at the station, and he kissed her there. Later, when they were alone at her house, she sat on his lap. He asked her to write something on his shirt bosom that he could carry back home with him the next day, and she wrote, "I love you." Except for the shirt bosom message, he said she told him nothing about love then or later, and did not write such sentiments again.

Hysterical at the Wedding.

"I was supremely happy then," said Mr. Gambier. "I bought her an engagement ring containing two diamonds of one and a half karats each. She was in a hurry for them and wanted me to send the ring by express, but I disliked to do so.

Mr. Gambier said he took the ring to his fiancée, but shortly after she got it she appeared to grow cold. It distressed him, he said, but she explained it by saying she was tired and nervous. He went to Atlanta to bring her to New York for the wedding on April 30, 1910, and the last time he ever kissed her was in the dining car in Washington on the way here. They were here a week before the marriage, but he said she repelled all his manifestations of affection.

"At the wedding she broke out with a fit of hysterics in the vestibule of the church as we were leaving," he testified. "She withdrew her arm from mine and told me to go away."

Mr. and Mrs. Gambier went to Philadelphia that night on their way to Atlantic City, but he said she wouldn't kiss him in their apartment in the hotel, and when he asked her how she felt, she replied "I feel like h—."

He tried in every possible way to embrace her, he said, but she repulsed him every time.

Blurts Out "Suppressed Name."

Mrs. Gambier was on the witness stand on redirect examination when the case was resumed this morning and her counsel, Augustus Van Wyck, asked about the man who was alleged to have taken her to theaters and restaurants and on auto rides.

"Did that man ever take the liberty of kissing and embracing you?" asked Mr. Van Wyck.

"He never did."

On cross-examination Mrs. Gambier admitted taking auto rides with "the man with the suppressed name," as he was described, but did not know the chauffeur's name.

Charles W. Brewster, a chauffeur, was called later as a witness. He tried to remember to call his employer "Mr. Blank" in testifying, but once he forgot himself and said "Mr. Sickler." Harvey C. Sickler, an oil merchant at 165 Broadway, lives at 1 West Sixty-eighth street, where Mrs. Gambier said she visited the apartment of "the man with the suppressed name."

The witness said when he drove his employer and Mrs. Gambier through Central park on several occasions he looked back and saw them kissing and hugging each other, and once Mrs. Gambier was on his employer's lap.

WED IN WAUKEGAN DRUG STORE.

Eloping Chicagoans Pledge Troth in Prescription Room While Pillmakers Look On.

The prescription room of Holstein's drug store in Waukegan was transformed into a marriage altar last night to oblige a young couple who had come into the town from Channel Lake for the purpose of matrimony. They first hunted up County Clerk Hendee and were inquiring their way to a minister when it was discovered that Justice Julius Bolz was in the drug store. He agreed to perform the ceremony, and after the young man who was mixing pills had been ejected the ceremony was performed behind the prescription counter. The couple gave their names as Joseph A. Croke and Genevieve D. Powers, both of Chicago, but declined to give their addresses.

VOTE MACHINES GET EXPERTS' O. K.

Investigators Recommend Four Makes to Election Commissioners.

EMPIRE HEADS THE LIST.

Praise Is Dimmed, However, with Lengthy Unfavorable Criticisms.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.
[Late Deputy Commissioner of Public Works.]

The three mechanical experts appointed by County Judge Owens to investigate the four makes of voting machines on which the election commissioners received bids have decided that the use in Chicago of these devices is practicable. They recommend the product of the Empire Voting Machine company as best adapted to the city purposes.

The report of the specialists, W. L. Abbott, Paul M. Chamberlain, and William Wooley was made public yesterday afternoon. These experts summarize their conclusions as follows:

"Your commission believes that the voting machine art has been developed to a point where machines may be installed in Chicago with safety and economy and that such installation will be the means of greatly minimizing the possibility of fraud at the polls.

"Taking the machines as submitted and allowing for such changes as manufacturers would doubtless be glad to make if requested, your commission gives them the following relative rating for general adaptability to your purposes:

First—Empire voting machine.
Second—Triumph voting machine.
Third—International voting machine.
Fourth—Winslow voting machine.

All Machines Up to Standard.

The expert commission asserts that all of these machines meet the requirements of the state law and that the mechanical parts of each have sufficient strength and durability for their respective duties.

"All, with one exception," continues the report, "are of proper mechanical design to perform their required operations, the exception being in the case of the counter mechanism of the Winslow machine."

But these general complimentary statements do not mean that the experts found nothing to criticise. They point out defects in each machine, some of which are not considered vital and most of which may be overcome by the designers, in the opinion of the examiners.

According to the program heretofore outlined by both the county judge and the election commissioners, the next step will be toward finding the money with which to make a purchase. The report of the experts is considered as emphatic enough by the commissioners to warrant the use of machines in Chicago.

The question of funds may be a stumbling block, because the board has no appropriation, and attorneys who are specialists in municipal paper have asserted that the board has no power to issue bonds. Certain election officials privately predicted yesterday that they would be able to find all the cash needed to pay for machines as fast as these could be made and delivered.

Empire Third in Weight.

The mechanical experts rated the four machines for convenience in transportation and handling according to their weights as specified in the bids. The International comes first, with a weight of 6[illegible] to 715 pounds; the Triumph, second, with a weight of 72[illegible] pounds; the Empire, third, with a weight of 1,000 pounds, including wooden case; and the Winslow, last, with a weight of 1,260 pounds.

In its discussion of the distinctive features of the devices, the report says that the Triumph is of correct mechanical construction and is made of suitable and durable material. This machine, however, is considered deficient because there is no provision for limiting the number of times the judges may obtain access to the counters.

Continuing, the report reads: "The machine may also be made to give a false registration by means of a spring or a rubber band attached to the voting key. Such an attempt at fraud, however, would be so apparent that it could scarcely fail to attract the attention of the next voter."

Bad Faults Pointed Out.

Among other comments on the Empire, the report contains these:

"This is the only one of the four machines submitted which is not provided with a party lever. Because of its absence, which in other machines operates each of the individual keys of that party, split voting with the Empire must be done by pulling down individually the keys which represent the candidates to be voted for, and this on a seventy key board will scarcely be done within the minute's time permitted each voter in the voting booth. It also makes it necessary to add the ballot cast on the party key to those on the individual keys. The advantages of a party key on the other hand, are simplicity of instructions to the voter and less mechanical complication."

The Empire also is criticised because it does not limit the number of times judges may gain access to the counters.

At another place in the report the mechanical engineers say that they do not consider the use of the party key for the party lever a vital defect. The state voting machine law, however, asserts that a machine must permit a man to vote in one minute before it can be adopted.

Voting Machine Bids Held Up.

South Bend, Ind., June 26.—[Special.]—The commissioners of St. Joseph county postponed the opening of bids on fifty voting machines because of lack of competition. The commissioner decided to prepare new specifications and receive new proposals, which will be opened on Aug. 8.

JANOVSKY WINS: SNOW KICKS AS MUELLER IS COUNTED OUT.

Seventh Ward Alderman Charges Subcommittee of Committee on Elections with Defrauding Republican of Seat.

Charges that the "most improper and unfair methods conceivable" had been used in the effort to aid Felix B. Janovsky to retain his seat as alderman of the Twenty-ninth ward were made yesterday during a hearing of the contest brought by Mathias A. Mueller, former alderman, declared defeated in the April election.

Ald. B. W. Snow, the Republican member of a subcommittee of the council committee on elections, made the charge when the two Democratic members of the subcommittee, Ald. A. J. Cermak and Ald. Herman Bauler, submitted to the entire committee a report in favor of Janovsky, a member of their party.

He submitted a minority report, in a motion to declare Mueller elected, but was voted down by the Democratic majority, 9 to 7. The Cermak-Bauler report was adopted by the same vote. Ald. Snow has served notice that he will continue his battle on the floor of the council when the committee report comes up for approval.

which Senator Johnson stood ready to offer.

It is legislative history, although not usually discussed, that much of the business of the general assembly now and forever before has been transacted without the pretence of a quorum.

Question of Bonds' Validity.

Involved in the transaction most vitally, of course, is the legal validity of the $20,000,000 bond issue which goes along with the Johnson bill, both friends and foes of the waterway proposition realizing the delicate situation which has arisen and which might become most prominent when the time came to sell the bonds.

No disposition was manifested upon the return of the senators to Springfield to take a backward step, so far as the Deneen forces were concerned. After an all day conference they had determined to push along the original Johnson bill, resume the fight on the so-called $500,000 compromise on second reading tomorrow, the same issue which broke into a scandalous row when the Johnson bill was on second reading in the senate on its first trip, and to ship it once again to the house, there to encounter the gavel of Speaker Adkins or to be the cause of a rebellion and a recasting of the house organization.

Statement Made by Oglesby.

Lieut. Gov. Oglesby made the following dictated statement as to his action:

"The senate record shows for itself. When the question of 'no quorum' was raised by Senator Isley I ordered the secretary to call the roll. Roll call showed twenty-two senators present. Under the constitution twenty-six senators are required for the transaction of business. Then Senator McElvain moved an adjournment and I put the motion in the customary way. Of those who voted, my judgment was that the motion prevailed, and accordingly the senate was declared adjourned.

"Two senators afterward stated they asked for a roll call. Without in the least degree questioning their statements, I have only to say I did not hear them.

"The few 'four flushing' senators who want to shift upon me the responsibility for the shortcoming of their own body must look elsewhere. Every senator was notified by telegram last Saturday to be present at today's session, every one of them knew the hour the senate was to convene, and the chair held the session fifteen minutes past the hour of meeting, giving all time to be in their seats. Let those who failed to do their duty and were absent from the session carry the burden of responsibility for the failure of the senate to act."

CATHOLIC EDUCATORS GATHER FOR ANNUAL CONVENTION.

Convene at De Paul University Today to Discuss Church Problems—Archbishop Quigley Greets Guests.

Every Catholic educational institution in North America is represented by delegates at the eighth annual convention of the Catholic Educational association of the United States, which opened yesterday at the De Paul university, Webster and Sheffield avenues. The convention will be is session four days.

Officers of the national convention met in executive session at the Great Northern hotel in the afternoon and discussed final details of the program.

Archbishop Quigley received the visiting delegates informally in the reception parlors of De Paul university last night. Among the educators received were the Very Rev. Edward J. Walsh, C. M., president of Niagara university, the alma mater of the archbishop, and where a large number of the Chicago clergy were educated; the Very Rev. E. A. Pace, professor of philosophy at the Catholic university; the Very Rev. John Cavanagh, president of Notre Dame university, and the Very Rev. E. G. Dohan, president of Villa Nova university.

This morning at 9 o'clock Archbishop Quigley will celebrate pontifical solemn high mass in St. Vincent's church, West Webster and Sheffield avenue.

MEDICAL SOCIETY HAS 33,960.

Chicagoans Present Reports at Meeting of American Association in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 26.—The report of the secretary, Dr. George H. Simmons of Chicago, today, showed the membership of the American Medical association on May 1, was 33,960, and that the membership of the constituent state associations composing the association was 71,118.

Dr. Henry B. Favill of Chicago presented the report of the council on health and instruction, which stated that Dr. J. N. McCormack, head of the organization bureau, has delivered adresses in ninety-seven cities and that the public is eager for enlightenment on sanitary matters.

In 1910 more than 2,800,000 pamphlets were distributed by thirty-six state boards of health.

SORORITY MEMBERS PLAN WAR.

High School Delegates Hold Annual Meeting—Will Combat Board of Education, So They Say.

Plans for maintaining sororities in high schools and declaring war against boards of education that prohibit sororities were made at the first session of the annual national convention of Beta Tau Delta sorority, a high school organization, at the La Salle hotel yesterday afternoon. There are more than 150 delegates, representing chapters of Illinois, Massachusetts, Ohio, Colorado, Florida, Wisconsin, California, and Michigan, in attendance. Seven members were initiated last night.

WILL RESTRICT SALE OF ARMS.

Councilmen Instructed to Draw Ordinance to Prevent Indiscriminate Selling of Deadly Weapons.

The framing of an ordinance for the regulation of the sale of firearms was intrusted yesterday to a subcommittee of the council committee on judiciary composed of Ald. Murray, Fisher, and Geiger. Ald. Murray presented the matter to the council with the view to prescribing by law that deadly weapons shall not be sold except upon permits from the chief of police, and for that reason he was given charge of drawing up the ordinance.

DELAYS ACTION ON ATTORNEY.

Taft Will Not Name United States District Official at Chicago Until After July 4.

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—The selection of an United States district attorney at Chicago will not be made until after July 4. Then President Taft will decide whether to reappoint Edwin W. Sims or to name James H. Wilkerson or some other lawyer for the position.

GORGEOUS SCENE IN COVENT GARDEN

London Theater Filled with Brilliant Audience, 100 Being of Royal Rank.

RICH TOILETS FEATURE.

Ambassador Hammond Sits Next to Duke of Connaught in George's Box.

LONDON, June 26.—One of the most magnificent spectacles in connection with the coronation was the command performance tonight in Covent garden, the interior of which was transformed into a veritable floral palace wreathed about England's fairest flower.

Those privileged to be within the great auditorium will long remember the gorgeous scintillating picture, the fragrance of 100,000 perfect rose blooms, the noble company of men and women representing the royalty of the world and all the most distinguished in British official and social life, who filled every box and stall.

The king and queen drove from Buckingham palace in a state coach, escorted by life guards. On their arrival their majesties were received by the chief state officers and escorted to the royal box, the whole audience rising.

One Hundred in Royal Box.

The royal box consisted of ten boxes in the center grand tier thrown into one, providing 100 seats, nearly all of which were occupied by guests of royal rank.

Flanking the royal box were two other large boxes, each occupied by 100 representatives of foreign countries in gorgeous uniforms and the representatives of the dominions. About half the stalls were allotted to the suites of the distinguished guests.

In point of picturesque attire the Indian princes, glittering with jewels, were easily first, eclipsing the royalties in their most splendid uniforms.

Special American Ambassador Hammond sat in the second row of the royal box between the Duke of Connaught and the Grand Duchess of Hesse, his plain evening dress rendering him conspicuous by contrast.

Mrs. Hammond in Cloth of Gold.

Mrs. Hammond sat in the diplomatic box to the right. She wore a costume of gold cloth, yellow and white diamante trimming, with gold lace on the bodice. Her jewels were emeralds and diamonds.

Among the other American women present were Mrs. Mackay, Lady Newborough, Lady Granard, Lady Cheylesmore, Lady Cooper, the Hon. Mrs. Coventry, Lady Dufferin, Mrs. Burns, Lady Speyer, Viscountess Parker, Mrs. Christie Miller, Mrs. Van Raalte, Mrs. Helke, Mrs. Newhouse, and Mrs. Singer.

The king was in an admiral's uniform and wore the Order of the Garter. The queen's gown was of delicate pink over which the blue riband of the garter showed in marked relief. On her bosom were the twin stars of Africa, on her head a diamond fleur de lys and a maltese cross.

Queen Escorted by German Prince.

The queen was escorted to the royal box by Crown Prince Frederick William of Germany, and the German crown princess entered on the arm of his majesty.

Although rain again fell dense crowds gathered outside Covent garden to witness the arrival and departure of their majesties and the royal visitors.

After the performance the royal guests, special envoys and members of the diplomatic corps attended a ball given by the Duke and Duchess of Westminster at Grosvenor house.

Renowned artists took part in the gala performance. The program opened with a scene from the second act of Verdi's "Aida." This was followed by the second act of Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet." Then came act III. of Rossini's "The Barber of Seville," and tableau II. of the Russian ballet "Le Pavillon d'Armide."

Among the artists were Mmes. Melba, Destinn, Tetrazzini, Berat, and Kirkby Lunn, John McCormack, Sammarco, Franz, Bassi, and Malatesta.

FRENCH CABINET HANGS FIRE; CAILLAUX DELAYS NAMING IT.

Minister of Finance Not Decided as to Whether or Not He Will Form a New Body.

PARIS, June 26.—M. Caillaux, minister of finance in the Monis cabinet, who was requested by President Fallieres to form a new ministry, announced tonight he would be unable to give a definite answer to the president before tomorrow.

Leon Bourgeois, former premier, declined the portfolio of foreign minister on the grounds of ill health and suggested Raymond Poincare, ex-minister of finance, for that office. M. Poincare agreed to consider the matter and answer tomorrow. In event of his refusal M. Deselves, prefect of the Seine, will be asked to take the foreign office.

In the declaration of the policy of the new ministry, M. Caillaux will ask the chamber to hasten the vote on the budget and for the adoption of a new law settling the vexed question of delimitations, which will be introduced as soon as possible. Finally, M. Caillaux also will urge the hastening of electoral reform before vacation.

Austrian Premier Goes Out.

VIENNA, June 26.—Baron von Bienerth, who has been premier since November, 1908, resigned today as the result of the recent elections. The emperor immediately appointed Baron Gautch von Frankenthurn to succeed him. It is said that the other ministers will retain their portfolios.

DIXON WELCOMED TO LONDON.

Autograph Letter of Martin Luther Presented to the Emperor.

KIEL, Germany, June 26.—J. Pierpont Morgan presented Emperor William today with the autograph letter written by Martin Luther to Emperor Charles V., for which the American recently paid $25,500. His majesty forthwith conferred the grand cross of the Order of the Red Eagle on Mr. Morgan.

The letter, which is in Latin, was written in 1521 during the reformer's return journey from the diet at Worms and described the proceedings and defended his attitude. It did not reach the emperor, as its contents were such that no one dared deliver it.

A Florence dealer, representing Mr. Morgan, obtained the epistle at an autograph sale at Leipsic, Saxony, on May 3 last. As soon as it became known that the historic document was to go to America the annoyance of the German public was expressed in many newspaper editorials.

Kaiser Praises Yankee Tars.

Emperor William, who has been giving much attention to the officers of the United States' Atlantic fleet and the visiting yachtsmen during the last few days, made a speech at the state dinner of the Imperial Yacht club tonight.

After a graceful reference to the American naval visitors and yatchsmen he gave a toast "to all true sailors."

Before the banquet the emperor personally presented his prizes to the American winners of the sailing and rowing races in which the warship boats participated on Thursday and Saturday. In the athletic games today the American sailors and the Germans were well matched, each winning four events.

Cable Greetings Exchanged.

Washington, D. C., June 26.—Emperor William of Germany and President Taft today exchanged messages growing out of the visit of the American squadron to Kiel. The emperor in his message said:

"I beg you to accept my best compliments with regard to the fine crew and to the excellent state of efficiency and order which I found on this fine ship. I thank you sincerely for sending this fine squadron to Kiel."

President Taft in his message of reply said:

"I greatly appreciate your kind telegram so cordial in its sentiments to the American navy, to whom it is a source of great pride that your imperial majesty honored our admiral by taking luncheon on the Louisiana and inspecting the ship and crew."

MAINE EXPLOSION MYSTERY UNSOLVABLE, SAYS BIXBY.

U. S. Engineer in Charge of Raising of Warship Declares Cause of Blast Will Never Be Known.

Tampa, Fla., June 26.—"The secret of the destruction of the battleship Maine will never be known," said Gen. W. H. Bixby, chief of engineers, in charge of the work of raising the Maine, upon his arrival here today from Havana.

"The destruction to the vessel was such," said Gen. Bixby, "and the deterioration has been so great that it will be impossible to tell whether the ship was blown up from a force within or without.

"The greatest force, however, was from the inside, indicating that the forward magazine had exploded. Whether this was from a sympathetic explosion caused by a torpedo from the outside may forever remain a mystery."

Gen. Bixby says that unless the fragment of a torpedo is found there is no way of connecting some outside agency with the blowing up of the vessel.

DOCK MEN JOIN SHIP STRIKE

Thousands Walk Out at Liverpool to Aid Seamen.

BOAT OWNERS ARE FIRM.

Many Say They Will Not Yield; Meet for Concerted Action.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, June 26.—The shipowners have at last realized the necessity for concerted action in view of the growth of the strike. As a result meetings were held today in every affected district for the purpose of deciding upon a line of policy. On the reports from these meetings the federation is expected to base any action that it may take.

It is expected that many firms will indorse the position taken by the shipping owners at Leith, who unanimously agreed that, in view of the condition of the freight market and the competition of foreign shippers, concessions were impossible. They will lay up their ships rather than yield.

The owners at Hull and Goole have taken the same stand. The most serious phase of the strike today was the action of the dockers and transport workers, who went out at many places. Thousands quit at Liverpool. While the walkout is ostensibly in sympathy with the seamen and firemen the men declare that they will themselves demand an advance in wages.

Dockers' Union May Aid Strike.

It is uncertain as yet whether the National Union of Dock Laborers will officially indorse the action of the men in going out. The union is both numerically and financially strong, so that if it gives its countenance to the fight it will be a bitter and costly one.

As it is the shipping business at Liverpool is most seriously hampered. The Nelson line has yielded and has granted to the seamen and the firemen an advance of 10 shillings a month, but the dock workers will not work with them unless they get the advance too.

The officials of the Nelson line believe they will be able to win the dockers over. Several of the company's ships are held up in the meantime, as also are some of those of the Ellermans. Many others are in difficulties, though some are likely to yield.

Liners Not Affected.

The steamship lines which are not included in the federation, such as the Cunard, the White Star, and the Anchor lines, and which have granted advances, are not affected by the new development.

The worst condition prevails at Hull, where the Scandinavian and German daily produce steamships make their entries. Several of them arrived Sunday and today, and it has been found impossible to unload them, although they are laden with butter and perishable provisions.

The buyers appealed to the board of trade to intervene.

RESUME LORDS' VETO FIGHT.

Deadlock Between Commons and Upper Chamber Probably Will Force Creation of 500 New Peers.

LONDON, June 26.—Parliament reassembled today after the coronation recess and the struggle over the veto power of the lords will be immediately resumed.

In the house of lords Lansdowne gave notice of a series of amendments to the veto bill, providing for the exclusion from that measure of bills such as that relating to Irish home rule, for a joint sitting in case of a disagreement between the two houses and for a referendum in other cases.

As it is certain that the government will not accept these amendments if passed another deadlock and eventually the creation of 500 additional peers seems the only outcome unless the lords yield.

SENATE DEFEATS ROOT AMENDMENT

Canadian Reciprocity Bill in Congress Passes Unscathed Its First Ordeal.

FURTHER FIGHT TO COME.

La Follette Accuses the Newspapers of Ignoring Interests of Farmers.

Washington, D. C., June 26.—The Canadian reciprocity bill emerged from its first ordeal in the senate tonight unscathed.

The Root amendment, proposing a modification of the wood pulp and print paper section of the agreement, was defeated after seven hours of debate by an overwhelming vote.

The friends of the amendment were so satisfied of its defeat that a roll call on the vote was not demanded.

This leaves the reciprocity measure open to the general fight that is to follow for amendment of important provisions of the Payne tariff law.

Senator La Follette announced that he would give to the senate a chance to pass on general tariff amendments for free paper, free lumber, and lumber products, and for reductions in many other schedules.

Senator Clapp announced his intention of offering a free paper amendment later, and other senators gave evidence of their purpose to force from now on a wide consideration of tariff revision.

Senator Root's proposal was to change the house bill by requiring that all Canadian provinces should remove their export restrictions on pulp wood and its products before the reciprocal features of the wood pulp and print paper section of the agreement went into effect."

La Follette Opposes Root Idea.

"I am opposed to this so-called reciprocity legislation as a whole because I believe it is wrong, harmful, and unjustifiable," said Senator La Follette. "If it must pass I want to see it made as nearly perfect as possible. I shall vote against the Root amendment, because I believe it will defeat the purpose of the wood pulp and print paper paragraph of the agreement."

Senator La Follette declared there was no justification for any duty on print paper. He analyzed the figures of the tariff board to show that the best mills in the United States actually produce paper cheaper than the best mills of Canada. To continue a high tariff on paper, he said, was to put a premium on "inefficiency and sloth," and to make the protective tariff "deaden all constructive force" for the development of efficient management.

He criticised the newspapers for having urged the reciprocity measure as a means of getting relief from the oppressive charges of the print paper manufacturers. He said they had joined with the "packers, the railroads, the flour millers," and others who would secure advantages through the passage of the reciprocity bill.

Puts Blame on Newspapers.

"For my own part," he said, "I shall stand for a proposition which will give to the users of print paper a free product. But I contend they are not fairly entitled to that at the sacrifice of any other industry or great class of people. I am sorry they should have joined to sacrifice the agricultural interests in this bill.

"That is the blackest page in the newspaper history of the United States. I regret that that fact must become part of the history of this legislation. But it is a stubborn fact. There is no one who followed the hearings before the finance committee but knows that those who favored the Canadian agreement were given great space; but when the agricultural interests came before the committee, making a great showing of the injury they would suffer—a showing which I consider the most important made before the committee—the news filled but meager space in the great newspapers of the country."

Stone Defends the Press.

"I want to interrupt the senator," said Senator Stone, "not to defend the newspapers but because I think his statement is not quite justified by the facts. The facts as developed show, as I understand them, that far more space was given the anti-reciprocity arguments by the newspapers of the country than was given in favor of reciprocity. I wish simply to put that statement, as representing my judgment of the facts, against the statement of the opinions of the senator from Wisconsin as to the facts, so that his statement may not go unchallenged."

Senator La Follette expressed the belief that other members of the finance committee would side with him in the controversy.

Senator Bristow offered an amendment to the bill making the tariff rate from all parts of the world on printing type and type metal as follows: Type metal, 1½ cents per pound on the lead contained therein; new types, 15 per cent ad valorem.

COAL LAND GRABS DEFEATED

Dennett Holds Illegal All of the Cunningham Claims.

VICTORY FOR PINCHOT.

Fisher Approves Decision Which Is Blow to Guggenheims.

Washington, D. C., June 26.—The Cunningham coal claims in Alaska, which were at the bottom of the famous Ballinger-Pinchot controversy, were held illegal today by Fred Dennett, commissioner of the general land office. This disposes of the controversy, as the secretary of the interior, Walter L. Fisher, has approved the findings. There is possible only an appeal to the courts on the law points involved.

The decision practically closes the Alaska coal fields, it being the general impression that owing to their inaccessibility it is impossible to work them successfully under the limitations of the present laws. It is a severe blow to the Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate.

Secretary Fisher has announced his determination to go to congress for new legislation, and this one feature of his work in the department of the interior, if successful, is expected to be the monument to his administration. In all probability a leasing system will be devised if possible along the general lines of the Chicago traction settlement, that line of procedure having appealed to Attorney General Wickersham, who visited Alaska at the request of the president.

Thinks New Laws Needed.

In announcing the decision of the department Secretary Fisher declared that new coal land laws are needed in Alaska if that territory is to be developed properly.

"This is a final decision of the Cunningham claims, so far as the department of the interior is concerned," he said. "Any further proceedings will be merely formal, for the purpose of perfecting the record in case the claimants think there are questions of law which they desire to present to the courts.

"It is the intention of the department to proceed at once to a final determination of all the remaining Alaska coal claims so far as this can properly be done."

Findings Made by Dennett.

Commissioner Dennett, in his decision holding the claims subject to cancellation on the charge of fraud, declares that each of the thirty-three entries was allowed improperly because of fatal defects apparent on their face. He asserts that the government conclusively established the charges brought against the claimants and that there is no doubt that an agreement existed, in violation of law.

The thirty-three claims covered 5,250 acres. The value of the land has been estimated high in the millions. The coal embraced is said to be among the best in the world.

Guggenheim Sees Business Peril.

New York, June 26.—Daniel Guggenheim, head of the Guggenheim family, refused to discuss the Cunningham claims decision tonight, but expressed his opinion of business conditions in the United States.

"At the time when we ought to be enjoying the greatest prosperity of any country in the world," he said, "we are the laughing stock of all European economists because every so-called captain of industry is supposed to be liable to criminal prosecution.

"During the last two years we have been and now are doing not to exceed from 60 to 70 per cent of our actual business capacity. This is because officers of large corporations do not know where they stand."

Perhaps nobody in the country was better pleased with the final disposition of the Cunningham claims than Gifford Pinchot.

"The cancellation of the claims," he said here today, "is proof, given by the administration itself, that the fight made against it to prevent coal monopoly in Alaska was not only successful but necessary and right. This victory assures the cancellation of multitudes of other fraudulent claims in Alaska."

A Quiet Evening with "Dear Old Billy."

"DEAR OLD BILLY."

A farce in three acts by W. H. Risque. Played in Chicago at the Whitney Opera house, June 26, 1911, by and his company with the following cast of characters:

WILLIAM HAWTREY

Perks	Richie Ling
Spencer	Harry Redding
Crook	E. H. Kelly
Barlow	George Stuart Christie
Walker	Frank Shannon
Mrs. Mullis	Miss Jane Burby
Millie	Miss Muriel Starr
Mrs. Smith	Miss Laura Clement
Mrs. Barlow	Miss Esther Bissett
Pattie	Miss Cassie Jamason
William Smith	William Hawtrey

BY PERCY HAMMOND.

MR. HAWTREY and his associates did the best they could for "Dear Old Billy" at the Whitney last evening, but a reciprocal inclination was lacking in "Dear Old Billy." The trouble seemed to be that the "adipose humors" of the farce did not respond to the very expert treatment of the players and so the night wore along somewhat moodily and altogether aimlessly until near the finish when an old time situation, sharply acted, afforded provocation for laughter and applause. A considerable degree of critical magnanimity, however, may be due to any temerarious gentleman of the theater who will spend his money to provide us with entertainment in this sparse and ill-favored season of the indoor drama. Thus, with the mild caution that "Dear Old Billy" is not the hilarious thing it ought to be, one may say with safety that it is among the four or five best plays now available in Chicago.

◆

One may proceed even further and pronounce it an admirable opportunity to observe much dexterous and effective farcical acting. Mr. Hawtrey himself, whose flexibility interferes not at all with his certainty in playing, has the droll character of an ingenuous old gentleman, distraught by the amorous attentions of a number of pretty women. He has been the obedient serf of a domineering wife for many years and is seeking surcease at the seashore when he is attacked on all sides by feminine bewilderments. This results, of course, in subsequent distress caused by his pursuing wife and the angry masculine admirers of the ladies involved. Mr. Hawtrey thus has many chances for the display of his quaint comedy—the simulation of comic perplexity and despair, together with an occasional note of funny acerbity, and, once, a delicious bit of pathos which did not pass unnoticed by the care-free audience. It is a facile example of playing and one quite worthy of Mr. Hawtrey's past.

◆

Some months ago Miss Muriel Starr, awed perhaps by the saturnine influence of Mr. Wilton Lackaye, of whose company she was the leading woman, exhibited here a method very correct and very stilted and very sweet, and as a result afflicted an already much afflicted entertainment. Last evening, however, as the leading woman of Mr. Hawtry's company, she appeared without oral or other affectations and went blithely through the farce without a single annoying note. The tendency toward superelegance of speech was curbed into a delightful manner of enunciation, and, aided by beauty and personal charm, the performance of the rôle was faultless. Miss Starr was Mr. Hawtrey's ward and it was her function in the play to have her arm around Mr. Hawtrey every time his wife appeared on the scene.

◆

Then there was a delightful English girl, Miss Esther Bissett, impersonating a bride with a jealous husband, who became visible whenever she was engaged in innocently caressing the harmless Mr. Hawtrey. Miss Bissert employed a fascinating seriousness as this attractive minx, and her beauty, too, had much to do with overcoming the sedative nature of the play. Angry husbands and lovers were earnestly and deftly performed by Mr. Richie Ling, Mr. Harry Redding, and Mr. G. S. Christie. At the risk of becoming a monotonous encomiast, one must proceed to say that Miss Cassie Jamason was most winning as a different sort of farcical maid, and that Miss Jane Burby likewise was skillfully engaging as the hostess of Mr. Hawtrey's lively lodgings.

◆

But every part was well acted, as it needed to be to make "Dear Old Billy" at all bearable. Another nice thing about the piece was its innocence, which belied the unpromising pseudonym of its author. It was not "tinct with cinnamon"—or any other spice, for the matter of that. Just a mediocre conglomeration of uningenious situations, most interesting to those who care to observe deft farceurs operating under difficulties.

Lillian Russell's Beauty Secrets

Note:—Miss Russell will be glad to answer any question pertaining to womanly beauty. For years she has been a student of the art and is, as every one knows, a wonderful illustration of what her methods will accomplish.

Miss Russell has no affiliation with any special or professional beauty regime. She will talk and advise you of her experience just as a woman would to another woman friend. Write to her freely. She has agreed to tell the readers of The Tribune all the secrets of her toilet and give them all her tonic and cosmetic recipes, and more than any other American woman, Lillian Russell can tell what every woman should know who wishes to be beautiful. Those desiring a personal reply from Miss Russell should be particular to inclose an envelope properly stamped and addressed.

Start from the Foundation.

BY LILLIAN RUSSELL

THE foundation of all physical beauty is cleanliness.

Of course, you will remark, "there is no need to tell me that." My dear woman, I am not telling it to you, but to "your sister, your cousin, and your aunts," and let me just whisper it in your ear, a great many of these sisters, cousins, and aunts are not personally clean. There is something radically wrong with the mental powers of the healthy person who enjoys the enlightenment of civilization and yet refuses intimate acquaintance with soap and water. It is expected that the ignorant will be dirty, but the intelligent man or woman who in this age of bathtubs and Turkish bath houses elects to be unclean deserves ostracism.

I sometimes think that many women are unclean because they are indolent. They would rather lie around in a slovenly loose gown and read a novel and eat candy than take that time to make themselves clean.

There is no disgrace in spending much time each day over one's toilet. Suppose we owned a race horse that was capable of earning us as much during the year as we are capable of earning ourselves, would the hours we spent on its grooming be considered wasted? No; not a bit of it. Yet every day we see hundreds of women with dirty heads of hair, discolored teeth, faces full of blackheads, ugly rough elbows, and blackened finger nails—and these women will say that they have no time to take care of themselves. These women will put powder over the blackheads, redden the lips that disclose ugly teeth, and unbare the brown elbows unblushingly. They will spend countless hours fixing up some frivoling bit of finery with which to charm, all the while neglecting one physical charm that every and any woman may have if she desire it.

While we are the cleanest nation on earth—a fact which even the English, notwithstanding their boast in this regard, have learned from the recent inquiries for "rooms with a bath" from the thousands of tourists who are invading London for the coronation, yet there is still a chance for great improvement, as a short ride in a crowded car or a visit to any room where many people are congregated will attest. It seems almost unbelievable that there are people in America who never bathe—who, in fact, believe it detrimental to health. This is nevertheless the case, as can be testified from a personal experience.

A few years ago, in the great smoky mountains of Tennessee, a tiny child was found dying of pneumonia. The poor little thing had been ill for a week, but its day clothing, including its stockings and shoes, had not been taken off during that time for fear it might take more cold. The baby was dirty, burning up with fever, and uncomfortable, and it was suggested that its clothes be taken off and the child be put into a hot water and alcohol bath, and then a clean night dress put on.

"Do you want to kill the young 'un?" asked an old crone who seemed to have had the nursing of the child in charge.

"No," was the answer, "but if the child could be made to perspire it would help it much."

"I think it'll kill it," she said emphatically. "I've had eight young 'uns and they all lived to get married—and if 'ary a one of 'em has ever been washed all over, I don't know it."

The poor little baby died during the afternoon, and as its clothes were removed it was very evident that the first bath was given the frail body as it was prepared for its last sleep.

Bathing, like everything else, may be carried to excess, but the majority err in the opposite direction. A daily bath cannot be too strongly urged, but, if this is impossible, then as often as one can. The bath may be at the temperature most agreeable—the most refreshing and invigorating to the system. It is the least expensive and the most potent promoter of comeliness known to science.

I am not a great believer in the cold shower. A bath the temperature of the room I have found quite as stimulating to me, but for cleanliness one must have hot water, plenty of soap, and then—"scrub."

◆

Do not be afraid to use a fairly stiff brush upon your flesh. You will find after using one that your skin is like a beautiful piece of wood that grows more beautiful the more it is polished.

One can take a hot bath with a cooler shower in about ten minutes, and surely no woman is not able to spend this much time in keeping herself in good working order as well as making herself more attractive to look at.

After a bath, if you wish skin of satin, take great handfuls of common laundry starch and rub over your body while it is wet and then wipe with a Turkish towel.

Do not forget that your mind must be as clean as your body if you would be truly beautiful. Dust out of your brain all uncharitable thoughts. Do not harbor any foolish little worries. Remember, only the self-centered woman is sensitive and no one should have the power to hurt your self-respect.

Later I will give a number of baths which are necessary remedies for certain beauty ills, also the proper furnishing of a bathroom, for until one has the right foundation of cleanliness in mind and body one may not hope to build a structure that will be beautiful.

Remember—If cleanliness is next to godliness, you also always find it in beauty's embrace.

Lillian Russell's Answers to Her Inquirers

E. H.: It is extremely hard to reduce one's flesh. I know it because I have done it. It is a long, tedious operation and one cannot do anything else at the time. Diet and exercise are the only things that one can use with any degree of satisfaction and success. If you will send me a stamped, self-addressed letter I will send you my dietary and also my rolling exercises. If you will put on a heavy sweater that will come well over your hips while you are going about your house in the morning so that you will perspire copiously and then bathe in water in which a handful of washing soda has been allowed to dissolve, taking a cool shower afterward, you will find this helps. The milk diet which I have recommended to Mrs. B. C., if persisted in, using skim milk and taking nothing else into your stomach except water, will clear your complexion, put your liver in proper working order, and reduce your flesh.

◆

A. L.: Am sending you by mail a simple method of filling the hollows in the neck. I do not believe very much in taking internal medicine for developing the bust. More can be done by massage, which should always be lightly performed, and with a circular upward motion. Nothing is better than cocoa butter. Deep breathing exercise which I am sending you by mail is also good for development of the bust. Singing is especially fine. You never have known a great singer who has not a well developed bust, neck, and shoulders.

◆

MABEL: Women who do a great deal of walking, or whose work requires constant standing on the feet, find it helpful to apply cold cream plentifully at night, putting on thin white stockings to keep the feet from soiling the bed. You should have at least three pairs of shoes and wear tiem on successive days, and indulge in a fresh pair of stockings each morning. Do not keep your feet immersed in water as it makes them tender. The washing they receive when you take your daily bath is quite sufficient and the oil bath at night you will find much more comforting than washing. The woman who habitually puts her feet in hot water from ten minutes to a half hour each day is the best customer a chiropodist can have.

◆

Y. M.: Hands wrinkle because they are washed too frequently in soap and water. It is much easier to keep your hands in good shape than to bring them back to beauty after they have once grown old and wrinkled. You must massage your hands with a good skin food at bed time, at least once or twice a week, and oftener if possible. If you will send me a stamped envelope with your address, asking for it, I will send you a fine skin food formula and also a hand lotion. Equal portions of oatmeal, cornmeal, and bran are excellent to use instead of soap for cleansing the hand. If you moisten this mixture with sour milk or buttermilk instead of water the results will even be better.

◆

M. A. L.: The best exercises I know in the way of outdoor sports for sluggish liver are tennis, golf, and swimming, as well as horseback riding. The old saying, "The outside of a horse is good for the inside of man" is excellent advice and applies to women as well. Fresh fruits and vegetables are not to be neglected. In the meanwhile take a liver regulator when needed, as an active liver means health and clearness of complexion besides other blessings too numerous to mention.

◆

GOLDEN LOCKS: Too much sun on the scalp has the same effect it would have upon the face; it also fades and dries the hair. Therefore wear a hat. Give your hair a sun bath a half hour each day so that the hair can blow loose and exercise and be aired. Use the juice of a lemon in the water in which you rinse the hair. Eeggs are all right for shampoo; there is nothing better. If you use them break six or eight into a funnel one at a time and break the yoke with the finger just sufficiently for it to go into a wide mouthed bottle. Wet your hair with warm water—not hot, unless you don't mind scrambled eggs among the gold; now rub the eggs well into the scalp with finger tips, washing out with warm water and using more eggs until they are all used. To rinse use a spray if you have one; if not, pour pitcher after pitcher full of warm water over your head, rubbing so that every bit of the froth is carried away. When you think you have used enough begin all over again, for you cannot rinse too thoroughly. Dry by massaging with hot towels and brushing.

◆

HAZEL: If you will send me a self-addressed, stamped letter asking me for it I will send you my formula for freckle lotion. For your tanned neck peroxide of hydrogen put on night and morning will help very much. Be careful not to get it into your hair, because it will bleach that also.

Vaudeville Gossip.

Hot Weather Vaudeville.

BY RICHARD HENRY LITTLE.

WITH all due respect to Miss Rose Coghlan and company, the headliner on this week's bill at the Majestic theter, it must be set down that Abe Jacobs was the best thing on the program yesterday afternoon. For one thing Abe didn't appear in the full view of the footlights when putting on his act and you couldn't see him sweating through his grease paint, always an unpleasant reminder of what a real hot spell we are now enjoying. Yesterday was the hottest day thus far this year in the theater and criticism of actors who come forth and dance and sing until their clothes look like wet bath towels should be prohibited by statute.

The attention of Mr. Andrew Carnegie when making up his list of hero medals for the ensuing year is called respectfully to all the deserving persons who appeared at the Majestic yesterday afternoon. The audience was too warm to risk any extra exertion by applauding and besides the operation of clapping the hands briskly together involves laying down the fan and this was a dire catastrophe which was not to be thought of for a moment. So when anything especially meritorious happened those in front merely wagged their fans the faster. This was applause of a kind, but not of the sort that gladdens the heart of the actor, because it is not heard behind the scenes and written down by the stage manager in his report of how the various acts were received.

Some of the vaudeville persons grew peevish because the puns and jokes that were wont to set Kansas City in a roar and bring the audience at Cheyenne, Wyo., out of its seats died an awful death. Mr. J. Francis Dooley grew so peevish that, after he had released a joke that had been good for a laugh ever since he first tried it out ten years ago, he would stop and say, "Think it over, it's funny, think it over," and one Butler Haviland grew quite angry at the apathetic attitude of the audience and dropped impromptu remarks to the effect that he would write the jokes out and pass them around for careful study and investigation. Here is a sample of Butler's jokes that did not arouse a laugh: "So you say bright people come from Englewood? Why, yes, that's right, and the brighter they are——" and so forth. Believe us, Butler, it was not the heat that prevented the audience from laughing at that joke yesterday. It was the statute of limitation.

◆

The esteemed Mr. Jacobs' contribution to the gayety of the occasion was a reproduction of famous paintings with the figures portrayed by living models. The paintings that formed the backgrounds of the pictures were much better done than in any similar representations and the models unusually pretty and graceful. The great charm of the pictures and the thing that chiefly distinguished them from other portrayals in which models form the most conspicuous part was in the lighting, which, of course, was handled by Mr. A. Jacobs personally, and as he is a master in this craft, the effect was pleasing in the extreme. Nine pictures were shown, the most attractive being "The Gleaners," by Millet; the "Sirens," by Thuman; Koch's "Waiting for the Boatman," and "The Spirit of '76," by Willard.

◆

Miss Rose Coghlan, whose name leads all the rest and is printed in extra large blackfaced type on the program this week, gave a little playlet which was the audience's idea of nothing to get particularly excited about in hot weather.

Still, Miss Coghlan did nobly. It must be trying for a real stout lady to romp lightly around the stage and discover a long lost daughter and weep at her, and then defy a villain afflicted with the St. Vitus dance, on a distressingly torrid day. In Miss Coghlan's sketch she plays the part of Mrs. Sheldon, a great actress whose dressing room is invaded by a stage struck young woman who comes to pay adoration to the actress lady.

Mrs. Sheldon enters and the stage struck young person gushes, and Mrs. Sheldon weeps to think that she once had a little daughter, who must now be about the age of her young visitor. Alas, her cruel husband cast her out y'ars and y'ars ago and took her little daughter away from her. Then the actress lady discovers that this very girl is her long lost daughter. She was so pleased at finding her that she said she was never going to be so careless and mislay her again.

Then enters father, the villain. The long lost daughter is put outside without being told that the great actress is her mamma, and the villain, who should have been a "turkey trot" dancer instead of a villain, because he is so perniciously active, pranced nervously about the stage and said he could shower millions and millions of dollars on daughter, while what could mother, who was naught but a play actress with a road show, do for such a brilliant, beautiful child?

Father allowed that he was just about to buy a duke or a king for daughter, but it would be all off if the royal circles of Europe discovered that the lady was the daughter of a common actor person. The actress lady looked up with her grease paint flowing in Diamond dyed rivulets down her face and said that though she were but an actress on the stage she was a mother, when all was said and done, and that she would take her child back to her bosom—and she had some bosom.

But father again pointed out that money was a very nice thing for a young woman who had a cultivated taste for champagne and tailor made hobble suits, and the great actress said that then the che-ild should never know, and to take her away; however, she would give her a last kiss before she went. Which was then done, and the villain said, "Ha ha," and shooed his daughter out and "ha ha'ed" once more for good luck, and the curtain came down.

Then we had W. H. Murphy and Blanche Nicols, who burlesqued poor old "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and the audience forgot a little about the weather and laughed right out loud several times.

Woman and Her Interests.

Saving Honeymoon Expenses.

BY LAURA JEAN LIBBEY.

[Copyright: 1911: By Laura Jean Libbey.]

IT is wise for a newly wedded couple to begin the new life economically, but it is poor economy to save wedding expenses by going among his relatives or friends.

The experience is usually trying for the bride. The first week of the honeymoon is to be passed at his Uncle John's. She alights from the train, tired and travel stained, wishing with all her might that she could freshen up a bit before she is obliged to meet the family. But this expectancy melts into thin air when she sees them all on the porch as the carriage rolls up the walk.

She is no judge of human nature, but she takes in at the first wistful, eager glance that uncle is genial, from his broad, smiling, open countenance. She is sure, even before her young husband informs her of the fact, that the thin, angular woman, with her hair combed uncompromisingly back, is his wife, Aunt Hester.

The peering little old lady to the right of her is her maiden sister, and the girl with her nose tilted high in the air is the daughter in the family, while the man with the red hair, looking from under his hat, which is pulled down over his eyes, is certainly Cousin "Cy."

◆

Uncle John's welcome is kindly enough. His wife seems a trifle frostbitten. Her sister greets her with the information: "We were so surprised to hear about Nephy's marriage, and that he was bringing you right here. We had just packed our trunks for a few weeks' stay at the seaside, but, of course, we had to unpack them again."

The young girl sighs audibly, while Cousin Cy shifts uneasily from one foot to the other.

"No doubt you had your dinner at the railway station?" remarks Hester. They hadn't, but the young bride would not own up to the fact that she is hungry.

"We start in getting the dinner for the farmhands in about two hours from now," said Cousin.

While this is going on the daughter of the family is taking in the cut of her coat and the style of her hat, and counting the roses on it. Uncle John suggests that maybe they'd like a glass of cool buttermilk. The poor little bride could have blessed him for it. The new made hubby is so full of happiness that he has almost cut out eating entirely.

The young girl suggests that maybe she'd like to go to her room to remove her wraps.

The bride knows that she has a yearning desire to see what her dress is like under her coat.

◆

"The hired girl took herself off yesterday," remarks Hester, ungraciously, "so we have to do all the work ourselves. I tell you, we notice it when there's one hand short, and it comes to shelling peas, peeling the vegetables, and so on."

"Could I be of any help?" asks the bride, seeing, as in a glass darkly, a week of hard domestic work ahead of her. She is used to doing housework at home, certainly, but if there is one time in her life that she feels should be given over to a joyous holiday it is her honeymoon time. She never expects to be married but once.

"It would be a fine idea," chimes in the cousin. "For my part, I don't see how a person can content themselves to loll around doing nothing."

With an iron will she keeps back her tears. She is glad the girl was called away downstairs just then, or she would have heard her sob outright. Hubby had given her her choice as to where they should spend their honeymoon. She had chosen the way that seemed wisest and best from the viewpoint of economy. She sees her mistake at once.

She remains in her room so long that she was quite sure they had forgotten all about her. Nothing remains for her to do but to go down again. As she approaches she hears Uncle John and his wife in the midst of a heated confab. Hearing her own name, she hesitates as to whether to approach or retreat. She remembers the old adage that "listeners never hear any good of themselves."

The bride creeps back to her room. Hubby appears later saying: "I've just got a telegram that calls us away, dearie." He could not understand why she threw her arms about him, hugged and kissed him, laughing and crying in the same breath. It cost him a great deal at the summer resort where they spent their honeymoon, but THEY WERE HAPPY.

She Has Two Beaux.

"Dear Miss Libbey: There are two men attentive to me and I am positive both are serious in their intentions. I am 20 and one of the men is about twice my age, while the other is only a few years my senior. My family prefer the latter on the ground that a girl so young ought not to marry a man so much older than herself. While I am fond of the younger, I am positive my love for the older is more sincere and that I would always be true to him in spite of the great difference in our ages. I can't keep on encouraging both of them. What is the best step to take?

"JENNIE R."

If you are sure you love the older man more than you do the younger fellow, encourage him. You, not your family, will have to live with the man you marry.

* *

Here's a Difficult Case.

"Dear Miss Libbey: How is it possible to regain a person's affection by the indifferent method when you are so crazy about the person that you can't leave them alone? This is my case exactly. After a full determination to see how much she cares by waiting for her to make the next move I find myself calling her up or writing to her or going to see her, all my resolves to be indifferent to the contrary. So the whole scheme falls down. She knows she's got me and so realizes that she doesn't need to do anything about it. It is against my nature to stoop to these 'high school' methods of courtship because I have always believed that if you like a person or love a person you should show it, not carry out a series of flirtations the object of which seems to be to keep the other person guessing as to what you think of them. But, to be honest about it, it does not work in my case, and the disinterested method does not work, so what's to be done? I love her, but she doesn't realize it.

"CREME YVETTE."

The only way it is possible is to make up your mind that you are going to conquer and acquire character by forcing yourself to stand by your decision. If she doesn't realize that you love her after you have told her of your love, the best plan to make her realize it is to keep away from her for a couple of weeks or so until she realizes that she misses you.

* *

Claude Has Trouble.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am 23 and in love with a girl about my own age. As her mother objects, and my folks object also, the only way we can get to go together is by meeting at different places. Please advise me what I should do, because I feel as though I could not get along without this dear little girl. While I am with this girl she seems to think the world of me, but while with others talks and says mean things about me. CLAUDE."

You seem to be in hard lines, Claude. Any girl who will talk about you and make fun of you isn't worth considering. What are the objections offered against you two going about together? There is usually some good reason. Try to find out what they are.

* *

She's Fickle.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I have been engaged to a young man a few years my senior for the last year. He has been good to me, and I think more of him than any other man. But at times I feel as if I never care to marry any one. He has different ideas in many lines than I have, and I feel at times as if we might not get along together. I am much worried about it. I have told him how I feel, but it does not change his love for me at all. At times I feel I simply cannot live without him. When he is with me I adore him. I know he loves me. M. K."

You seem to be fickle. If you are not able to decide in regard to the man, give him up. Don't be bothering either the man or yourself with your unreasonableness.

* *

Another Girl in the Case.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am about 20 and belong to church. I do not dance. I have been talking to a boy for about four months, and he seemed to love me dearly, and I loved him. Another girl has taken him from me, and it has nearly broken my heart. I worry so much about it, for I don't think I ever will be happy without him. Will you please tell me what to do to win him back? He belongs to the same church I do, and he is a nice, respectable boy, well thought of by everybody. DELLA."

Dear little girl, there is no way to win a man back, unless he comes back of his own free will. Coaxing won't do it, nor tears, nor sighs, nor broken hearts. The best way is to view the matter calmly and make up your mind he was not intended for you. Some day the right man is coming along, and you will be thankful your prayers to win the other man back were not answered. That is the way to look at it.

Boston Baked Beans.

THE city of Boston was originally the quintessence of all things New England, or at least thought it was. It had forced upon it as a symbol of itself the baked bean, although the sacred cod hung in its council chambers, because the Saturday night baked bean was a New England institution. Every thrifty New England farmer raised beans enough in some half acre of his rocky soil to provide his family with two meals a week for fifty-two weeks in the year.

People in Boston had to eat the bean because the population of that city was constantly augmented by country people who could not get on without it; but probably no blue blooded Bostonian was ever as devoted to this dish as the humble person from Podunk.

It is an entertaining fact that one of these old Bostonians, when called upon to give a recipe for Boston baked beans for a charitable publication, began thus: "Select very small pea beans grown in California. It is this variety of bean that is the most correct for this rite, but this was grown in New England bean patches when California was but a myth. These beans were pulled and stacked between two poles to dry, after which they were threshed or trodden out on the barn floor and later winnowed in the wind.

One of our famous cooks of Philadelphia insists that the pot for Boston baked beans shall be of earthenware, with narrow mouth and bulging sides, but out of such a pot can never come the delicious mold of beans which will hold its shape even after being dipped into.

The real New England baked bean was simply flavored and was baked with a little chunk of meat from that universal institution of New England cellars, the pork barrel. With other days have come other ways, and beans are now baked with sausage, bacon, beef, and even butter.

◆

Baked Beans.—Soak two cupfuls of navy beans over night in a half gallon jar. In the morning strain and put on the fire in cold water. Boil five minutes with a pinch of soda, drain again, then lay in the bottom of your jar 10 cents' worth of salt pork, not too fat, then your beans, with a tablespoon of New Orleans molasses and a pinch of English mustard. Cover them with boiling water and cover your jar. I bake mine in the furnace from 8 o'clock in the morning until 12 o'clock at noon, adding water when they need it so that they will not be dry and will stay whole.—Mrs. Louise Chenot Staten, Elgin, Ill.

Baked Beans with Sausage.—Soak 5 cents' worth of beans overnight. Drain and add enough boiling water to cover. Add a pinch of soda and parboil the beans. Get 10 cents' worth of link pork sausage of the small variety. Place one-third of the beans in the bean pot, then half the sausage, then another third of the beans, then the remaining sausage, and finally the remaining beans. Season the water in which the beans were boiled and pour over the beans, filling the pot. Bake slowly for several hours.—Lorena Duling, Jackson, Miss.

INSURGENTS ARM FOR N. E. A. MEET

Illinois-New York Allies Outline Fight Against the "Old Guard."

WILL START FOR FRISCO.

Special Train Carrying Vanguard Leaves Sunday; State to Send Fully 1,000.

One of the most bitter contests in the history of the National Education association, and which, if successful, will revolutionize the big teachers' organization, is scheduled for the San Francisco convention, which opens a week from Saturday.

It will be a fight against the "old order," led by the combined forces of the teachers of Illinois and New York. It will be a test of strength between the "old guard" and the "insurgents" which has been quietly planned for a year. It will be an attempt of the progressives to push the advantage they gained when they overthrew precedent and elected Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of the Chicago schools, president of the association at the Boston convention last year a step further.

Throw Down Gage of Battle.

The gage of the battle was thrown down yesterday when the plans of the teachers of Chicago and Illinois for attending the convention were announced. The vanguard of the Illinois delegation will leave for San Francisco next Sunday night on a heavy special train over the Burlington. As a part of the train one or two special coaches bearing the first delegation of the New York teachers, allies in the proposed fight, will make the trip. With this delegation will go Principals Frank L. Morse and A. O. Coddington of the Chicago schools. A week from tomorrow Mrs. Young and Mrs. Isabelle C. O'Keeffe, Dean Walter T. Sumner, and Julius F. Smietanka, representatives of the Chicago board of education, will leave for the west.

Insurgents to Seek Change.

The contest which the "insurgents" will bring will seek a radical change in the government of the association. It will have for a basis a demand for the amendment of the bylaws of the organization. The most important amendments proposed will be as follows:

Practical abolishment of the national council, a self-perpetuating body which recommends appropriation, investigation, and research work and the appointment of special committees.

Investigation by a special committee of the status of school taxes levied throughout the country and of teachers' salaries as compared with other professions and with regard to increased cost of living.

Expenditure of not less than one-tenth of the gross receipts of the association for educational investigation and research work.

The vesting of the present power of the national council in the executive committee, whose members are elected by the main body at the annual meeting.

Popularization of the association by permitting teachers to take out active memberships on presentation of credentials attesting to their educational status, as opposed to a proposed amendment to restrict participation in active meetings to members of three months' standing.

Mrs. Young Not Candidate.

Almost as important as the contest on the bylaws will be the presidential campaign. President Young is not seeking reëlection, but will lead the "insurgnts" in a fight to elect her successor from among their ranks.

Two hundred Illinois teachers will make the trip on the special train. It is expected that other delegations and parties will increase the Illinois forces to over the 1,000 mark. New York promises a delegation of over 500 teachers and the allied forces will form the nucleus of the campaign.

CHILD WANTS "SUNDAY TOGS"; KEEPS PART OF RENT MONEY.

11 Year Old Girl Buys Outfit, Parades in Front of Friends, Fears Whipping, and Refuses to Go Home.

Bessie Dawson has wanted for a long time to go to church with the children of her neighborhood. But in her opinion she had no nice clothes to wear.

So Saturday night when her mother gave her $8 to pay a half month's rent she thought of a window display of children's finery she had seen. All the way to the landlord Bessie could think of nothing but the pretty clothes her playmates would wear Sunday morning. The temptation was too strong for the 11 year old girl. She gave the landlord $5 and kept the other $3.

At the nearest store she selected a gown, shoes, and new stockings. She paraded proudly before her friends until 10 o'clock Then she thought of home. Her idea of the punishment that awaited her made her fearful. So she boarded an Ashland avenue car and rode to the end of the line. Policemen at the Woodlawn station picked her up. Her mother was notified.

On the way home her mother told her she ought to be spanked. At the door of her home Bessie ran away again. Now she is in charge of Probation Officer Phelan and refuses to go home.

SAYS WIFE SHOULD DRINK, TOO.

Police Court Prisoner Tells Judge That Spouse Has Right to Share Husband's "Happiness."

Michael Gallagher's philosophy, coupled with his promise to be more careful in the future, won clemency for himself and his wife in the Harrison street court yesterday. Both were arrested for being helplessly drunk. When asked what they had to say for themselves, Gallagher, addressing Judge Maxwell, said that he thought a wife who shares her husband's trouble also should share his pleasures, even to getting intoxicated whenever he does. He added, however, that one should remain sober enough to take care of the other. The couple came from Clinton, Ia., three days ago. Judge Maxwell discharged them.

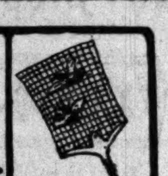
SWAT·THE·FLY! IT'S·A·DEADLY·PERIL.



THE TRIBUNE'S "Swat the Fly" campaign is attracting wide attention. We are daily in receipt of letters asking for information as to prevention or extermination of these pests from such widely separated points as El Paso, Tex.; Lockport, N. Y.; Pensacola, Fla.; Boston; Bellingham, Wash.; and Calgary, Canada. Mrs. Frederick T. Lord, chairman of the press committee of the Woman's Municipal league of Boston, writes congratulating us on the daily articles in this department and asking how the information is accumulated. She wishes to stir the Boston press to emulate this work. She incloses this excellent circular which the Woman's Municipal league is distributing widely. Note the politeness of the request:

> PLEASE KILL THAT FLY.
>
> Why?
>
> Because:
>
> (1) Flies breed in manure and other filth.
>
> (2) Flies walk and feed on excreta and sputa from people ill with typhoid fever, tuberculosis, diarrhœal affections, and many other diseases.
>
> (3) One fly can carry and may deposit on our food 6,000,000 bacteria.
>
> (5) A fly is an enemy to health—the health of our children, the health of our community!
>
> A fly cannot develop from the egg in less than eight days; therefore, if we clean up everything thoroughly every week and keep all manure screened there need be no flies.
>
> Will you help in the campaign against this pest?
>
> WOMEN'S MUNICIPAL LEAGUE OF BOSTON.

A bulletin of the California state board of health says: "Communities in which a campaign against the housefly has been undertaken with determination to win have shown that the housefly can be controlled. Sanitary laws must be drawn up and rigidly enforced without fear or favor. A preliminary educational campaign is necessary. A system of stable inspection carried on by instructed sanitary inspectors is essential. This inspection should not only bear the stamp of legal authority but should also be accompanied by proper written as well as verbal instructions.

"The housefly can be controlled without question and without great labor and expense. The problem is simpler than many are willing to admit, but it requires the coöperation and should have the willing support of every citizen."

Answers to Correspondents.—Mrs. R. L. Hemingway, Chicago: You can get formaldehyde in a 40 per cent solution and you can dilute it down to 2 per cent with water. Sweeten it with sugar, about a quarter of a teaspoonful to a shallow saucer of the decoction.

Byron, Ill.: Yes, the law is state wide.

Samuels, Paris, Ill.: It is too dangerous. The poisoned flies might fall into food.

C. P. G., Woodstock, Ill.: Keep the manure in tight boxes until ready to spread upon the fields; spread lightly.

Anti-Fly, Chicago: Report your neighbor to the department of health at once. Don't lose time in doing it, either.

Laurel Avenue, Chicago: About 20 drops of carbolic acid on a hot shovel will kill the flies. Keep the doors and windows shut so the vapor may act.

Mrs. Alice C. Fowler: It was printed June 1.

SANE FOURTH FLOATS READY

Mountings for Pageantry and Finishing Touches Required.

ITALY TO BE IN THE SHOW.

Will Present "Progress of World Since Marconi's Invention."

The twenty floats which will be the features of the Sane Fourth pageant in Chicago are practically finished. Only the trimming and mounting remains to be done at the old Thirty-ninth street car barns, where the workmen have been engaged for some weeks.

Of the floats ten are to represent the Polish, Swedish, Swiss, Lithuanian, German, Scotch, Irish, Bohemian, Italian, and Greek organizations in Chicago, and in addition there is to be representation for the United Kingdom.

Italy to Be in Line.

Italy will be represented by a float illustrative of the progress of the world since the invention of wireless telegraphy by Marconi.

Probably one of the most noteworthy features of the parade and pageant will be the display by the Irish section of floats in the celebration arranged for the forenoon and the historical tableau to be presented in the evening at Washington park.

"St. Patrick at the court of Tara" will be featured in the pageant, while at Washington park a tableau showing, in the first part, the "Return from the Western World," and in the second, a representation of the evolution of America and of the important parts taken by the great pioneers, patriots, and explorers of other countries, will be produced.

Interest in Sane Fourth.

Evidence of city wide interest in the Sane Fourth program was demonstrated yesterday when the Chicago Playground association announced the plans for its annual play festival. This is one of the most important events of the kind of the year. The affair will be given this year as the Sane Fourth celebration in Lincoln park.

Marquis Eaton, president of the Sane Fourth association, has applied to the south park commission for permission to erect a grand stand seating 1,000 people on Michigan avenue in the neighborhood of the Congress hotel. This stand will be the official reviewing point, and Gov. Deneen, Mayor Harrison, and the representatives of the foreign nations will review the pageant from that point.

WIFE NEEDS TOO MUCH MONEY.

Mary Louise Carroll Prefers Working as Chorus Girl, So Her Husband, Exodus, Gets Divorce.

Exodus Carroll, a theatrical employé, told Judge Farlin Q. Ball yesterday that his wife, Mary Louise, went away with a show as a chorus girl because she could earn more money than he could give her.

"She would not economize," said Carroll. "She was used to an expensive life and could use the money she earned herself."

Statutory charges were made in a suit for divorce filed yesterday in the Superior court by Mrs. Bertha E. O'Brien against James F. O'Brien, an actor.

OBITUARY.

HENRY PHILIP FIELD, former secretary and treasurer of the Celfor Tool company died Sunday morning at the home of his son, William A. Field, 5737 Washington avenue. He is survived by a widow and two children, Mrs. Charles D. Lanier of Greenwich, Conn., and Henry P. Field Jr. of Berwich, Conn. Servises will be held from the residence of William A. Field at 10 o'clock this morning, with interment at Graceland.

MRS. FLORENCE OTIS BUCKINGHAM, wife of H. W. Buckingham of Pittsfield, Mass., died at her home on Sunday, age 38 years. She was a daughter of the late Joseph E. Otis of Chicago and is survived by her husband, one daughter, and three sons. The funeral will be at Pittsfield, Mass., today.

JULIAN W. BAIRD, dean of the faculty of the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy, is dead at Boston, aged 52 years.

DEPUTIES RAID ZION CITY

Seek Service of Capiases on 190 Indicted for Voting Fraud.

VOLIVA UP FOR CONSPIRACY.

Reported That Dowie's Successor Was Charged with Colonization.

Sheriff Elmer Green of Lake county went to Zion City last night to serve capiases on residents of the "holy city." The action followed the return of 190 indictments at Waukegan by a Lake county grand jury yesterday charging fraudulent voting and attempted fraudulent voting.

Wilbur Glenn Voliva and his cabinet are said to be among those indicted. The "usurper" of Jonn Alexander Dowie's rule in Zion City declined to make any statement as to his opinion of the grand jury action last night.

The indictments charge illegal voting at the city election in April and Voliva is especially indicted for conspiracy to violate the election laws as well as the actual violation of them.

When Voliva is brought to Waukegan today State's Attorney Ralph Dady will ask the court to fix the bond of Voliva at $100,000, and if this is done, it is said, the general overseer of Zion City will have to reman in the county jail.

It was reported that in addition to the first batch of true bills Voliva was indicted for conspiracy to colonize Zion City as well as for illegal voting, the law taking the view that as he is alleged to have caused the illegal voting, he is equally culpable.

None of the forty Waukegan men who voted at Zion were indicted. They were given an immunity bath, it is said. It is reported that every man who came from outside the Zion City limits to vote at the city election, and either voted or attempted to vote, was indicted, except the Waukegan men.

POLICE RAID HOME OF SUN BATHERS

Arrest Nude Man Lolling in Evanston Pavilion of "Simple Life" Patients.

DUE TO SUBURB CRUSADE.

Neighbors Insist That Sanitarium Is Nuisance; Dr. Lane Says He May Move.

In the negative vestments of an Adonis Joseph Vilis, a barber, was snuggling in the sun pavilion of the Kosmos sanitarium, Sherman avenue and Simpson street, Evanston, yesterday. While he lolled he operated a fly swatter.

The sudden entrance of a policeman put an end to both lolling and swatting. Under a charge of indecency Vilis was locked up until late in the afternoon, when he was released on bail supplied by Dr. H. E. Lane, owner of the institute. Vilis wore a bath robe during his stay in the station.

The arrest of Vilis is the first move of a fashionable neighborhood to compel the removal of the sanitarium to a more sequestered locality. From the upper floors of many houses in the district the back yard pavilion of the sanitarium has presented a diverting panorama every sunny day. Besides, neighbors have been shocked by the sight of barefooted men and women of all ages in kimonos sweeping sidewalks, sprinkling grass, and promenading the lawn.

Neighbors Call Place Nuisance.

"It's a public nuisance and should be closed by the police at once," said Mrs. C. A. Churcher, 810 Simpson street. "If the neighbors had a little more spirit, these people would have been chased away long ago"

"I am so glad to hear they have arrested one of them," Mrs. E. A. Bronson, 800 Simpson street, said, "It's terrible."

E. M. Dunlap, owner of most of the property in the sanitarium block, also was emphatic. Mr. Dunlap helped boost some newspaper men on one of his barns in order to get a close glimpse of the pavilion. A woman, tan of skin, swung drowsily in a hammock. All around her was a twelve foot fence.

When a man called an alarm from the sanitarium, the bather threw the fringe of the hammock over her and later emerged in a bath robe.

There were several other hammocks in the women's inclosure and a number of fly swatters. In the men's half of the pavilion were benches, a pergola made mostly from cloth, more fly swatters, and a horseshoe pitching court. The men and women's pavilion was divided by a high fence, heavily padded.

Called "Simple Life Home."

Dr. Lane was not excited to hear that most of the neighbors had complained about his health resort.

"I have been planning to move for some time, anyway," he said. "These people are foolish to object. Over in the old country there's hardly a town that hasn't its sun baths. That's where the art of sculpturing in the sand originated. This method of treatment is called physiologic-dietic. I have many patients—mostly women. Only a few stay at the sanitarium all the time."

Charges for living the "simple life" at the sanitarium are $20 a week upwards—no extra fee being required for the raw food menu, cold water treatments, breathing drills, and lectures in several languages on hygiene. In a circular Dr. Lane describes his resort as "a 'simple life' home of the help yourself plan, unique in its kind."

Boy Celebrating in Advance of Fourth Gets Charge of Powder in Both Eyes.

Carl Zorna of Milwaukee, who had been a guest at the home of his uncle, Fred Alwin, of Elgin, lies at St. Joseph's hospital there blinded as the result of the explosion of a powder filled gas pipe.

Zorna and a group of boys were experimenting with the improvised cannon at the Alwin residence yesterday, shooting croquet balls into the air.

Their second experiment didn't work as quickly as Zorna thought it should and he went to investigate. He received the full blast in his face. Attending physicians say he may lose the sight of both eyes.

"No other Train
So Good as This"

Cars That Do Not Jolt or Jar

Ever watch a train of empty freight cars stop? Did you notice a rattle of bumps as the cars came together? That was because the cars are short and light and loosely coupled—some of the old-fashioned passenger cars almost as bad.

Quite different are the cars on the new steel

Great Western Limited to St. Paul and Minneapolis

They are long and heavy—from 72½ to 75 feet long and weigh about 75 tons each. They are equipped with a highly perfected buffing device which eliminates jerking and bumping between cars and holds them together so firmly as to start and stop as one car. They don't jolt or jar. Our track also adds to the comfort and smoothness of your ride—the rails weigh 85 pounds per yard and are firmly laid in solid rock and gravel ballast.

Result—safety, comfort and sound, refreshing sleep.

MR. SHAW ASTONISHES US.

Mr. George Bernard Shaw at last has found the reward of patient and persistent effort. He has said something startling. A man of less tenacious character might have been discouraged long ago. It seemed to be Mr. Shaw's fate to find his audience smiling and acceptive when it ought to have been shocked and screaming.

When Mr. Shaw said he could write a better plan than Shakspeare, he braced himself to stand up against the protesting roar, but his auditors merely smiled and replied: "Of course you can, George. Why don't you do it?" And it has been getting more discouraging ever since. Mr. Shaw time and again has retired to the privacy of his study and there packed a gaspipe full of naughty sayings, bold hypotheses, pretty paradoxes, etc., has set fire to the fuse, and tossed the bomb into the crowded gatherings of men, only to find that he had not ruffled even the ecclesiastical whiskers of a middle aged vicar.

But his success came when he least expected it. We know that his inventiveness had failed him when he allied himself with the anti-washing theory. It was the effort of a tired man. He had no hope of it.

"I have not really washed myself, except the obvious portions of my face and hands, since the time some one else did it for me," he said.

Here we arise and shriek in protest. Mr. Shaw goes too far when he asks us to believe there are any "obvious portions" to him. No, George. Not even for washing purposes.

SAUCING POLICEMEN.

The other day a man was arrested and fined for using disrespectful language to a policeman, thereby interfering with him in the discharge of his duty. It is strange that there should be men who think they can do that with impunity. One may be guilty of bigamy, or run a trust, or be a steady grafter and yet escape punishment, but the consequences of reviling a policeman are inevitable. So, when there are so many crimes to pick from, no intelligent man should select this.

A policeman on his beat is greater than a major general or than a teamster in his pride of place. If the president of the United States should be ordered by a policeman to "move on," it would be his duty to obey, saying, perhaps, as he moved on, "excuse me, officer." That being the case, how improper it is for a commonplace, mediocre citizen who does not relish some reply an officer has made, or some order he has given, to call him a fool, or words to that effect. He invites an unpleasant last act of the play—a trip to the station, an interview with the desk sergeant, a cell, a fine, unpleasant publicity.

All should be civil spoken at all times, even under great provocation, but if a man does yield to the temptation to shoot off epithets, the policeman is the one target he should not fire at.

EXIT THE CUNNINGHAM CLAIMS.

The disallowance by the land commissioner of the notorious Cunningham group of claims on Alaskan coal lands closes a discreditable incident, to the great satisfaction of the American public. Former Secretary Ballinger may have been innocent of the guilty complicity of which he was suspected by hundreds of thousands. But no one who followed closely the testimony before the congressional investigation committee could fail to end with a conviction that both he and his trusted subordinates had been strangely lenient and complacent in dealing with the Cunningham claims. There was a good deal of talk before the committee about hypersuspicious reformers, but the effluvium arising from this case was strong enough to offend normal nostrils, and the Dennett decision is in the line of the public instinct.

It is reassuring, furthermore, to realize that the public interests in Alaska are now under the care of a secretary of the interior who is a whole hearted conservationist, but at the same time an exact and practical administrator. In Mr. Fisher's hands the president and the American public may be secure that there will be no masked raids on the public domain.

GIVE US CHEAPER GAS AT ONCE.

Why should any alderman vote against or the mayor veto an ordinance fixing the price of gas at 77 cents a thousand feet for the next six months? The council can prescribe a rate for a shorter term than five years if it pleases. The aldermen who before election told their constituents that they would give them 70 cent gas ought to be ready and willing to make a payment on account. If the constituents were given 77 cent gas now they would wait more patiently for the full redemption of the aldermanic pledge. They would be having the good of a little more than half the loaf which was promised them.

During the six months the aldermen who take it on faith that 70 cents—neither more nor less— would be the fair rate could collect the evidence required to back up their belief. If the validity of a 70 cent rate had to be tested in the courts there would be a demand for facts. Beliefs and surmises would not suffice.

While the council was getting all the information possible and settling points now in dispute, consumers would be saving money. If they could get gas for 8 cents less a thousand feet than they do now they would be, roughly speaking, $800,000 better off at the end of the six months. It would be much more to the purpose to save them that sum than to drift along for weeks while the company was industriously collecting 85 cents. It would be better than to commit the city hurriedly, blindly, without sufficient supporting data, to a 70 cent rate. If after years of litigation it were declared unreasonable, the gas company would keep all its collections in the meantime under the 85 cent rate. Then what would consumers say of the men who had made that monumental blunder?

What they want is cheaper gas, not a lawsuit. They are entitled to cheaper gas now and should have it.

THE SAD FATE OF ROSEBERY.

There was a time when Lord Rosebery was in the front ranks of the Liberals. But while they moved on, seeing new opportunities and taking up new issues, he stood still. Ceasing to be a progressive, he has, in the nature of things, become a conservative of the fretful, querulous type. He writes doleful or angry letters to the Times about the decay of venerable traditions and the temporary supremacy of the powers of evil.

The gradual conversion of the youthful radical into a dyed in the wool conservative is not infrequent, but is specially noticeable in Lord Rosebery's case because he was once prime minister in a Liberal administration. It was not his marriage to a daughter of the house of Rothschild which separated him from his old party associates. It was because his mental processes stopped working and he could not keep up with his old friends.

The old love turned to hatred makes him jump at every opportunity for fault finding. Thus in a recent letter he accused the Liberal administration of having made impossible henceforth "the proud boast that 'an Englishman's house is his castle.'" What has happened? Why, under the land act of last year a valuer may enter and inspect any house. Lord Rosebery was so eager to strike that he did not stop to investigate. Had he done so he would have found that the sacredness of the Englishman's home was attacked in the same way in a law put through by a Liberal administration of which he was a member. The laugh is on him.

CONFLICTING OPINIONS.

Mr. James R. Mann made a speech last week in which he said THE TRIBUNE was all wrong in its statement that the Root amendment to the reciprocity bill would make it conform to the reciprocity agreement. On this theme he dilated at length with much apparent show of learning.

But Senator Root, who by nature and training cultivates accuracy of statement, said, according to the Congressional Record, that his amendment "simply makes the bill conform to the reciprocity agreement and has no other purpose or effect."

Said Senator Lodge, "the bill in the Canadian parliament repeats exactly the proviso in the agreement submitted by the president. The Root amendment in effect reproduces that."

President Taft said in his Chicago speech, "the Root amendment is in exact accordance with the reciprocity agreement."

There have been times when Mr. Mann was right, but this does not appear to be one of them. His passion for correcting everybody, and thus displaying omniscience, sometimes leads him astray. THE TRIBUNE, fortified by the three witnesses whose evidence it has quoted, will not stand corrected.

A CITIZEN'S APPEAL.

A correspondent of THE TRIBUNE who favors the parcels post puts the following question, which states a problem other readers may meet:

> Whom shall I write in the event that my congressman is committed, for reasons best known to himself, to opposition to the parcels post, reciprocity, and about everything else that is best for me and the most of my neighbors? That question has occurred to me a great many times in the last few months, and I have not found the answer.

The writer proposes that "THE TRIBUNE, as a public force, take upon itself the task of organizing a local petition system throughout its army of subscribers, and take upon itself the duty of forwarding these petitions and putting them where they will really do some good."

If a newspaper undertook such a work it would quickly be overwhelmed by its own machinery, which is already very costly and complex. The proper function of the press is to inform, arouse, and direct public opinion. It cannot also assume the ministerial task of organization, etc. The citizen must do something for himself and his convictions. In this case our correspondent should work through the party organizations, or if that is not possible, should gather together those of his neighbors who think as he does and organize an independent group, the strength of which may be considerable if it holds the balance of power in the district.

Meanwhile, if the correspondent's congressman is in opposition, he should write to him nevertheless, for few men in public office are not affected in some degree by their constituents' appeals or protests. And appeals should be sent not only to representatives in the house but also to the senators.

FAVORABLE SYMPTOMS.

The voice of the economist which was heard in the land last year seems to have had some effect. The American consumption of imported champagne has fallen off one-half. The value of the diamonds imported during the first eleven months of this fiscal year was less by $7,000,000 than for the same months of the preceding year. These are articles on which the economist would lay his finger first when he undertook to cut down the national expense bill. Neither adds to the productivity of the country. The money put in both would do some good if used in manufacture, or trade, or on the farm.

There are two kinds of economizing—voluntary and forced. It is quite likely that the reduction in the American diamond and champagne bills was not because of a decision that so much money should not be frittered away on superfluities. It may be that there has not been so much money to spend. In that case abstinence would be compulsory.

We know that business is not booming. There are things beside wine and precious stones which are not being bought so freely as the manufacturers would desire. That is the complaint of the men in the steel, woolen, and cotton industry. Uncertainty as to the tariff plays some part in slackened production. The conditions are such at this moment as to suggest the general expediency of economizing.

If we were to reduce our diamond purchases $20,000,000 instead of $7,000,000, it would be better for the country. There are foreign products —foodstuffs and manufacturers' materials, for instance—which would be of greater service to the country.

CRIME IN ILLINOIS.

A state branch of the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology has been organized at the University of Illinois. Its purpose is the study of crime in this state in all its aspects. The subject is a large and unpleasant one. A single Chicago day will furnish the investigators a wealth of material. As they will have to study rural as well as urban crime, for the city has not a monopoly of lawbreakers, and as they will not stop with the tabulation of crimes, but will search for their causes, so as to suggest remedies, it may be some time before we shall have any valuable recommendations.

The study of crime in Illinois a century ago would have been a comparatively simple matter. The material progress the state has made, the multiplication of its interests, and the new elements which have entered into its population have introduced new varieties of crime. The criminal code has been expanded to cover them and penalties have been prescribed. With all its lawmaking, severe or reformatory, its elaborate provision of courts and peace officers, society has to confess that it has not found out how to cope with crime. Somehow its machinery does not produce adequate results.

Any inquiry by a body of capable men into the causes of crime is welcome. The inquiry should also develop the reasons for the failure better to enforce the criminal laws we now have—why more criminals are not caught, and why more of those who are caught do not pay the penalty the law provides. If the lax enforcement of criminal laws fosters crime by making men believe that crime is safe, society should know it so that it may choose more efficient agents for their enforcement.

"My husband has me cook one of 'em once in a while," answered the farmer's wife. "He says he likes their gamy flavor."

"O, my wife likes to hear 'em sing," responded the farmer.

MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright: 1911: By the Brentwood Company.]

It is needless to state that the name of the Duke de la Chatre, who figured so conspicuously in the recent Travelers' club scandal at Berlin, will not be found anywhere in any of the standard works of reference, such as the Almanach de Gotha, etc. The individual in question is in reality a Swiss citizen, of the name of Theodore Spreng, the son of a lawyer of Basle, and claims to have received the title of Duc de la Chatre through the testamentary dispositions of the eighth duke of that name, who is alleged to have died about a quarter of a century ago.

Now, although there have been barons and Counts de la Chatre in the history of France, notably a field marshal of the reign of Henry IV., and a Count de la Chatre, who was killed at the battle of Nordlinguen in 1645, and who is the author of some curious memoirs dealing with the minority of King Louis XIV., the De la Chatre family is extinct. Its last bona fide member was a Count de la Chatre, who was created a duke by Louis XVIII. on the restoration. He died in 1824, without issue, and then, strictly speaking, his honors and name became extinct. For his dukedom, as well as the title of count, which had come to him by birth, were only heritable in the male line direct.

A nephew of his wife, however, assumed both the name and the title of Duc de La Chatre, without any warrant or authority, and passed it on to his own son, Raoul. The latter, a ne'er do well, married a woman of stormy antecedents and peculiar history, who had as her best friend Theodore Spreng. She was able to induce her husband to adopt Spreng, and to affix his signature to a will, by which he bequeather to his friend, Theodore Spreng, his name and his title. At least that is what the will shows, although it has been repeatedly alleged that the documents left by Raoul de La Chatre showed signs of manipulation.

On the strength of these documents, however, such as they were, Theodore Spreng, who was born on May 27, 1856, succeeded in obtaining from the Cantonal government of Basle a decision, dated June 1, 1887, authorizing him to add to his name of Spreng the name, but not the title, of De La Chatre, the Cantonal government holding that neither it nor any other governmental body in the Swiss republic was competent to grant authorization for the assumption of a nobiliary title.

It will be seen from this that Spreng has no possible right or authority for calling himself Duc de La Chatre; and even admitting that the grand-nephew of the Duke de La Chatre, who died in 1824 without issue, really adopted him and bequeathed to him the name of La Chatre, it is a serious question as to whether the grand-nephew in question had himself the right to the name of La Chatre, since his own father was merely the nephew of the wife of the duke and had assumed the duke's name and title in 1824, without royal warrant.

During the twenty odd years that Theodore Spreng has been posturing in Paris as Duc de La Chatre, he has never succeeded in obtaining admission to any reputable club or even to any decent French society; while Hauterive, the well known genealogist, and other experts whose names count for something in such matters have publicly ridiculed his pretensions. Even the ordinary Paris directories have balked at recording him in their pages under the title that he has assumed, and the only people among whom he is able to masquerade more or less successfully as Duc de La Chatre are the visitors from North and South America and from the Levant, whose ignorance leads them to become the dupes of just such men as Theodore Spreng and of the other professional gambles, adorned with equally bogus titles, who have been associated with him in the Travelers' club scandal, a club that is now extinct.

ers' club scandal, a club that is now extinct.

They undoubtedly selected the name of the Travelers' club because it is that of the most exclusive club in London, and of a club in Paris, on the Champs Elysées, which started under favorable auspices, for the purpose of bringing members of first class American clubs, and of equally smart American clubs, who happened to be in Paris, into contact with leading French clubmen. It has long since, however, degenerated into a gambling establishment which has been subjected to frequent visitations by the police, mainly for the purpose of arresting on the premises card sharpers and undesirable foreigners whom it was deemed wise to expel from French territory. As for Spreng, although he is a stranger to decent French society, he is familiar to the Parisian police.

During the war between Japan and Russia six years ago the young daughters of the czar were associated in the organization of a splendidly equipped ambulance train, which, with its contents, and, above all, with its luxuries, provisions, and comforts for the sick and wounded at the front, represented a value of $600,000. The greater portion of this money had been given by the czar, in the name of his children, and the remainder had been collected by the little girls among the dignitaries of the imperial court, or had been sent in by rich people, who wished in this way to attract the notice of the young grandduchesses, and more especially of the latter's parents.

All trace of this ambulance train was lost, and the Russian authorities in Manchuria, with the object of putting a stop to disagreeable inquiries from St. Petersburg, officially reported that the entire train had been captured and confiscated by the Japanese.

Recently Senator Medem has been visiting Siberia and Manchuria at the instance of Premier Stolypin and strongly backed by the czar, who has invested him with extraordinary powers, in order to investigate a number of scandals and also mysteries savoring of dishonesty and graft; and during the course of his investigations he by mere chance brought to light the fact that this ambulance train, which bore the name of the czar's eldest daughter, Grand Duchess Nikoljevna, had been allowed to run off the tracks at the Siberian station of Wodorasdel on Dec. 25, 1904, through the carelessness of the stationmaster there in not having the switches carefully attended to. Only three cars of the sixteen composing the train were damaged, and those not seriously. Sooner, however, than risk dismissal by summoning the assistance of the repair department and reporting the accident, the stationmaster caused the entire train to be drenched with petroleum and then set fire to it, so that in a few hours there was nothing left, either of the train or of its valuable contents, which would have been of such incalculable benefit to the suffering soldiers and would have saved so many lives, but some wheels and some masses of twisted iron and metal, which were subsequently sold by the stationmaster, for his own benefit, as scrap iron.

This is only one of the extraordinary instances of official dishonesty that have been brought to light by the various investigations which have been carried on by trusted members of the senate under the personal direction of the czar and of his premier, Stolypin; and certainly, when one recalls how great was the loss of life during the war in Manchuria, owing to the lack of medicines, ambulance supplies, and necessary comforts, let alone the luxuries, it does seem that no mere imprisonment, even with hard labor, would ever atone for the crime perpetrated by this stationmaster of Wodorasdel.

ROWDIES IN THE PARK.

Chicago, June 24.—[To the Friend of the People.]—There is a gang of rowdies adjoining Douglas park, which annoys peaceful visitors in the park, especially those on the tennis courts. The gang comes on the court, stops the game, and beats up the players. They then run just about half a block and are outside the park. The park policemen are either unable or unwilling to cope with the situation, for an officer never arrives when the gang is in the park, but when they are already outside, and then he answers that he has no authority to make any arrests outside the park. We had the same trouble all last year, but this year we would like to have it stopped. Could you kindly advise me in what manner this outrageous annoyance of peaceful citizens could be stopped?

A TENNIS PLAYER.

Another like complaint has been made. The west park authorities, when their attention was called to the matter, promptly took steps to put a stop to the outrage. Additional police protection will be given to the park and especially to the tennis courts. Offenders will be severely handled.

WHEEL TAX AND STATE TAX.

Chicago, June 24.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Was any change made in automobile laws by last legislature—that is, in license fees, or are those fees still payable to local municipalities?

E. A. WILSON.

The rate fixed by the legislature's automobile bill is based on horse power. Twenty-five horse power and less, $4; thirty-five horse power and over twenty-five, $6; fifty horse power and over thirty-five, $8. This has nothing to do with the city wheel tax, which is unchanged from last year and is based on the seating capacity of automobiles. The wheel tax must be paid to the city collector.

BETTER LIGHTING NEEDED.

Chicago, June 24.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Why is it that the arc light on the southwest corner of Wood street and Jackson boulevard is lighted only about half the time? The other arcs along Jackson boulevard are lighted, even in the middle of the block. This is a particularly dangerous corner, as heavy trucks travel along Wood street, while Jackson boulevard is thronged with automobiles and lighter vehicles. This crossing is well known among motorists as "collision corner." It therefore behooves the west park commissioners to look into the matter.

JOHN K. MAINWARING.

All the boulevard lamps east of Oakley boulevard are operated by the city. We have, however, taken the matter up with the city electrician, and have requested him to repair the lamp in question.

GEORGE A. MUGLER,
Secretary West Chicago Park commissioners.

VIOLATION OF THE ORDINANCE.

Chicago, June 24.—[To the Friend of the People.]—We own two lots on Western avenue and have a two story store and residence on the north lot. Some years ago the building we had on the south lot burned and the water was shut off on that lot. There is no water in the present house and it is said the city will not allow us to bring the water from one lot to the other, and that we must have a separate pipe connected with the main before we can use the city water. I know of cases where people attach hose on the pipes in their basements and use the water to sprinkle their gardens on adjoining lots. Why is it, then, that we cannot have the water turned on and use it on either of our lots, whether occupied by buildings or not?

O'C.

To connect a supply pipe to the supply pipe already in use on an adjoining lot is in violation of section 2,380 of the water ordinance, a copy of which we are mailing to you.

A SMOKEHOUSE TERMINAL.

Chicago, June 24.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Cannot something be done to put a stop to the practice of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad running its switch engines under the platform of the North Water street terminal at about 5:30 p. m. and stopping there to belch forth smoke and gases upon the crowds on the platform and in the cars? It is especially bad in warm weather, when the windows of the cars must be kept open.

K. D. W.

The smoke inspector is hampered by an ordinance which prevents him from interfering unless the smoke is so dense that you cannot see through it.

COMPANY HASN'T MOVED YET.

Chicago, June 24.—[To the Friend of the People.]—As one of the many who are interested in better transportation in our vicinity, I would ask for a little information. What is the prospect of a street car line on Forty-eighth avenue from Chicago avenue north to Fullerton avenue?

A. WM. A. JOHNSON.

I beg to state that the ordinance of Oct. 10, 1910, to the Chicago Railways company for the taking over of the lines of the Chicago Consolidated Traction company requires the construction of a line in North Forty-eighth avenue from Chicago avenue to Milwaukee avenue; the ordinance requiring that "the said extensions and additions shall be fully completed and equipped and in operation on or before the first day of December, 1911."

Up to the present the board of supervising engineers has not received any application from the Chicago Railways company for the issuance of the "work order" necessary to have before beginning the work.

H. H. EVANS,
Secretary to Committee on Local Transportation.

NORTH FORTIETH AVENUE LINE.

Chicago, June 24.—[To the Friend of the People.]—There has been considerable talk for the last year about building a new street car line on North Fortieth avenue between Madison street and Irving Park boulevard. This is a line that is badly needed by the northwest part of the city, as the last cross line west is the Kedzie-California avenue line. Is there an ordinance requiring this line to be built, and when is it to be completed?

HENRY WARD.

I beg to state that the ordinance of Oct. 10, 1910, to the Chicago Railways company for the taking over of the lines of the Chicago Consolidated Traction company requires the construction of a line in North Fortieth avenue from Madison street to Elston avenue, the ordinance requiring that "the said extensions and additions shall be fully completed and equipped and in operation on or before the first day of December, 1911." Construction of the line is under way at the south end.

H. H. EVANS,
Secretary to Committee on Local Transportation.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

DAY OF WRATH COMING.

Marquette, Mich., June 26.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The newspaper reports of the damnable assault made upon the Springfield correspondent of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE by Lee O'Neil Browne serve to illustrate the far reaching and never ending evils that have sprung from the Lorimer election affair. The "interests" used Lee O'Neil Browne and his gang to get Lorimer into a position where he (Lorimer) could be profitably used. And a poor newspaper reporter, just because he represents a great newspaper that is fighting this same Lee O'Neil Browne and his gang, this same Lorimer, these same "interests" in the interest of the public and common decency, must needs suffer.

How long will the decent people of this country permit of such things? How long will decent citizens cravenly and meekly wear the yoke that corrupt and predatory wealth has so brazenly fitted to its neck? Will not the time come when the people will rise in terrible wrath against the money autocrats and smash them, tear the noxious growth, root and branch, from the free soil of our proud America? Perhaps when that day shall come it will not be like the frenzied French folk, wiping out in rivers of blood the deadly insult to their intelligence and honor. It may be that the cooler Anglo-Saxon blood will take less rabid methods, a more peaceful solution of the difficulties. But just as sure as the sun rises and sets upon the American people, just as sure as all things that are wrong and filthy and cruel must die, just so sure will all the mighty agencies, like THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, the preachers, the teachers, the righteous people of this country prevail.

All hail to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Fear palsies not its strong arm in its valiant warfare against all sorts and conditions of rottenness. It shapes public opinion as much by its deeds as by its preachings. Let us hope and pray that Lorimer will be kicked out of the United States senate so forcibly that even his fondest friends and most ardent supporters will never be able to entice him into hoping for another such experience.

A. J. RICHARDSON.

THE DEVIL'S DUE.

Reno, Nev., June 22.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I have read Mr. McCormick's and Mr. Conway's articles in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE. The distance from San Francisco to Goldfield, Nev., is 512 miles, not 200 miles, as stated by Mr. Conway. While the Southern Pacific is guilty of manifold sins, let us "give the devil his due."

M. LEONARD.

HASTEN THE DAY.

Chicago, June 26.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—There does not appear to be one redeeming feature in the excessive noise created by the surface and elevated railways in this or any other city. It is the most annoying, disagreeable, and nerve wrecking of all city noises. It is more penetrating, far reaching, continuous, and injures a greater variety of business interests than any other. It is practically responsible for much of the delay and annoyance in the telephone service. It prevents conversation on the street, in many of the public buildings, private offices, residences, and in the cars. It delays business transactions, strains the voice, affects the hearing, and is particularly wearing on the nerves. It is of no commercial value to the public or the railways, and why it is not suppressed is a mystery.

If the railways can afford to spend millions of dollars in improving their roadbed and purchasing new cars, they certainly can afford to spend a few thousands to stop this nuisance, which is an injury to the business of a city, and which affects their traffic and the health of the employés operating the cars. The hotels, stores, office buildings, hospitals, schools, and homes will welcome the day when it is done away with.

The railways are entitled to a great deal of credit for the improvement they have made in their roadbed and equipment, but should be censured for neglecting to stop this noise nuisance. It is unnecessary, uncalled for, can be practically eliminated, and should be done. The expense connected with it is trivial to the advantages to be derived.

H. L. R.

ONE LUMBERMAN ON LORIMER.

Chicago, June 24.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—If you could show the public what the state of Illinois and the people of the United States lost because of the dishonest practices which existed at the time of Lorimer's election I believe you would gain a great deal in your fight against graft. For instance, many people claim that it is nothing to them who wins—that it is just a fight for political power. It seems to me the losses figure up something like the following:

1. The people of Illinois requested one man for senator. The politicians, for their own purposes, and not for the public good, chose another. The question which was the better man is not part of the consideration in this case.

2. This change cost perhaps half of that session's time and expense. How much was that in dollars?

3. It interfered with proper legislation. Nobody knows what that injury to individuals, or general business, or community welfare amounts to.

4. All the above also is the case in a smaller degree in the United States senate.

5. The success of graft is a bad moral influence to every one. It encourages the bad and discourages the better element everywhere.

6. The success of graft does more to undermine justice and a free government than perhaps almost any other influence that this nation has to contend with.

In addition to the above it may be well also to consider that if a seat in the United States senate was worth $100,000 to any special interests, what did those interests expect to gain by it, and if those interests gained what would the public lose?

Personally I do not know what the special interests expected to gain.

Of course, there were criminal prosecutions of trusts though whether these were worth the price or not I do not know. There may have been a hope of future legislation or a fear of it. At all events, if a controllable senator was worth $100,000 to special interests, how much did the state or nation stand to lose? It seems to me that men would not go to the trouble and danger of bribing without the hope of large rewards or profits which could not be had with public consent.

ACCOUNTANTS MUST BE CITIZENS.

Chicago, June 25.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—If a European wishes to set up an office and practice as a certificated accountant does the state insist upon naturalization completely—i. e., must the person become a citizen of the United States? Or does he merely have to take out papers to the effect that his business is subject to United States laws and regulations and still may he remain a subject of his own native country?

A STRANGER.

[Certified public accountants in Illinois must be citizens of the United States or must have declared their intentions so to become and must possess a certificate from the University of Illinois.—Ed. Tribune.]

HABITS IN CERTAIN RESTAURANTS.

Chicago, June 24.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I have noticed the agitation and the accounts of the legislation against the use of the public drinking cup and the roller towel, but if you will raise a protest and if possible promote legislation against something far more important for the health of the people of Chicago, you will certainly encourage the creation of a commission to investigate the filthy restaurants which are feeding thousands of people daily in the city on filth bad enough to poison a dog.

It is a very common thing to see a sweaty waiter in one of those restaurants wipe his face on a napkin, then wipe a plate with the same napkin and set it down for somebody to eat from. That is done every few minutes a day in each of those filthy restaurants run by those people; they cannot sell anything fit for a human being to eat; they cannot fry meat or eggs fit for any kind, and everything is of the very filthiest kind.

A commission to investigate and instruct those people would certainly do some good.

BY SAM WELLER.

That slugging White Sox quartet, McIntyre, Lord, Callahan and Bodie, tried hard enough to beat the Detroit Tigers again yesterday, but they got no help, even the prospective shower deserting them, and their efforts died, the Tigers batting their way to the front in the last half of the battle and finally winning by a count of 6 to 3.

McIntyre's single, Lord's sacrifice, and Bodie's fence busting triple produced a run for the Sox in the opening round. Matty's single, Lord's sacrifice, and Callahan's home run added two more in the third, and those two vicious attacks sum up the offensive play of the home team. From the fourth inning until the end they were limited to a couple of scattered hits and one base on balls.

Detroit banged one run home in the fourth, when Cobb and Crawford had turns with the bat. This same invincible pair started the winning rally in the seventh, four runs being the result. Another was driven home in the following inning, which clinched the victory.

Sox Slabmen Look Weak.

If Ty Cobb and Sam Crawford were both at home sick in bed the cry of weak pitching on the Sox team would subside. But with those two in the game in full possession of their accustomed vigor none of the twirlers looks good.

Young Cy Young was selected to slab against the leaders and had he quit before the seventh inning began he would have been a pronounced success. He started beautifully by fanning Drake, repeating on Cobb after Bush had whaled a triple, and causing Crawford to pop a high foul to the catcher.

He set the visitors down in order in the second and third, crawled out of a bad hole in the fourth, went through the fifth and sixth handsomely, and then tumbled fearfully in the seventh. Lange was called to his rescue after the score had been tied, and the Tigers won the game before Lange could get the side out. Olmstead then took a turn on the slab and lasted to the end, one more run being counted.

Summers Becomes Enigma.

For Detroit Summers was on the mound, and, after getting through the first three innings, when the Sox sluggers were displaying such prowess, he steadied and held them runless to the finish, scarcely ever being in danger.

As big a crowd as ever looked at a regular game of ball on a Monday afternoon at the south side was present for the fray. It was almost as large as the Sunday gathering, fully 10,000 persons paying for tickets.

This crowd got its money's worth in the first three rounds of fighting, the climax coming when Callahan hit his line drive to the fence in right center and legged it all the way around the bases before the ball could be returned to the home plate. He drove McIntyre in ahead of him and the throng of enthusiastic rooters went wild with delight.

There was only one man out at the time and the Tigers showed signs of distress which was increased when Ping Bodie hit one so high over short left field that neither Bush nor Drake caught the ball and Ping rested on second base. The luck turned on the next play. Dougherty started one to the spot where Callahan landed his homer, but it was just a bit too low and Charley O'Leary leaped up and stabbed it with one hand, then doubled Ping off second. From then on the Sox were humble.

Tigers Fill the Sacks.

There was a chance to save the game in the seventh inning when the Tigers were in the midst of thier rally. It was a desperate chance and Lee Tannehill had the play in his hands and took the chance. It failed and the game was quickly lost.

Detroit had men on first and second, there was only one out and the Tigers were still one run behind. O'Leary hit a ball to Tannehill in deep short. He had a play at any one of the three bags, but it would have to be made like lightning. He chose the closest bag, that at third, and shot the ball there, but in his hurry he shot it low. The ball hit the bag instead of Lord's hands and bounded back at Tannie, leaving the bases filled and still only one out. Stanage scratched a single to the infield, letting the tying run come home. Then there followed a switch of pitchers, also a switch of batters, Davy Jones replacing Drake, and Davy got the hit that drove home two runs, enough to win the game.

Everything belonged to the Sox in the first part of the game. It looked as if they would bat Mr. Summers off the mound and gallop home with the victory. They excelled at the bat, on the bases, and in the field. The last half of the game was quite the reverse. The Sox attack was broken, their defense wavered and the Tigers slaughtered them.

However, the crowd reveled in the glory of the first three rounds and accepted defeat peaceably when it came. After Young Cy had displayed his pitching powers in the first round and retired the clouting Tigers, Matty McIntyre opened fire on his former mates with a stinger to left field and was promptly pushed to second by Lord's sacrifice. Callahan's sharp grounder was knocked down by Summers and Cal retired at first base, but Bodie drove one to the fence in a line between Cobb and Drake and pulled up at third base, while McIntyre trotted home. Dougherty struck out and the first attack ended.

Cal's Homer Is Screamer.

In the third inning it was McIntyre's turn to lead off again and he duplicated his single of the first. Thinking the Tigers would be expecting a bunt, Lord flashed a signal to Matty for the hit-and-run on the first ball pitched, but the Tigers had guessed as much and pitched out. Lord threw his bat at the ball, but missed it, but it didn't matter, for Matty made good with a stolen base, just beating Stanage's throw. Then Lord bunted and put Matty on third and Callahan followed with his screaming home run between Cobb and Crawford, sending Matty home ahead of him.

After the frantic fans had found their seats again Bodie knocked one to the sky in short left. Bush lit out after it, but had he kept away Drake might have made a catch. Bush got his hands on the ball after a long run, but it fell to the ground for a double, and there was more cheering. It was quickly hushed, however, when O'Leary stabbed Dougherty's line drive and doubled Ping off second base. That ended the attack of the Sox.

Bush opened the fourth for Detroit with a double along the left foul line and he reached third when Cobb beat out a roller to Tannehill in deep short. Crawford slashed one at Bodie and was shot out at first and a double play resulted when Collins' perfect throw to Lord got Cobb trying to go from first to third on the out. Of course Bush scored on the play. Delehanty came up then with a single to left, but was nipped trying to steal.

Cobb Starts Fatal Rally.

It was Cobb who started the seventh inning rally that won the game and he did it by beating out another infield hit to Tannehill. Crawford produced a slamming single to right, putting Ty on third. Delehanty fouled out to Collins, but Moriarty singled to center, scoring Cobb, Crawford stopping at second. Then it was that O'Leary slapped one to Tannehill in deep short and Lee tried to force Waho Sam at third, but made his bad throw, all men being safe and the bases filled. Stanage dumped one toward third base and beat Young's heave, Crawford scoring the tying run.

Young was taken out and Lange substituted. Summers lifted a short fly which Tannehill caught after a lively chase back into the grass. Davy Jones replaced Drake and stung a single to left field, scoring both Moriarty and O'Leary. Bush closed the rally with a grounder to Bodie.

Olmstead went to the mound in the eighth, Lange having given his place at bat to Messenger. Omie hit Cobb with a pitched ball and he went to second on Crawford's out. Delehanty brought him home with a single to center. Del stole second, but Moriarty popped to Lord and O'Leary flied out to Callahan.

SAM WELLERISMS.

The final battle of the Sox-Tigers series will take place today.

Ed Walsh is the probable pitcher and if he does as well as he did in the few innings Sunday he will give the Tigers a struggle.

A progressive restaurateur is having a sign painted at the Sox park advertising " spaghetti à la Bodie." It's right at the spot where Ping drives most of his fence busters, too.

The Sox are booked to travel to Cleveland tonight by a roundabout route again, so we are going to leave at 8 o'clock to be sure to get there in time for a game the next day.

" Shano " Collins connected for a triple in the ninth inning after two men were out, but he died on that corner when Tannehill ended the game with a pop to Bush.

Jesse Baker, the Puget sound southpaw is a possible selection for slab duty today. He passed two years as an attendant in an insane asylum and knows not what fear is.

Nearly every member of the Cubs was out to see the game and get a line on the style of play of the Tigers. The season is young, but there is a suspicion that these two teams will play a series of games in October.

Capt. Lord robbed Drake of a base hit in the sixth and broke up a rally by forcing a runner at second on the play. Summers had led off with a single when Drake slammed a hot grounder to Lord's left. He stretched out his gloved hand and the ball stuck in it, then he threw to Bodie before Summers could reach second.

That the baseball public has come to admire Ty Cobb on the ball field more and more was shown in a little incident yesterday. When Ty tried to go from first to third on an infield out he made a desperate slide for the bag and spiked Lord slightly on the leg. Ty showed his regret by his anxiety to know if the Sox captain was badly hurt, and instead of the one time hisses he was applauded by the spectators. Baseball fans like to see daring plays.

Sacramento Pastor Says Money Expended Nets Better Results than for Foreign Missions.

Sacramento, Cal., June 26.—Prefacing his sermon with a recitation of " Casey at the Bat," the Rev. Franklin Baker, pastor of the First Unitarian church, last night spoke to a large congregation in defense of Sunday baseball. He declared the $15,000,000 spent for baseball last season was better expended than the same sum in foreign missions and that the game is " America's mental shower bath."

GALAXY OF STARS IN NATIONAL MEET

Athletes from All Sections of Country to Compete in A. A. U. Games.

CHICAGO ENTERS 22 MEN.

Coach Delaney's Cherry Circle Team Conceded Chance to Land Junior Title.

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

With a trip to Stockholm, Sweden, to represent America in the 1912 Olympic games, in addition to national fame as a reward, sterling athletes from all sections of the country will compete in the National Amateur Athletic union outdoor track and field championships which will be held on Forbes field, Pittsburg, on Friday and Saturday.

Chicago will be represented by eighteen men from the Chicago Athletic association, three from the Illinois Athletic club, and one from the Chicago Irish-American Athletic club, while other leading athletic organizations of the country have entered formidable teams composed of performers who already have done meritorious work on the cinder path and sodded field.

Martin Delaney, coach of the Cherry Circle aggregation, yesterday strengthened his team by adding Frank Coyle the University of Chicago pole vaulter, who tied with Murphy of Illinois for first place in the pole vault in the western conference meet held on June 3 at Minneapolis, to his already long quota of stars. The Illinois A. C. will be represented by Wasson, the Notre Dame star, in the sprints and broad jump; Steers, also of Notre Dame, in the half and mile runs; and Burgess in the 220 yard low hurdles and running high jump. J. Freena of the Chicago Irish-American club will compete in the running high jumpp.

Irish-American A. C. Tops List.

In entries, the Irish-American A. C. of New York tops the list with a total of forty-eight. The New York A. C. comes second with forty-four; Pittsburg A. A. third with twenty-four, while the Cleveland A. C. will have a representation of twenty-four. The Olympic A. C. of San Francisco already has nine repprestatives training in the Smoky City, while three more passed through the city yesterday. The athletes who will compete for the far western organization are graduates of the University of California and Leland Stanford.

The C. A. A. team has a possible chance of winning the junior championship, but it cannot be figured as having a chance in the senior contest. Delaney has a formidable array of junior performers, who, if they live up to past performances, should win the title. The coach of the Cherry Circle squad said his protégés are in good shape.

The New York A. C., with Eddie Frick, Richard Edwards, and William Paull as representatives, should be credited with most points in the half mile. Of these performers, Frick is about the best, as he has a mark of 1:54 1-5.

In the weights, Matt McGrath, Martin Sheridan, Con Walsh, and Pat McDonald of the New York Irish-American A. C. should have no peers, while Harry Babcock and G. B. Dukes of the New York A. C. should put up an interesting battle for first place in the pole vault. Babcock won the eastern intercollegiate pole vault with a vault of 12 feet 8¾ inches.

Irons Looks Like Winner.

Frank Irons of the C. A. A. is looked upon as a winner in the running broad jump, although he is certain to receive plenty of stiff competition from Dan Ahearn and Platt Adams of the Irish club of New York.

Everett C. Brown, president of the National A. A. U., will be active referee of the two days' meeting. H. H. Latham, chairman of the athletic committee of the C. A. A., will accompany the Cherry Circle team when it leaves for the eastern city on Thursday night. The Illinois A. C. will leave tomorrow night and the Chicago Irish-American club's representatives will go with the C. A. A. aggregation.

Waddell to Be Given One Chance.

Louisville, Ky., June 26.—[Special.]—Rube Waddell, the famous erratic twirler who has donned the uniform of the Chicago Nationals and other clubs, is slated for release, according to Manager Cantillon of the Minneapolis club. According to Cantillon Waddell will be allowed to pitch one more game, and if he fails the former great pitcher will be sent to the minors.

BY HANDY ANDY.

Frank M. Schulte, the last bachelor member of Chicago's "500 club," planned to convert the Cubs' invasion of St. Louis and Cincinnati into a honeymoon trip by his marriage yesterday afternoon to Miss Mabel M. Kirby, 4157 Indiana avenue. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock at the bride's residence by the Rev. Walter H. MacPherson. The groom left with the Cubs for St. Louis at 10:15 o'clock last night, but the bride at the last minute decided to allow Frank to stand the "jollying" of his teammates at the depot alone. Mrs. Schulte will join the club at St. Louis today.

Schulte began the attack on Dan Cupid about two years ago, when he met Miss Kirby, who was present at a box party at Cub park, but it was only a month ago that Miss Kirby yielded her heart. "Wildfire" went alone to the office of the county clerk yesterday morning, gave his age as 28 and that of the bride as 29, paid the usual fee, and secured a marriage license.

J. N. Bailey, an old friend of the groom, acted as best man, and Mrs. D. Dobson was bridemaid at the wedding. Only the immediate family were present. The bride wore a coral satin gown with an over net of silver lace. Mrs. Dobson was gowned in a simple frock of Irish lace over white satin.

Couple to Reside on South Side.

Mr. and Mrs. Schulte will reside at 4137 Indiana avenue, the residence of the bride, which was presented to Mrs. Schulte by her aunt, Mrs. Dobson.

Schulte's desertion of the bachelor ranks, although somewhat precipitate, was not wholly unexpected, as the great right fielder has shown symptoms for some time of surrendering to Cupid, and the event did not wholly surprise his teammates. Himself one of the best and surest catchers in the game today, proved one of the hardest to catch.

One compelling reason is believed to have been the example set by Shortstop McKechnie of the Pittsburg team, who was married only a fortnight before the recent Pittsburg-Chicago series started. The marriage of McKechnie proved such a mascot to himself and to his team that the former utility player, who was assigned the shortstop's berth when Wagner was put on first base, actually won four of the six games from the Cubs by his own timely batting. With the Cubs hooked up in a sensational race for the National league pennant just now, history may repeat itself, and the marriage of Schulte may go into the games records as the turning point in the career of the 1911 Cubs.

So close is the race and so crippled is the team that there was no opportunity for Schulte to obtain leave of absence for the conventional honeymoon, but, rather than delay the important event at the risk of the possible loss of the pennant for lack of a mascot, both bride and groom waived claim to a vacation.

More Home Runs in Sight.

Schulte already has made seven home runs this season, besides three of which he has been robbed by careless umpiring or official scoring. For the rest of the season, when the Cubs are at home, it's a cinch the right fielder will make a home run every day, either during the game or directly after it.

This is Schulte's seventh season with the Cubs. He came to Chicago at the end of the season of 1904 from the Syracuse team of the New York State league. The following year he made the regular right fielder's berth under the late Frank Selee's management, and has continued there ever since under the leadership of Frank Chance. In that time Schulte has helped both by his fielding and hitting to win for the west side four National league championships, two world's pennants, and the city championships of Chicago in 1905 and 1909.

President Murphy accompanied the team to St. Louis last night. The Cub boss made his only previous trip with the Cubs this year to the Cardinal stronghold and Chance's men captured the series, consequently he is trying to repeat. Lurid Lew Richie developed a stiffness in his shoulder from pitching in the rain on Sunday and was left at home.

MURPHY MAY TRADE OVERALL.

Dispatches from Philadelphia Indicate That Deal Is On Between Cub Boss and Fogel.

That Orval Overall, the giant pitcher of the Cubs, now on the reserve list of the west side team would be traded to some other team in the National league, if such a thing is possible, was not denied by President Murphy last night prior to his departure for St. Louis with the team. Dispatches from Philadelphia indicated there was a deal between Fogel and Murphy on the fire. This Mr. Murphy would neither deny nor affirm. He declared, however, that at the request of Manager Chance, circular letters were sent to each of the National league magnates asking what they had in return for Overall and Willis. Many replies have been received, but the offers were not what the P. L. thought they should be and were turned down.

GOSSIP OF SQUARED CIRCLE

McFarland Begins Active Work for Ahearn Bout July 3.

REFEREE JOB FOR SANTRY.

Will Be Third Man in Ring at Thompson-Brown Fight at Gary, Ind.

BY KNOCKOUT.

Packey McFarland, the stockyards lightweight, who will meet "Young" Ahearn, the New York dancing master, in a ten round bout before the Knickerbocker A. C. of Albany on July 3, started active training at O'Connell's yesterday. Packey went through the regular routine of gymnasium work and tapered off his workout by going four fast rounds with Danny Goodman.

George "Knockout" Brown, who meets "Cyclone Johnny" Thompson of Sycamore in a ten round mill before the National A. C. of Gary, Ind., on the afternoon of July 4, took a long workout yesterday. Brown believes he has a chance with Thompson if he can rough him at close quarters. It was agreed yesterday that Eddie Santry will act as third man in the ring. Ernie Zanders of the Crown A. C. and Jack Shean of Hammond will clash in the eight round semi-windup. The preliminary has not been chosen, but efforts are being made to match Danny Goodman and Jack Roberts for six rounds.

Harry Forbes practically has finished training for his ten round go with "Young" Togo at Salt Lake City on the afternoon of July 4. Forbes already is down to weight, 118 pounds at 3 o'clock. He will leave for the west Sunday night, accompanied by his sparring partner, Freddie Whittingham.

Walter Little and Danny Goodman, local lightweights, who have bouts scheduled at St. Joe, Mo., on July 2, are taking daily workouts at O'Connell's.

Jeff O'Connell, the Pacific coast lightweight, is seeking a match with Matt Wells, English lightweight champion. When O'Connell first came east during the winter he was fighting in the featherweight class, but because of an enforced idleness he has taken on so much weight that he now is unable to make the featherweight limit.

Fred Gilmore, manager of Jack White, last night announced that White's ten round bout with Joe Mandot of Memphis scheduled to take place at Canton, O., on July 4, has been called off owing to the inability of the club to secure a permit. Gilmore, who also looks after the interests of Billy Wagner, is willing to match Wagner with Jeff O'Connell providing the managers of the latter will make a side bet.

Jim Flynn Quits Training.

Kansas City, Mo., June 26.—Jim Flynn whose fight with Carl Morris was called off after the governor of Oklahoma decided the contest could not take place in that state, abandoned his training camp here today. Flynn said he would resume active training when a new date and place for the bout are selected.

Coster to Fight Mandot.

New Orleans, La., June 26.—Joe Coster of Brooklyn and Joe Mandot of this city were today matched for a twenty round bout before the West Side Athletic club on Sept. 17. They will meet at 124 pounds.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 26.—[Special.]—The eyes of the golf world will be turned on Grand Rapids tomorrow when the annual open championship tourney of the Western Golf association is opened on the eighteen hole course of the Kent Country club. Golfers from all over the country are arriving and are being paired for the qualifying rounds tomorrow. Fourteen different states will be represented.

Secretary E. A. Eulass and President William Heyburn of Chicago and Louisville, respectively, arrived today to arrange the final details, and the other directors are expected tomorrow. They have everything in readiness, and, with the weather good, nothing is to be asked for to make the meet a success.

Only the qualifying rounds will be played tomorrow. These will be followed by match play for championship by the sixteen lowest players. Besides this the second thirty-six hole medal play will be played on Wednesday for the consolation prizes. The winners of the championship match will receive $200, the second prize is $100, and the other six range from $50 to $10.

The entries and pairings follow:

James Watson, Kalamazoo, vs. G. O'Neil, Beverly.
James Simpson, Blue Mound, vs. Aleck Campbell, Brookline.
Guy A. Miller, Detroit, vs. A. L. Naylor, Idlewild.
Walter Fovargue, Skokie, vs. A. J. Christie, Rochester.
Alex Robertson, Rock Island, vs. Jack Hutchinson, Allegheny.
John D. Cady, Rock Island, vs. David Wilson, River View.
David Hunter, Essex, vs. Henry Heyburn, Louisville.
E. A. Eulass, Calumet, vs. Ernest Way, Detroit.
Wilber Oakes, Bloomfield Hills, vs. Frank Dufina, Mackinac.
Peter Hendrie, Fort Mitchell, vs. E. L. Warner, Detroit.
R. McWatt, Baltimore, vs. Arthur Clarkson, Beloit.
T. S. Handley, Grand Rapids, vs. Arthur Fovargue, Louisville.
Jack Daray, Chicago, vs. Philip Y. Stanton, Grand Rapids.
C. P. Nelson, Battle Creek, vs. W. C. Sherwood, Memphis.
Allan Fownes, Grand Rapids, vs. C. B. Kelsey, Grand Rapids.
George L. Ritchie, Laporte, vs. Richard Kimball, Grand Rapids.
Stewart Malden, Atlanta, vs. William Trovinger, Skokie.
S. E. Edmunds, St. Louis, vs. James Donaldson, Chicago.
Jack Caldwell, St. Louis, vs. James Foulis Jr., Calumet.
William Heyburn, Louisville, vs. Jack Jolly, Newark.
George Simpson, Wheaton, vs. Bob Peebles, Wichita.
Albert Seckel, Riverside, vs. George S. McLain, Saginaw.
Richard Jackson, Detroit, vs. Robert Simpson, Kenosha.
W. J. Fenton, Grand Rapids, vs. Jack Croke, Chicago.
J. F. Bailey, Chicago, bye.

M'DERMOTT WINS OPEN GOLF TITLE

American Born Player Gets Score of 80, One Under Par, on Wheaton Links.

SECOND TO M. J. BRADY.

Wollaston Expert Only Two Strokes Behind; G. O. Simpson Turns In Card of 86.

BY J. G. DAVIS.

Finishing with a sequence of five fours, one stroke under par, Jack McDermott of the Atlantic City Country club won the national open golf championship with a score of 80 at the Chicago Golf club yesterday afternoon. M. J. Brady of the Wollaston Golf club of Boston was second with 82 and George O. Simpson of the Wheaton Golf club of Chicago third with 86.

These three players tied at 307 in the seventy-two holes of play last Friday and Saturday and played off yesterday for the championship medal and first, second, and third prizes. When McDermott ran down a short putt on the home green for a four he scored the first victory credited to an American born player in the seventeen tournaments held under the auspices of the United States Golf association. Brady also is a home product and it was a great triumph for these sons of Uncle Sam to finish in front of a field which contained nearly every professional of note in the country.

Simpson Has Bad Arm.

George Simpson, who hails from Monifieth, Scotland, had the satisfaction of finishing in front of the crack players from St. Andrews, Carnoustee, North Berwick, Troon, and other famous Scotch links. The Wheaton expert labored under a handicap, having suffered all the week from a contraction of the muscles of his right biceps, and he played most of the time yesterday with a bandage around the injured member.

As a championship display the performance was disappointing, the game being devoid of thrills. There were no long putts and nothing electrifying in the way of spectacular approach pitches. The rains of Saturday and Sunday left the course in better condition for scoring than at any time last week. It was easy to nip the ball from the fair green, and equally easy to pitch, while the greens were just right for confident putting.

As against these conditions there was a strong southwesterly wind, the worst that can blow on the Chicago course, and this, combined with the fact that all three players were under the strain of playing for the highest honor in professional golf in this country, was the main reason for the mediocre display.

Amateurs Outplay "Pros."

Compared with the spectacular play of the three amateurs who on Sept. 12, 1909, battled for the low medal score of the national amateur championship, it lacked luster. On that occasion "Chick" Evans counted 42—34—76; R. A. Gardner 36—41—77, and Tom Sherman 44—36—80.

What yesterday's play lacked in brilliancy was compensated for by the closeness of the race between Brady and McDermott. The little Philadelphian went out in 39, leading Brady by four strokes and Simpson by five. This looked good enough to give him the title, but sixes at the eleventh and thirteenth holes made his prospective golfing coronation seem a bit uncertain, as Brady, with a fine three on the thirteenth and a brilliant four on the long thirteenth, got on even terms, each having sixty strokes, while Simpson had sixty-three.

Brady's downfall came on the fifteenth green, where he missed a four foot putt and gave his Quaker City rival a lead of one stroke. After that McDermott did not give him a legitimate look-in, a fine iron second at the home hole giving him a sure four, while Brady had to tackle a five foot putt for a four, when the only thing that would have helped him was a three.

Players in Even Start.

All three players got well away from the first tee and played short of the bunker guarding the green. Their thirds were about equal distances from the pin. Brady holed a fifteen foot putt, the longest of the day. McDermott overran the cup five feet and took 6, Simpson getting 5.

Going into a strong cross wind at the second hole Brady sliced into a sand trap and played his second short of the bunker. Simpson on the like pulled just off the green to the left, and a short approach netted him a 5. Brady was on in three, but was short on a long approach putt and took 6, McDermott, who made no mistakes, getting a par 4.

From the third tee Simpson pulled out of bounds and came near repeating on his second ball, which dropped close to the fence in jungle grass. McDermott, who had a long tee shot, put his second in the rough to the right of the green, Brady on the like, landing on the left edge of the green. Simpson's third went only fifteen feet in the air, but he slashed an iron to the left of the green. He got a six, McDermott missing a six foot putt for a 4, while Brady overapproached on his third and took 5.

Turning for the fourth hole, 418 yards, McDermott and Brady got par fours. Simpson, who drove to the rough, pitched short on his second and took 5.

Find Fifth Hole Difficult.

From the fifth tee Brady topped into a bunker, Simpson again going wild into the long grass on the right. Brady negotiated a good shot from his sandy position, but was on the edge of the green in three. Simpson's high pitch from the rough landed off the right just escaping a sand trap. He was seven feet shy on his third and rimmed on his fourth. McDermott was on the edge of the green in two, getting a par four, the others each taking one more.

On the long sixth, the two Americans drove far and straight, Simpson slicing badly to the adjoining course. Brady lost his advantage by topping his second for 100 yards, while along with Simpson he made a good recovery. McDermott was away down the course in two and [illegible] chance for a four on a twelve foot putt, but took 5. Simpson on his long approach overran the hole while Brady was short and they both took 6.

Grand totals—McDermott, 80; Brady, 82; Simpson, 86.

Going with the wind behind them to the seventh hole, all were on the green in two. All got fours.

Straight drives followed from the eighth tee. Simpson's pitch rolled to the edge of the green. McDermott pitched prettily to eight feet from the cup. Brady also pitched on the mound and rolled on. All got fours.

McDermott Leads at Turn.

On the short ninth McDermomtt went straight for the pin, Simpson landing to the right forty feet away and Brady in a sandpit to the left. The Boston boy chopped out cleverly, rimming his six foot putt for a three. Simpson's approach went over the hole five feet and he took four. McDermott got a three, turning for home with 39, Brady having 43, and Simpson 44.

Simpson again was wild from the tenth tee, pulling to the rough and sending his second over the green into the trap. He pitched well out and got a four. Brady ran down a seven foot putt for a three. McDermott foozled his four foot putt for a three.

Brady pulled his next tee shot in the tall grass and had to play out short. Simpson was on in two and nearly holed a thirty foot putt for a three. McDermott made a bad iron second, slicing off the green. He missed a six foot putt and took five. Brady got on the green in three and down in two more.

McDermott still had a lead of two strokes, but at the thirteenth, after getting forty feet from the flag in three, he took three to get down. The hole is 519 yards, and Brady was ten feet from the pin in three, holing for a four, one under par. Simpson's last chance went glimmering when he sliced his iron second to a pit, and although he reached the edge of the big green with a great loft, he took six.

Battle Becomes Duel.

From this point on the battle was between Brady and McDermott. All got regulation fours on the fourteenth hole, but at the next Brady missed a four foot putt and fell behind one stroke. Simpson skied his drive for the sixteenth, the others getting fine drives and making fours, Simpson missing a five foot putt for a four.

McDermott had a chance for a three on a ten foot putt at the seventeenth, the other two having longer putts and playing dead. All got fours. Driving for home McDermott got away a screamer and Brady was about as far, leaving it all up to [illegible] straight for [illegible] which [illegible] on his [illegible] Simpson [illegible] second and [illegible] five on a three foot putt.

Also how many extra legs and arms was Ownie Bush incumbered with when Big Ed shooed him away five in a row last year?

EVANS SHOWS ENGLISH GOLF; SCORES 78 IN OPEN TOURNEY.

Chicago Link Man Breaks Into Fifty-first Championship at Sandwich Match with Low Mark.

SANDWICH, England, June 26.—The fifty-first open golf championship began on the links of the Royal St. George's club today, with a record entry of 225. America was represented by Charles W. Evans Jr. of Chicago, western open golf champion, and J. G. Anderson of West Newton, Mass.

The preliminaries will extend to Wednesday night, when the field will have been reduced to sixty, who will compete in the two final rounds.

In the first round Evans' score was 78, compared with 75, the best mark of the day. Thus far Anderson has small chance, his score being 86.

Notes of the Tournament.

McDermott received the gold championship medal and $300 in cash, Brady getting $150, and Simpson $100.

Brady was born in Boston twenty-four years ago and has played the game for thirteen years. He started play with the Commonwealth club.

President Silas H. Strawn of the U. S. G. A. refereed the match yesterday, while Vice President Alexander took charge of the gallery.

There was a big gallery, which included many of Wheaton's best citizens and a number of Chicago golfers.

The new champion is 21 years of age, and in addition to his new title is open champion of Pennsylvania. He has played golf eleven years—six as a caddie and five as a professional. In six tournaments last year he finished from first to fourth. He was with the Merchantville club of New Jersey two years, with Camden one year, and with Aronimonk one year.

NAME THREE CARS FOR ELGIN RACES

Grant, Lee, and Hartman Secured to Pilot Alcos in August Events.

OTHERS TO FOLLOW SOON.

Parade Over Boulevards and Trip to Park Planned for Orphans on July 14.

BY JOHN G. DE LONG.

Officials of the Chicago Motor club were jubilant yesterday over the announcement that three Alco cars will be entered in the Elgin national road races to be conducted by the local organization Aug. 25 and 26. News of the decision was received by Manager B. C. Day of the local Alco branch stating the actual entries for the race will be filed at once.

It will be the first time the Alco interests have entered more than one car in a single event, and the decision to put three machines in the Elgin affair indicates that the leading manufacturers realize the importance of the coming contest and mean to go the limit in an effort to win it. Harry F. Grant, twice winner of the Vanderbilt and competitor in the 500 mile international sweepstakes, heads the trio of drivers named to pilot the cars. The other two are Hardy Hartman and Frank Lee.

Lozier May Enter Three.

The Lozier, which at present holds the Elgin national trophy through the victory of Ralph Mulford last summer, some time ago announced it would have two candidates to defend the cup in the coming renewal. The opinion now prevails that three Loziers may compete. Under the rules not more than three cars may be entered by one firm.

Other good prospects among the makes of big cars are the Fiat, National, Simplex, Pope-Hartford, Marmon, Knox, and Palmer-Singer. Among the star drivers expected to man them are Bruce-Brown, Ralph De Palma, Louis Disbrow, Joe Dawson, and others.

The joint committee representing the Chicago Motor club, Chicago Automobile club, and Chicago Automobile Trade association met yesterday and discussed plans for the orphans' day outing to be held Friday, July 14. It was decided to rendezvous in Grant park and to make the usual parade over the boulevards and through the parks. One suggestion, which likely will be carried out, is that the orphans and old folks be carried to Riverview park following the end of the parade. Later they would be taken to their respective institutions.

More Machines Needed.

It has been discovered there now are twenty institutions in the city from which the orphans and old people will have to be taken for the outing. Last year there were only fifteen and even then the problem of caring for everybody was a big one. It is figured at least 300 machines will be needed and those who wish to donate the use of them for the afternoon are asked to send their names to the committee. Chairman Gunther added to his committee N. H. Van Sicklen Sr., W. J. Boone, Gaylord Warner, Edward Furner, C. P. Root, and A. B. Mulvey. The other members are T. J. Hay, C. G. Sinsabaugh, and O. G. Temme.

BY W. D. RICHARDSON.
[Wisconsin Coxswain, 1909-'10.]

Highland, N. Y., June 26.—[Special.]—Resting uneasily in their quarters at The Elms tonight are eighteen nervous Badger oarsmen who tomorrow will battle not alone for the University of Wisconsin but for the entire west. They have a big responsibility in their hands for they will be alone in their efforts to wrest from Pennsylvania, Cornell, Columbia, and Syracuse, the four leading rowing universities in the east, represented by the cream of American manhood, the championship of the country.

One hundred and twelve oarsmen in all, divided into fourteen crews, will be on the river at different times. The regatta will be held on the Hudson river over what is known as the Poughkeepsie course, a straight, deep stretch of water beginning three miles north of Poughkeepsie bridge and finishing one mile south of same structure.

Race Set for 5:30 O'Clock.

The hour set for the principal race, 5:30 o'clock, is just fourteen minutes before the ebb tide will be at its strongest. The freshmen race will start at the beginning of the ebb tide and the university four-oared race will be rowed in practically dead water. If the weather is at all rough, the outside crews will feel it the most, the smoother water being on the inside of the course, the numbers of which begin from the west. It is thought that the outside crews will have whatever advantage will result should the weather be calm; but, generally speaking, the Poughkeepsie course is fair to all contestants, the lanes being set so far out into the stream that there is comparatively little difference between them.

The long grind which falls to the men who essay to become members of the crew is now at an end. Their efforts, which began when they started work on the rowing machines during the holidays, will either crystallize or come to naught in a brief twenty minutes' struggle. They are trained to the minute. Upon them has been lavished all the care that could be bestowed. Before them is the opportunity to win undying fame, for a victory in either the freshmen or varsity races will give them something to look back upon through the remainder of their lives.

Badger Eight Has Show.

After being dealt out all the hard luck that it was possible to lay before them, the Badger varsity eight has come to a place where it now is conceded that with anything like equal conditions they should make a good showing. Never before in the history of rowing at the university has any crew met with such an unbroken string of setbacks. Many times it has looked as if the crew would be disrupted. The men, however, have showed their mettle by overcoming all odds. They are not expected to win, but they are expected to give their rivals a fight.

Only two old men, Hare and Kraatz, are in the shell and there is a pair of men rowing who never before handled an oar. The Badgers are surpassed in weight by three other crews, their average being 168⅛. They are the tallest set of men in any crew on the river and most of them are of mature years.

Up to as late as Saturday night the members of the crew were despondent. The setbacks that kept crowding in around them had a bad effect and dampened their spirits. Instead of improving, the crew went backward. Many of them felt like throwing up the sponge. Samp's lack of condition, numerous breakages in the outriggers, together with the great nervous strain which the men have been under had undermined their hopes.

And then came a brilliant time trial against the freshmen. Three watches caught the Badgers' time over the four miles at 19:57, nearly a minute faster than was made last year and the best trial that any Badger crew has made over the Hudson course. It was a different lot of oarsmen that assembled at the dinner table that night. There was a complete transformation. Everybody was lighthearted and Coach Vail declared they were good for even better time than that.

The freshmen are expected to win. The yearling crop is not up to average, according to the critics, except the Wisconsin youngsters. They show the results of Vail's careful coaching better than does the varsity eight, for the reason that the latter have been so badly handicapped.

CORNELL CREW BIG FAVORITE

Past Performances Give Ithacans Edge in Betting.

CROWD WILL SEE REGATTA.

Collegians and Followers of Sport Flock to Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 26.—The eve of the intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson found life enough in this city. Every train brought enthusiastic collegians and followers of the sport, who gathered at hotels and restaurants and eagerly discussed the chances of the various crews.

Cornell's prowess in the past naturally made the Ithacans favorites. Their clean sweep last year and the year before and the fact that Cornell crews hold the record for all the events rowed on the Hudson river course could not be overlooked. While there was no public betting tonight, individual wagers showed odds of 5 to 3, Cornell against the field.

The river today began to take on something of a regatta day appearance. The revenue cutter Seneca, first of the government vessels assigned to the duty of policing the course to arrive, steamed up to a position below the Poughkeepsie bridge and dropped anchor, while scores of small craft dotted the water in the vicinity. Later the revenue cutters Calumet and Manhattan appeared and anchored near by.

AT THE BILLIARD ROOMS.

In the three cushion tournament at the Romeo Bush [30] defeated Luzewich [30], 30 to 29.

Hawkins [175] defeated Mitchner [175], 175 to 156, in the 18-2 tournament at Foley's. Barnes [165] and Rinehart [135] tonight.

George Sutton averaged 58 1-3 in a 350 point game at 18-2 at his Wabash avenue rooms. Hawkins [150] and G. Nelson [140] tonight in the 18-2 tournament.

George Wheeler played fast billiards in the first of his series of six games at fifty points three cushion against Charley Schaefer at Flenner's last night, going out in 49 innings and winning, 50 to 37. They will play tonight at Schaefer's.

PILOTS CONTINUE LONG AIR CLASSIC

Beaumont First to Arrive at Brussels in Paris to Madrid Event.

WINDS BIG HANDICAP.

Six Other Contestants Put in Appearance for Continuance of Trip This Morning.

BRUSSELS, June 26.—The huge crowds which gathered at the aerodrome here today, not in the least discouraged by the disappointments of the two previous days when the contestants in the international circuit aviation race failed to appear, broke into volleys of cheers as Beaumont, winner of the fourth stage of the race, arrived at 5:30 o'clock. He was soon followed by Vedrine, Kimmerling, and Garros.

All the aviators told of exceptional difficulties encountered. They were buffeted by violent winds and drenched by rain. They were presented to the king, who warmly congratulated them on their achievement. Vedrine was the object of special welcome and was presented with a laurel wreath inscribed "To the victor of the Paris-Madrid race."

Up to 9 o'clock tonight, when the official records were closed, seven of the contestants had reached here. They were registered as follows: Beaumont, 37:21; Kimmerling, 37:34; Vedrine, 38:00; Garros, 38:33; Gibert, 38:56; Duval, 39:07; Renaux, with passenger, 39:49. These times do not repre- elapsed times since the official starts given yester- elapsed times ince the official starts given yesterday morning.

Owing to the unfavorable weather, however, the aviators refused to ascend, and protested against the ruling of the sporting committee. They did not start on the fourth stage until this afternoon.

Of the other contestants Tabuteau wrecked his machine near Gilze-Ryen, a short distance from the Belgian frontier; Vidart, Prevot, and Train are stalled by bad weather at the same place, while Wynmalen is at Brosschaet, about thirty-five miles from Brussels. All of the contestants expect to start again tomorrow morning.

TWO AERONAUTS LOST AT SEA.

Dirigible Balloon Carried Beyond Land and Men Are Presumed to Have Sacrificed Their Lives.

BREMEN, Germany, June 26.—One of the four balloons which ascended at Paris Saturday fell into the North sea near the island of Juist of the east Frisian group yesterday. A violent storm prevailed at the time and the aerial craft was carried rapidly out to sea. Two persons were aboard it. The other three balloons made landings on the east Frisian coast. A rescue boat was sent out as soon as possible to the aid of the distressed balloon, but later returned, having recovered only an empty ballast bag marked "R. G. B.—70."

The balloon was manned by Georges Blondel as pilot and Leon Corbin as passenger.

HANNOVERSCH-MUENDEN, Prussia, June 26.—The dirigible balloon Parseval V. while undergoing repairs today caught fire and was destroyed. No one was injured.

FOG PREVENTS CREW PRACTICE.

Time Row of Harvard Eight Called Off—Slow Work of Two and One-half Mile Spin Substituted.

Redtop, Conn., June 26.—Because of a fog and unfavorable water conditions Coach Wray of the Harvard squad called off the time row booked for tonight for the varsity eight, and instead took the two eights down stream for two and a half miles and return. The fours tagged along after the eights, covering about four miles. It was announced tonight that the varsity four in the morning practice covered a half mile in 2:18, but the conditions favored it strongly.

Yale in Eight Mile Row.

Gales Ferry, Conn., June 26.—It was misty on the Thames river tonight, with a strong flood tide, and the Yale eights were given an eight mile row in three stretches. The fours went two and a half miles up stream.

Horses for Hawthorne Races.

On Thursday the "Hawthorne special," a horse train composed of six cars, will leave Latonia for the Hawthorne racetrack for the running races next Monday and Tuesday. Aboard will be a hundred or more horses in training. Horses from the stables of Rome Respess, Johnny Ferris, J. C. Milam, and T. H. Ryan are in the lot.

KENWOOD HOUSE SOLD FOR $27,500

Dr. F. A. Besley Buys the Lenehan Property at 4515 Greenwood Avenue.

SOUTH SIDE FLAT SOLD.

Premises at Southwest Corner Stewart Avenue and 71st Street Bring $75,000.

An interesting transaction in Kenwood residence property closed yesterday was the sale by Joseph H. Lenehan of his residence at 4515 Greenwood avenue to Dr. Frederick A. Besley. A consideration of $1 is given in the deed, but the actual price is said to have been about $27,500.

The lot fronts 55 feet with a depth of 198 feet and is improved wit a twelve room modern brick and stone dwelling with a garage. J. Grafton Parker & Co. were the brokers.

Apartment House Sold.

The apartment house property at the southwest corner of Stewart avenue and Seventy-first street has been sold by William Madlung to Edgar S. Campbell, the consideration in the deed being $1, subject to an incumbrance of $29,000. The actual price is said to have been around $75,000.

The building is a three story and basement structure on 100x124 feet of ground, and it contains eighteen apartments of five rooms each. It is a comparatively new building, having been erected only a few years ago.

Mr. Campbell secured $15,000 of the purchase money by a trust deed to the Chicago Title and Trust company one year at 6 per cent, subject to the prior loan of $29,000.

Another Deal in Halsted Street.

The property in South Halsted street, 115 feet north of Adams street, 25x111 feet, west front, with store and flat improvements, has been sold by Mrs. Minnie Frank to Abraham Bernstein and Henry Wolf for $25,500, subject to an incumbrance of $9,000 assumed. The property is said to have been purchased within eighteen months for $12,000.

Hugh Maginnis appears in several transactions made matters of record yesterday. He conveyed to the Real Estate Title and Trust company the property at the northwest corner of Polk street and St. Louis avenue, 60x125 feet, with brick improvements, for nominal consideration, subject to incumbrance of $22,500. He purchased from Clara P. Gross the property in California avenue, forty-eight feet north of Harvard street, 24x117 feet, east front, with residence improvements, for $10,000; also from Mary F. Martin the property in Monroe street, between Kedzie and Albany avenues, 22x191 feet, with brick dwelling, for $5,000, with incumbrance of $3,500.

Twelfth Street Property Sold.

Harry Gerber has sold to Mollie Singer the property at the southwest corner of West Twelfth and Loomis streets, 24x124 feet, with store and flat improvements, the consideration being nominal, subject to an incumbrance of $16,000. Mrs. Singer conveyed in part payment the property in Marshfield avenue 273 feet south of Polk street, 25x125 feet, east front, with flat improvements, for a nominal consideration, subject to incumbrance of $2,500. Mr. Gerber also appears as the purchaser of the property in Fifteenth street 191 feet east of Solon street, 25x125 feet, south front, with improvements, for $4,500.

Charles Carlson has purchased from Mary J. McKay the property at the northwest corner of Clybourn and Webster avenues, a triangular piece, being 116x116x163 feet, improved with two story and three story buildings containing five stores and ten flats. The consideration is nominal, subject to incumbrance of $15,000, but the actual price is understood to have been $25,000. In exchange the purchaser conveyed a farm of 146 acres twelve miles west of Kenosha, valued at $125 an acre and bearing an incumbrance of $6,500.

Warren Avenue Site Brings $45,000.

Charles Q. Adams has purchased from the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee, the property in Warren avenue, 90 feet west of Hermitage avenue, 50x122 feet, north front, with apartment house improvements for $45,000.

Elias Epstein has purchased from Hyman J. Rosenberg the property at the southeast corner of Douglas boulevard and Trumbull avenue, 116x167 feet, vacant, for nominal consideration, subject to incumbrance of $8,250. The purchaser plans to improve with an eighteen apartment building to cost about $75,000.

J. K. Stewart of the Stewart & Clark company, manufacturers of speedometers and flexible shafting, has begun the construction of an eight story reinforced concrete building at 319-35 Wells street to cost about $200,000. The company is now located at 1828 Diversey boulevard.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Aggregate receipts of live stock at Chicago yesterday were larger than those of any previous day in many weeks, but buyers believed that they were being offered their last chance at heavy supplies of stock forced on the market by drought and they purchased generously at prices that showed remarkable stability. Cattle receipts were 1,200 head in excess of arrivals the first day last week; hog arrivals showed an increase of 2,000 head, and there was a surplus of 6,000 in the sheep and lamb run.

Native steers sold at weak to 10c lower figures, with prime beeves reaching $6.65, or only 5c lower than last week's best price. The supply was closely taken before the finish. Hogs opened at a decline of 5c, but rallied and closed in a strong position, with the early loss fully recovered. Tops made $6.55, while the average was the same as Saturday's at $6.36. Lambs were 15@25c lower, with the best at $6.85, but matured sheep held steady.

POTATOES DROP; WIDE RAINS BRING AID TO PARCHED CROP.

Dealers See Further Reductions—Buy Only for Current Needs—Speculators Lift Cheese and Poultry.

Copious rains over a widespread territory brought relief to the parched potato crop Saturday and Sunday and the receipt of more cheerful reports from producers yesterday was followed by a decline of 5@10c in prices at Chicago. Buyers were hopeful of seeing further reductions from the abnormally high level which has been in force for nearly three weeks and they limited their purchases to most pressing needs. As a consequence the trade was slow and the market easy at the decline.

Cheese speculators continued to add to their cold storage holdings and competition between them and regular buyers was sufficient to force another slight gain in values. A brisk speculative trade was also noted in the market for poultry and sales of fowls were made at an advance of ½c. Butter here and at Elgin remained unchanged. Berries sold at firm prices with choice offerings scarce.

MUTE BY ATTORNEY'S ADVICE.

Mrs. Ortie McManigal Refuses to Testify Before Los Angeles Grand Jury in Dynamite Case.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 26.—Mrs. Ortie McManigal, whose husband is in jail here under charge of murder in connection with the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building, appeared before the grand jury today and on advice of Attorney Darrow, chief counsel for John J. McNamara and his brother James, who are under similar indictments, refused to testify. She was directed to appear again tomorrow.

GREAT SUGAR WAR FACTS SET FORTH

John D. Spreckels Tells of His Father's Alliance with H. O. Havemeyer.

DECLARES IT WAS LEGAL.

Expresses Opinion That Tariff Is Necessary to Protect American Industry.

Washington, D. C., June 26.—Details of a great sugar war in the early nineties, resulting in an alliance between Claus Spreckels and Henry O. Havemeyer, were related today to the sugar trust investigating committee of the house by John D. Spreckels, son of the Pacific sugar magnate, and president of the Western Sugar Refining company of San Francisco.

"Your father was a masterful man in the sugar industry, was he not? He was to the Pacific coast what Henry O. Havemeyer was to the Atlantic, wasn't he—a monarch over the sugar industry?"

"In a lawful way, he was," said Mr. Spreckels. "We always aim to carry on our business in a lawful manner."

Mr. Spreckels then described how, during the sugar war, his father invaded the eastern territory and erected a great cane sugar refinery in Philadelphia.

Consolidation of the Plants.

"When we entered the east in that fight, of course both my father and Mr. Havemeyer realized that they were losing money," said Mr. Spreckels. "They came to their senses soon and concluded that such a fight was of no use. It resulted in a consolidation of the plants in the east and the formation of the Western Sugar Refining company plant and our plant there. Each side took a half interest in the new company."

"After that there never was any competition between Spreckels and Havemeyer, was there?" Mr. Madison inquired.

"No, but there has since been plenty of other competition."

Mr. Spreckels described how Mr. Havemeyer became associated with them in 1897 in the Spreckels Beet Sugar company in the erection of the largest beet sugar plant in the world.

Wants Tariff on Beet Sugar.

The witness declared that in his opinion free trade in sugar would ruin the beet sugar business and, he prophesied, with the tariff on sugar let alone, the state of California alone could furnish enough sugar from beets to supply the entire United States and to warrant the tariff protection of the industry.

Interest in the hearing was enlivened by the appearance of Joseph F. Smith, president of the Mormon church, and president of the Utah-Idaho Sugar company, an alliance of the Mormons and the American Sugar Refining company. He will be a witness tomorrow before the committee.

"GET RICH QUICK" JONES TO PLEAD GUILTY TO FORGERY.

Muskegon Manufacturer Whose Skyrocket Financiering Wrecked Firm to Throw Himself on Mercy of Court.

Frank G. Jones, the Muskegon, Mich. manufacturer who is known to have made more than $700,000 through forged notes, fake acceptances of accounts, and fraudulent bills of lading, finally has decided to plead guilty to a charge of forgery.

Less than two weeks ago Jones told Judge Stuart of the Superior court at Grand Rapids, the man whose duty it will be to sentence him, that he intended to plead guilty to the charge. Then, a week later, when he was brought before the stockholders and creditors of the American Electric Fuse company, and when they refused to furnish $12,000 in bonds to free him from prison temporarily, he told Judge Stuart that he would fight out the matter, and that his former partner, Charles L. Johnson of Chicago, and the bankers who were involved in the crash of the Muskegon company also would suffer.

Consideration of the matter in a jail cell evidently caused him to change his mind. He still has the letters which he alleges Johnson wrote to him in the cipher system they had agreed upon.

SEEKS TO OUST CAR LINE.

Forest Park Will Ask Court Today to Forfeit County Traction Company Franchise.

Legal proceedings to oust the County Traction company from Forest Park and to declare the franchise forfeited will be attempted today, when the village attorney, Frank Righeimer, will appeal before Judge Walker. This action was decided upon at a meeting last night of the village board.

GOMPERS CITED ONCE MORE

With Other Labor Officials Must Answer Contempt Charge.

ORDERED BY JUDGE WRIGHT.

Lawyers' Committee Suggests Apology May End the Proceedings.

Washington, D. C., June 26.—President Samuel Gompers, Vice President John Mitchell, and Secretary Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor were cited today to appear before Justice Wright of the District of Columbia Supreme court on Monday, July 17, and show cause why they should not be punished for contempt of court.

The court's action followed the filing of the report of a committee of lawyers appointed to investigate the charge that an injunction granted in favor of the Bucks Stove and Range company had been violated. In case the labor leaders are adjudged guilty it is yet an open question whether the court will impose a jail sentence.

Apology May Settle It.

The committee's report, presented by Chairman J. J. Darlington, submits that "there is reasonable cause to charge each of these parties with willful defiance of the orders of the court."

It is suggested, however, that the labor leaders acted under the belief that they were within their constitutional rights and the committee virtually recommended that due apologies and assurances of future submission, if they be forthcoming, settle the matter.

The cases probably will not be heard before fall in the event another trial becomes necessary.

"I Expected It," Gompers Says.

New York, June 26.—"I expected it," said President Gompers, when he learned of the ruling of Justice Wright in the contempt proceedings. "I am not surprised by anything Justice Wright may do."

President Gompers declined to say what his next move might be.

SUITS TO COLLECT BACK TAXES WILL BE STARTED TODAY SURE

Delay to Be Ended and Eight Firms and Individuals Must Face Serious Charge in Court.

Owing to a delay in preparing the papers in the criminal suits against the eight corporations and individuals accused of having failed to file correct personal property schedules, the complaints which were to have been filed yesterday will not be taken into court until this morning. The suits against the eight alleged tax dodgers are to be pressed for an early hearing, and the alleged offenders will be punished to the limit of the law, according to information given out from the corporation counsel's office, in order to give some 25,000 to 30,000 other tax dodgers a solemn warning.

The parties who are to be made defendants in the suits to be filed today are:

Michelin Tire company.	Diamond Rubber company.
Morris & Co.	Goodrich Rubber company.
Morton Salt company.	Empire Auto Supply company.
National Automobile company.
Kellogg Fairbank.

Averse to lead the city into wholesale litigation, which would mean years of labor and thousands of dollars in expenses, Corporation Counsel Sexton said yesterday that no criminal prosecution would be made against some thousands of other individuals and corporations if they would correct their schedules voluntarily by appearing before the board of review which will convene for a two months' session July 7.

It is estimated by Mr. Koraleski that during the last several years from $200,000,000 to $400,000,000 worth of personal property has been hidden from the assessors and has gone tax free.

M. J. SMILEY LEAVES $500,000.

Late Chicago Lawyer Bequeathed Bulk of Estate to Wife, Son, and Daughter.

An estate "not to exceed $500,000" was left by Mitchell J. Smiley, who was a prominent Chicago lawyer and who died of heart disease on May 8, last. This was made known yesterday when his will was filed for probate.

The chief beneficiaries are the widow, Mrs. Florence Smiley, a son and a daughter. The son, Edmund P. Smiley, is to receive $100,000, and the daughter, Mrs. Florence B. Carr, is to get a like amount.

After several minor bequests are made the residue is to go to the widow during her lifetime. Upon her death it is to be equally divided between the son and daughter.

School Children Want to Work.

More than a thousand boys and girls called at the Jones school, West Harrison street and Plymouth court, yesterday to apply for age and school certificates which would permit them to work during the summer. Half of them were turned away, as the clerical force was not sufficient to handle the crowd.

BUSINESS, COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL NEWS

BOXBOARD STOCK TAKES BIG DROP

Shares of $100 Par Value Fall from 3¼ to 2½; Indictments Cause?

BRICK DIVIDEND PASSED.

Earnings Held Not to Justify 8 Per Cent Return; More "L" Shares Deposited.

United Boxboard stock had a quick fall on the local exchange from 3¼ to 2⅜. The close was at 2½. There is no support for the shares which, of the par value of $100, are $2.50 each removed from being worth nothing. The selling in the stock was occasioned by the indictment of members of the so called Boxboard club in the east. At the same time there was a report from New York to the effect that the president of the company said the inquiry for board was not good and that the advance bookings had been small. The company is planning to have the mortgage bondholders accept a debenture in lieu of mortgage securities.

An indictment formulated under the criminal provision of the Sherman law was returned yesterday by the New York federal grand jury against the Eastern Boxboard company, alleged to be the successor of the dissolved Fiber and Manila association. The officers of paper board manufacturing corporations and copartnerships included in the Eastern Boxboard club are charged with being in combination in restraint of trade, limiting the output, and arbitrarily fixing prices.

Illinois Brick stock was manipulated up from an opening at 58 to 62. The close was at 61½. The market was an artificial one.

McCrum-Howell common was steady at 50½. Inside buying advanced the price of the preferred from 96½ to 97.

The Elevated stocks sold off presumably because of the narrow margin between the market price and the purchase price. Meanwhile deposits of stock under the merger plan continue to come in.

A feature of the market was an advance of 1 point in the Chicago Railways Series 2 certificates. Diamond Match was steady at 102½.

Brick Passes Dividend.

Directors of the Illinois Brick company at their regular monthly meeting yesterday afternoon passed the dividend for the quarter on the stock. The company has been paying 2 per cent quarterly or 8 per cent per annum.

It has come from a good source that earnings are now at the rate of 6 per cent. After the decline in profits the directors decided upon a conservative course and instead of a reduction dropped the dividend altogether for the quarter.

Large Harvester Earnings.

An eastern authority estimates that earnings of the International Harvester company will be equal to about 20 per cent on the common stock. This is based on the supposition that crop conditions generally will be maintained. The company is earning at the rate of about $73,000,000 gross for the year. Adding foreign sales of $42,000,000 would give the company total gross sales of $115,000,000. This will be $14,000,000 above the best previous record which was for the 1910 fiscal year. The company's crop reports thus far received are said to be exceedingly encouraging with regard to foreign crops. Present crop conditions in this country are reported to be far ahead of what they were one year ago.

Telephone Stock Subscriptions.

It is announced that it has been definitely decided to modify the plan of subscription to the American Telephone company's new $50,000,000 stock to the extent of allowing stockholders who desire to pay for stock in full at the time of the first installment or any other installment to receive a stock certificate instead of merely a temporary receipt. The stock certificate will be not only negotiable but tax exempt, and the modification has been made to meet this last feature of the situation. There will be adjustment of the difference between the 4 per cent interest allowed on prepayments under the original plan and the 8 per cent dividends the stock carries.

The company has also decided to issue to stockholders warrants for rights which will be transferrable by indorsement on the back and expire on Aug. 31. This is done to make the listing of the rights on the New York exchange possible.

Consolidated Gas.

The public service commission of New York issued the following report of the Consolidated Gas company of New York for twelve months ended Dec. 31, 1910:

		Increase.
Operating revenue	$13,398,597	$ 715,796

Bond Offerings.

The bond department of the Chicago Savings Bank and Trust company is offering an issue of $200,000 Aberdeen Light and Power company first mortgage 6 per cent twenty year gold bonds at 101½ and interest to yield about 5.9 per cent.

Potter, Choate & Prentice of New York and the First Trust and Savings bank of Chicago are offering $2,800,000 Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville first and refunding 4 per cent bonds, series C. The price at which they are offered, 94½ and interest, will yield 4.8 per cent.

Local Curb Market.

There was considerable trading yesterday in General Motors common and preferred, the former advancing from 42 to 47 and the latter from 84 to 85¼. Buying has emanated from a good source on the statement of the company, which shows that earnings were not quite as good this year as last, but were considerably better than expected.

American Hominy preferred was purchased for investment at 85. Aurora, Elgin and Chicago common sold at 42 to 43 ex. dividend. Burroughs Adding Machine remains strong around the present bid price with practically no trading.

Du Pont Powder preferred sold off, on suits filed against the company. North Shore Electric was fairly active from 94 to 95. Union Carbide sold at 113½. Diamond Rubber has advanced to 280 bid. Quotations:

Dividends Declared.

The Great Northern railway company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent, payable Aug. 1 to holders of record July 11.

The executive committee of the National Carbon company declared a dividend of 1½c on the common stock, payable July 15 to stockholders of record July 5.

Money and Exchange.

Money in Chicago steady at 3½@4½ per cent on commercial and local collateral loans and 4@6 per cent over the counter.

New York exchange sold at 40c premium before and after clearings.

Chicago clearings were $42,799,475.

Personal Mention.

Henry Blair left for New York yesterday to go over the "L" merger situation with the eastern bankers.

General Financial News.

It is announced that the mining property owned by the Gould roads near Needles, Ariz., has been purchased by the United States Refining and Smelting company. The price is said to have been $1,435,000.

It is announced that during the fiscal year which will end next Saturday, $77,200 of old Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway stock will have been exchanged for $54,040 Rock Island company preferred and $77,200 Rock Island common. This gives the Rock Island company, through ownership of all the capital stock of the railroad company, possession of $71,284,600 of the outstanding $74,877,200 stock of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway company. The total amounts to 95.2 per cent.

ERIE RAILROAD.

For the eleven and one-half months to June 14 gross revenues of the Erie railroad show an increase of $1,550,000. In the first ten months of the present year operating expenses and taxes show an increase of 0.8 per cent of gross. Transportation costs increased 0.6 per cent. The volume of business handled was 2.7 per cent greater this year than last.

On the basis of over $6,600,000 surplus earnings for the year, before deduction of appropriations for improvements and betterment expenditures, the company will show the full 4 per cent dividends earned on both classes of preferred stock and about 3 per cent on the $112,378,000 common outstanding. There is, however, no likelihood of a distribution on the common shares.

S. P. BOOMED IN NEW YORK

Harriman Stock Strong as Result of Union Pacific Decision.

REACTION IN AFTERNOON.

Close of Trading Brings Down Shares Which Had Showed Earlier Gains.

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—A reaction at the close of trading on the stock exchange today materially reduced many earlier gains and in some instances carried prices below the closing prices of last Friday.

The loss of the government's suit against the Union Pacific found further reflection at the outset of today's market, Southern Pacific in particular showing decided strength, while Union Pacific, on the first few transactions, showed a gain well in excess of a point.

The rest of the market did not follow these shares to the same extent as on Saturday, and before the morning was over irregularity had developed, which prevailed during the rest of the session, with a rather sharp reaction just before 3 o'clock.

Defies Afternoon Selling.

Southern Pacific withstood the afternoon selling with only a fractional loss from its high price of the day, and showed a net gain of 2½ points, whereas Union Pacific's net improvement was confined to ⅛.

In connection with the strength of Southern Pacific, some attention was given to the suggestion that with the government's suit decided in favor of the Harriman lines, the long talked of increase in the Southern Pacific dividend from 6 to 7 per cent might be considered by the directors. It is somewhat early to discuss the probabilities in this direction, inasmuch as the quarterly dividend, declared last month, remains to be paid, and it will be nigh two months before the dividend question will again come before the board.

Trading in Bonds Quiet.

Bond dealers report that general trading in bonds is quiet. One of the conditions with which bond houses are now contending is the willingness of many investors to place their money in preferred stocks carrying the usual generous dividend rates rather than in bonds yielding a necessarily much lower return.

Money on call steady, 2¼@2½ per cent; ruling rate, 2⅜; closing bid, 2¼; offered at 2½. Time loans firmer; 60 days, 2½@2¾ per cent; 90 days, 2⅞@3; six months, 3¼@3½. Prime mercantile paper, 4@4½ per cent. Sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bill at 4.84 for 60 day bills and 4.8595 for demand. Commercial bills, 4.83½. Bar silver, 52⅝c. Mexican dollars, 45c. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds irregular.

IN THE BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., June 26.—[Special.]—American Telephone continued active, being fractionally above 149, while rights sold at 7 and a fraction. Other active stocks today were Steel, which sold above 79; North Butte, East Butte, and American Woolen, which sold well above 91. Copper stocks were not as lively today. Amalgamated sold under 71 most of the session. Call money, 2½ per cent; time loans, six months, 3¼@4 per cent; time loans, year, 4@4½ per cent.

IN FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

LONDON, June 26.—Money was in increased demand for month end requirements today. Discount rates hardened following the purchase by Germany of most of the $5,000,000 South African gold available in the open market. The stock market was quiet but fairly cheerful. Home rails were weak exceptions and declined on fears of the effect of the shipping strike on traffic. Kaffirs, copper stocks, and Mexican rails ruled firmer.

$10,000,000 Jones & Laughlin Steel Company First Mortgage Thirty-Year Sinking Fund 5% Gold Bonds

Dated May 1, 1909. Due May 1, 1939. Authorized issue $30,000,000. Issued $25,000,000. Interest payable May 1st and November 1st at First Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago, or the agency of the Company in New York. Coupon Bonds, or may be registered as to principal. Redeemable after May 1st, 1914, at 105 and interest. First Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago, Trustee.

A letter from the President of the Company on file at our office emphasizes the following statements:

1. Secured by an absolute first mortgage on all the property now owned by the Company and additional property acquired by these bonds.
2. The property consists of real estate, furnaces, steel mills, including the new modern plant of the Company at Aliquippa, which is recognized as one of the most modern, convenient and economical plants to be found in the country.
3. Through its subsidiary companies, whose stocks are pledged to secure these bonds, it controls ore lands, coal lands and limestone property sufficient to supply the Company many years beyond the term of the bonds.
4. During the last two years the Company has invested twenty million dollars in the new plant and additions and betterments to its former property.
5. The Company is required to keep net quick assets of eight million dollars as long as a like amount of bonds remain outstanding.
6. A sinking fund is provided which will approximately retire the bonds at maturity.
7. The average yearly earnings for the last ten years were more than four times the interest payment on the outstanding bonds.

Having sold a large part of these bonds, the undersigned offer the remainder at 102½ and accrued interest.

We regard these bonds a desirable investment for banks, trustees and private investors, and recommend their purchase.

$200,000 Aberdeen Light & Power Company

First Mortgage 6% Twenty Year Gold Bonds

Dated June 1, 1911. Due June 1, 1931.

Denominations, $100, $500 and $1,000.

We recommend the bonds of this issue as an unusually attractive investment for the following reasons:

1. Liberal franchises extending well beyond the maturity of the bonds.
2. Entire control of business field, including favorable city contracts for lighting and power.
3. Net earnings for past year two and one-half times interest charges and at the present time practically three times interest charges.
4. Unusually strong Sinking Fund provision, making a constantly increasing margin of equity over the bond issue.
5. Physical value of property largely in excess of bonded debt.
6. Control of Company in the hands of conservative men of very large financial resources and especially successful experience in operation of similar concerns.

Aberdeen is generally conceded to be the most prosperous and rapidly growing city in the two Dakotas, and the most important business center in the Northwest next to the twin cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis.

The legality of the bond issue, mortgage, franchises and incorporation of the Company has been approved by Matz, Fisher & Boyden, of Chicago. The books of the Company have been audited by Marwick, Mitchell & Co. These reports are on file in our office and inspection of them is invited.

GRAIN LIST FIRM; CROP SCARE AIDS

Damage from Heat Wave Big Factor in Boosting Corn and Oats.

GOOD RAINS NORTHWEST.

New Wheat Here Presaging Early Run; Country Sells All Cereals Freely.

Wheat showed a stronger tone yesterday than was expected in view of the general rains in the northwest and in other sections where there has been no end to the drought talk recently. Commission houses were good buyers and there was a dearth of offerings at times which made it difficult to buy. Liverpool came unexpectedly higher, and this checked the selling tendency at the start. Closing quotations were ⅛@⅜c to ⅝c higher.

Armour, T. D. O'Brien, Bartlett-Frazier, and Knight-McDougal were good buyers, and selling was scattered. The local crowd appeared to be short at the start, and there was no pressure to sell. The strength in coarse grains was a big factor in steadying the market, and while reports from the northwest were more optimistic the crop losses in South Dakota were inclined to make the average trader uneasy about selling on the dips.

No Betterment in Cash Demand.

The cash situation showed no improvement. Country offerings were liberal, and on the other hand there was no demand, cash buyers being averse to buying much wheat houses being averse to buying much wheat of the season was received from Missouri, and graded No. 2 red, selling at 1c over July on track. Farmers were more disposed to sell wheat as well as other grains on account of the rains.

Crop reports from the northwest where there have been good rains and cooler weather are favorable. Great damage is admitted in South Dakota, but well posted men in the spring wheat territory believe the crop in North Dakota, Minnesota, and Montana will make up for the losses in South Dakota if there are no further unfavorable developments. Crop expert Snow estimates the South Dakota crop at only 15,000,000 bu, and says damage also has been great in southern Minnesota.

Russia Is Heavy Shipper.

Liverpool closed ⅛@⅜d higher without and logical reason. Offerings from Russia and Argentina were liberal, and there was an indifferent demand for spot wheat. Paris was ¼c up to ⅜c lower; Antwerp, ⅝c off; Berlin, ½c up; and Budapest, 1⅜c lower. World's shipments were larger than expected at 11,632,000 bu and there was a decrease in on passage stocks of 8,224,000 bu. The domestic visible decreased 1,127,000 bu, compared to a loss a year ago of 1,958,000 bu, local stocks losing 130,000 bu. Canadian supplies decreased 420,000 bu.

Receipts here were 5 cars, with 25 cars the estimate for today. At western centers receipts footed up a total of 548,000 bu, against 687,000 bu a year ago. Minneapolis and Duluth had 326 cars, compared to 428 cars last year, and Minneapolis stocks decreased 160,000 bu for two days.

Southwest News Booms Corn.

Corn was firm right from the start, bein influenced by the reports from the southwest showing the highest temperatures ever known all through Kansas. Offerings were light and the strength in oats helped the buyers. Bartlett-Frazier following bought heavily and Pringle, Cudahy, Tietgens, and Cutten were heavy buyers. Lamson, Nye-Jenks, Ware-Leland, and Armour were sellers early. Last prices were 1@1¼c to 1¾c higher.

Over the greater part of the belt there were heavy rains. In Kansas, however, temperatures ranged from 100 to 115, and extremely high temperatures were reported in Oklahoma and Missouri. These reports started the buying. Cash offerings liberal, but there was a good demand, with sales of 180,000 bu, and prices were ½c higher. Liverpool was ¼@⅜d lower.

World's shipments were heavy at 5,085,000 bu and stocks on passage increased 512,000 bu. The visible gained 1,420,000 bu, against an increase of 82,000 bu a year ago. Receipts here were 329 cars, with 472 cars the estimate for today. Primary receipts were 874,000 bu, against 1,093,000 bu a year ago.

Broad Trade in Oats Pit.

A big trade developed in oats, due largely to sensational reports of a local expert, who predicted as big a shortage as in 1907 and 1908. This stimulated a good deal of general buying and there was heavy accumulation of oats on th brak by Bartlett-Frazier. Howe was also a good buyer. Northwestern reports were more encouraging, but nearly every state, it is claimed, has gone back since June 1. Receipts here were 103 cars, with 195 cars the expectation for today. In the west receipts were 584,000 bu, compared to 420,000 bu last year. The visible decreased 333,000 bu. Cash prices were ½@1c higher, and sales were 210,000 bu. Predictions were for unsettled weather in the eastern portion of the belt.

Firm Tone in Provisions.

Provisions finished a little higher, but there was not much activity in the trading and local transactions were of moderate volume. Exports last week were again heavy compared to a year ago, and average weights last week at all points were much lighter than a year ago. Receipts here were 41,000, with 17,000 expected today. Western receipts were 91,800, against 76,500 a year ago. Cash trade was reported fairly satisfactory. Lard quotations at Liverpool were 3d lower and on backs 1s off. Receipts of product here were 31 cars; shipments, 84 cars.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF BOARD OF TRADE.

The midsummer meeting of the council of North American grain exchanges will be held at Milwaukee June 28 and 29. The headquarters of the council will be at the Hotel Pfister. In addition to the reports by the different committees there will be addresses by President W. P. Bishop of the Milwaukee chamber of commerce, Bert H. Lang of St. Louis, James Bradley of Chicago, H. W. Daub of St. Louis, and Frank I. King of Toledo. The topics for informal discussion will be: Regulation of traveling solicitors, a federal bucket shop law, reciprocal demurrage, elimination of corners, prohibition of advances by receivers to country shippers except on bills of lading, and the recent decision under the pure food law in the Hall-Baker case as affecting grain shipments.

The committee on crop improvement, of which J. C. Murray of Chicago is chairman, has been doing much work and the report of that committee is expected to be decidedly interesting. The council now represents fifteen American grain exchanges. The present head of the organization is Hiram N. Sager of Chicago, for two years president of the Chicago board. The vice presidents are Charles Kennedy, Buffalo; A. W. Frick, Duluth; E. P. Peck, Omaha; treasurer, W. M. Richardson, Philadelphia; secretary, J. R. Pickell, Chicago.

B. W. Snow's report on the oats situation was sensational. He said: "I have enough local reports to indicate the oats shortage is going to be sensational. On June 1 Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, and South Dakota had averages so high they held up the general average. Now Nebraska, northwestern Iowa, and the south half of Minnesota are very low and South Dakota is a failure. In addition the crop in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, and Oklahoma has had a further shrinkage. It looks now like a failure as bad as in 1907 and 1908, and it will be coupled with the shortest hay crop in years."

In regard to wheat Snow, who returned from his northwest trip Sunday, said: "I doubt if South Dakota will make 15,000,000 bu. In North Dakota there is much damage south of the Northern Pacific line and in the extreme west. Burned spots are already showing in the fields. A continuation of hot weather for another week would cause ruin. In the northern part of the state the damage is slight. In southwestern Minnesota as far north as the Minnesota river oats and wheat are badly scorched, but the rest of the state is in good condition."

The Armour Grain company has entered the St. Louis elevator field, according to press advices from that place yesterday. The big local concern has leased the Mississippi elevator, which is one of the largest grain elevators in St. Louis. The elevator, it is stated, will be managed for the Bros. Grain company. George E. aMrcy, president Armour Grain company by Fred Seele of the Seele of the Armour Grain company, and Edward James were in St. Louis last week completing the arrangements. It is understood that the Armour concern has contracts for 150,000 bu July wheat at St. Louis, which it expects to get on delivery. It is also expected it will handle large quantities of new soft winter wheat. The Armour company will take charge of the elevator July 1.

While traders in corn and oats were working themselves into a high state of excitement over the Snow report, there were many advices from Nebraska and Iowa saying that the general prospects for crops were excellent, and there were many messages from other sections stating that the recent rains had worked great improvement in the crop situation. Re Qua had a report from Tekemah, Neb., saying: "Our winter wheat is fine; oats are good, and spring wheat is first class. I never saw corn looking so well in this territory—central Nebraska—as it does now. In fact, in this section all crops look the best in history of the state."

The first car of new winter wheat of the season arrived here yesterday. It was received by W. H. Perrine and sold at 90c, or 1c over the July. It graded No. 2 red and tested 58 lbs. The wheat was shipped from a Missouri point. This is the earliest date a car of new wheat has been received at Chicago in many years. It is expected there will be a fair run of new wheat by the end of the week. Practically every cash house had requests for bids on wheat from different sections, but were not at all anxious to buy. Prices relatively were a little easier than last week and purchases in view of the amount offered were light.

Provision men believe that the big runs of hogs the last few months have been the result of premature marketing on account of the dry weather, especially in the southwest. As proof of this they point to the smaller average weights at Kansas City and other markets. A Kansas City correspondent of Schwabacher wired: "Average weight of hogs last week barely 200 lbs, against 212 lbs a year ago. There is an abnormal number of light pigs coming to market." Another message quoted average weight 196 lbs there last few days, against 210 lbs for same period a year ago.

United States visible supply of wheat decreased 1,127,000 bu last week. Corn increased 1,420,000 bu, oats decreased 333,000 bu, rye increased 5,000 bu, and barley decreased 50,000 bu. Detailed figures follow:

	This week.	Last week.	Last year.

From Harlan, Ia., there was a message saying small grains in corn were splendid. Parker, S. D., wire to Rosenbaum Grain company said a two inch rainfall was of great benefit to late oats, and made corn safe for three weeks. Sioux City message to same firm said that Iowa prospects much improved as result of rains and that farmers were more willing to sell. Except in Kansas and parts of Nebraska and Missouri rains were quite general throughout the wheat and corn belts.

Bids on the call for wheat to arrive were ⅛@1c higher; corn, 1@1¼c higher; oats, unchanged to 1⅜c higher; and rye, unchanged. Sales were 1,500 bu No. 3 white oats or better, shipment by Aug. 31, 42c Illinois proportional.

Offerings of corn and oats were larger from the country, but there was a fair demand, and sales were 180,000 bu corn and 210,000 bu oats. Prices were about ½@1c higher for corn and 1@1½c up for oats.

Receipts of wheat at Winnipeg were 250 cars, compared with 185 cars a week ago and 65 cars the corresponding day last year.

The Canadian visible supply of wheat decreased 420,000 bu last week, oats increased 196,000 bu, and barley decreased 98,000 bu.

Estimated receipts are: Wheat, 25 cars; corn, 472 cars; oats, 195 cars; rye, 2 cars; barley, 29 cars; hogs, 17,000.

Charters were made for 185,000 bu of corn at 1c to Buffalo.

PLAN ATTACK ON 2 CENT FARE LAWS

Eastern Roads to Bring Legal Tests in Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio.

BEGIN COMPILING DATA.

Result of Favorable Decisions in Western States; Rate Clerks Furnish "Ammunition."

The railroads running eastward from Chicago are planning a united attack in the courts on the validity of the 2 cent fare laws in the states of Illinois, Ohio, and Indiana. It is their hope that a legal test will result in as favorable decisions as have been rendered by federal judges in western states where the fare laws have been contested.

A meeting of rate clerks, one for each of the roads represented in the Central Passenger association, was held in Chicago yesterday in the passenger association rooms in The Tribune building for the purpose of preparing and formulating preliminary data regarding the operation of the fare restricting laws and their effect on the revenues and number of passengers carried. This will be for the use of the legal authorities of the various roads that are planning the contests. The roads in the association include those operating in the territory between the Mississippi river and the Buffalo-Pittsburg line.

Call Issued to All Roads.

The call for the rate clerks' meeting was issued on Friday in a circular letter addressed by Chairman F. C. Donald of the Central Passenger association to the general passenger agents of the various member companies asking each to appoint a rate clerk to attend the meeting. The letter stated the legal committee, composed of attorneys for the various roads, felt that the data required for their decision as to the possibility of a successful legal contest could be compiled more satisfactorily by the rate clerks than by the auditors or legal departments.

No definite decision has yet been reached to bring suits attacking the laws. This will be based on the conclusions derived from the data presented, and a settlement of several questions as to how, when, and where the contest is to be begun will follow.

Make No Secret of Purpose.

No secret has been made by the roads, however, of the fact that they intend to attack the low fare laws wherever possible. The move of the Central Passenger association lines is but a part of the general onslaught of the roads against the 2 cent laws, which has resulted successfully thus far in the west in four states in which a decision has been rendered by a federal court. These include Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, and Minnesota, and litigation is pending in several other states. The Missouri case has been argued before the United States Supreme court and an appeal is planned in the Minnesota case.

To Reduce Flour Rates.

Many flour mills near Minneapolis on the lines of the Rock Island road now paying a higher rate to East St. Louis than that charged from Minneapolis will find their freight rates reduced by Sept. 1. This was announced during the day by R. G. Brown of the Rock Island tariff department during a hearing on the long and short haul clause before Examiner Thurtell of the interstate commerce commission in the federal building. The hearing is being held to consider the arguments of the roads in behalf of maintaining in some instances higher rates for short hauls than for long hauls, which is contrary to the new law except when approved by the commission.

The Illinois Central's new all steel "daylight special" train, which is to be put into service between Chicago and St. Louis at 10:02 today, will be placed on inspection at a private track north of the Central station this afternoon from 2 to 5.

COTTON.

NEW YORK, June 26.—The gist of the crop reports today was favorable and prices gave way. Rightly or wrongly, it is said a big settlement of July transactions has been effected, the amount involved being estimated at anywhere from 25,000 to 75,000 bales for account of a large Texas bull operator on the one hand and prominent spot interests on the other. It was also noticed that the July liquidation continued for account of spot interests and Wall street houses and that that month was especially depressed. In fact, it sold below the price of August, something which close students of cotton prices do not remember to have happened before for years past. This circumstance seemed to lend color to the rumors of a July settlement between Scales, McFadden, and others. Spot closed quiet, 25 pointes lower; middling uplands, 14.75c; middling gulf, 15.00c. No sales. Futures closed steady at 4 to 27 points' decline, the latter on July. Estimated sales, 200,000 bales. Prices:

5% BONDS
ON A
Downtown Office Building.

We have available a small block of an issue of 5% First Mortgage Bonds secured by a new 17-story steel fireproof office building located in the central business district of Chicago. The property is conservatively valued at almost twice the amount of the bond issue. The present total income from the property is about two and one-half times the maximum annual requirement for interest and serial installments of the principal. The net rental each month is turned over to Peabody, Houghteling & Co. for the protection of the bondholders. The bonds mature in annual series from January 1, 1912, to January 1, 1921.

Example No. 11

In 1897 we sold Raleigh & Augusta First 6s at 104. The bonds are now an underlying lien of the Seaboard Air Line and are 115 bid, an advance of 11 points. The road is bonded at $10,000 a mile.

Recurring Opportunities

We now offer, to yield 5.15%, the First Mortgage Bonds of a Company operating in the same territory. Total bonded debt limited to $10,000 a mile; earnings more than double interest charges. The Company is independent, connects with four important Systems, and would be of great value to any of them.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

Cable's Real Values

An unusual opportunity to buy Pianos and Player-Pianos at less than their real value is presented by us, due to the fact that we have over 400 pianos of nearly every known make that have been returned from rental, taken in exchange or taken for storage or repair. This tremendous stock we are anxious to reduce, so have priced these instruments at very much less than we would obtain for them if we could afford to wait for a normal sale. Every instrument offered for sale is either in the best possible condition or will be put in such condition before delivery. We have one department in our main wareroom, Wabash and Jackson devoted to this class of merchandise. However, a great saving may be effected if the purchases are made at our Repair Factory, 2624 South Park-av., near Cottage Grove-av. Pianos bought from this repair factory direct are free from such expense as our General Sales Department entails and therefore can be bought at unusually low prices.

Among the instruments ready for delivery we mention a few below:

Haines	$100	Kroeger	$180
Emerson	110	Fischer	260
New England	80	Sterling	275

RAVINIA GOES TO NEW OWNERS

Deeds of Transfer Will Be Ready for Recording by Tomorrow.

OPEN PARK ON JULY 3.

Orchestras, Grand Opera, and Vaudeville to Be Attractions for the Summer.

Tomorrow will virtually see the close of the long fight to save Ravinia park. The deed of transfer of the land from the present owners to the new Ravinia company will then be put on record.

At a meeting of the old Ravinia company, which was incorporated for $5,000, last week it was decided to reincorporate with a capital of $150,000. Seventy-five thousand dollars' worth of stock has been subscribed by about 165 residents of the north shore, and $100,000 worth of bonds will be issued.

Fifty thousand dollars in cash and $50,000 worth of bonds will go to the present owners. About $11,000 in cash will be used to pay up the debts from taxes and insurance and incidentals. This will leave $50,000 worth of bonds, which will be held by the Chicago Title and Trust company, and sold only as further improvements on the park are made. The company will have about $15,000 in cash remaining to start the season.

Open Park on July 3.

The park will open at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, July 3. The first attraction will be the Thomas orchestra, which will give concerts in the pavilion every afternoon and evening for two weeks. The new management is making a special effort to furnish good music for the ten weeks' season.

The Chicago grand opera orchestra will be one of the attractions of the season. Other orchestras engaged are the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, and a Russian orchestra from the east. An attempt has been made to secure the Damrosch orchestra. There are to be special soloists also, the first of whom will be Miss Eva Mylott.

Arrangements are also being made to have grand opera in English, and a company will probably be at Ravinia for a couple of weeks the latter part of August. The Ben Greet players have been secured, and they will give several plays in August. There will also be high class vaudeville shows in the Ravinia theater part of the summer.

Seek Patronage from Chicago.

It is said that an attempt will be made to get more of the people from Chicago to the park instead of relying for patronage principally upon the north shore population. The sale of season tickets on the north shore has been much better than ever before, however. The prices will remain the same as formerly. The transportation companies will run special trains to the park.

A meeting of the officers and directors will be held this afternoon at the Union League club, and final arrangements for the transfer of the land will be made.
